GIFT OF

Dr. Horace Irie

P R E F A C E.

The first edition of Dr. EMILE OTTO'S "FRENCH CONVERSATION GRAMMAR" appeared at Heidelberg in 1859. A second edition was issued in 1863, upon which this first American edition is based. The present editor has not hesitated in making such changes as he deemed proper in the body of the work, abandoning, among other things, the names of the Latin cases, genitive, dative, etc., which, although they may be of help to the German student, can only confuse the American learner. The names of the tenses have also been changed, and, it is hoped, simplified. A few lessons have been added to Part I., and the chapter upon the Past Participle has been re-written. The preliminary lesson upon Pronunciation is also entirely new, and an English and French Vocabulary of the words that occur in the Themes has been added.

Boston, August, 1864.

FRENCH GRAMMAR.

PRONUNCIATION.

THE ALPHABET.

1. The written French alphabet is the same as the English. W and x are found only in words borrowed from other languages.

The names of the letters are given below in the French spelling as they are of little or no value to the beginner. In the new names the e in be, ke, de, gue, etc., is only sounded enough to allow the utterance of the consonant that precedes it, as in globe, cake, made, fatigue; j is sounded as s in pleasure. The vowels have their normal French sounds.—W when spoken of is called double V.

OLD NAMES. NEW NAMES.
A	a	a	a
B	b	bé	be
C	c	cé	ke (se)
D	d	dé	de
E	e	é	e
F	f	effe	fe
G	g	gé	gue(je)
H	h	ache	he
I	i	i	i
J	j	ji	je
K	k	ka	ke
L	l	elle	le
M	m	emme	me

OLD NAMES. NEW NAMES.
N	n	enne	ne
O	o	o	o
P	p	pé	pe
Q	q	ku	ke
R	r	erre	re
S	s	essee	se (ze)
T	t	té	te
U	u	u	u
V	v	vé	ve
X	x	ics	kse
Y	y	i grec	i
Z	z	zède	ze

DIVISION OF SYLLABLES.

2. Words are generally divided as in English ; but whenever it is possible a syllable must begin with a consonant. Hence, verbal and other terminations beginning with a vowel must be joined to the consonant that precedes ; thus ai-mer, but ai-me-rai ; chan-ter, chan-te-rai, chan-te-rons.

As to x equal to gs, cs, its compound nature prevents its separation from the vowel that precedes : hence the following division ex-em-ple.

In writing, silent h apparently begins a syllable, as in in-hé-rent ; but in the spoken syllables, silent h has no value whatever ; and a consonant between a vowel and a silent h is separated from that vowel in the spoken though not in the written language ; hence the following divisions.

Written.	Pronounced.
in-hu-main	i-nhu-main
in-ha-bi-lè	i-nha-bile
in-hé-rent	i-nhé-rent
bon-heur	bo-nheur

If these words were pronounced according to the written divisions, they would begin with a nasal sound ; but they do not. (See Nasal vowels, 37.)

SYLLABIC ACCENT, OR STRESS.

As compared with English, French is generally said to have no syllabic accent. Such a stress of voice as is heard in the words ac'cent and accent' does not occur in French ; but the following rule explains the uniformity of the English accent on the last syllable in words newly introduced from the French, such as barouche, surtout, machine, fatigue, etc.

3. In French each syllable of a word must be pronounced smoothly, the voice resting upon the last, unless it ends in e mute, in which case the syllable before the last is slightly accented. Ex. constitution, indubitable.

ACCENTS, — ORTHOGRAPHIC MARKS.

4. Three orthographic marks, the acute (´), the grave (`), and the circumflex (^), have received the name of accents.

These marks never affect a syllable; they can only modify the sound of a vowel over which they are placed. Sometimes they have a mere orthographic value. They must never be neglected in writing.

5. The ACUTE (´) is used only over the vowel e (é), which then has the sound of a in date. Ex. été, donné.

6. The GRAVE (`) or open accent is used principally over e (è), which then has the sound of e in ebb or of e in there. Ex. fève, père. Over a and u it is only used to distinguish words otherwise similarly spelled, and does not affect the pronunciation. Ex. la, the; là, there; a, has; à, to; ou, or; où, where.

7. The CIRCUMFLEX (^) is used over all the vowels, which are then long. Ex. âge, côte, sûr.

The circumflex denotes that a contraction has taken place; thus âge and sûr were formerly spelled age and seur. Often an s has been dropped in modern French which still remains in the English word taken from the old French. Ex. île, isle; hâte, haste; forêt, forest; tempête, tempest.

8. The CEDILLA is placed under the c (ç) when it has the sound of s before a, o, u. Ex. façade, garçon, reçu.

9. The DIERESIS (¨ Tréma) is used over e, i, and u; in which case these letters do not coalesce with the preceding vowel, but begin a new syllable. Ex. haïr, Noël, aiguë, are pronounced ha-ir, No-el, ai-gu-e, (the last e is silent.)

SIMPLE VOWELS.

A.

10. A long has the sound of a in far. Ex. âme, soul; pâte, paste; cas, case.

11. Short a differs from long a principally in quantity. It has the sound of a in the Interjection ha! pronounced quick. Ex. la, the; patte, paw.

E.

12. E unaccented, when it ends a syllable in the middle of a word, and in the monosyllables ce, de, je, le, me, ne, que, se and te, has the indistinct sound of e in Battery. Ex. lever, to raise; regard, look.

13. E unaccented final is mute. Ex. table, table.

14. E with an acute accent (é) has the sound of a in date. Ex. été, summer; donné, given.

E unaccented takes the sound of é (a in date) before final d, r, z, mute, also at the beginning of a word before a double consonant. Ex. pied, foot; donner, to give; assez, enough; effet, effect; et, and, is always pronounced é.

15. E with the grave (è) or with the circumflex accent (ê) is more or less open, varying between e in ebb, and e in where. Ex. rêve, dream; père, father; forêt, forest; après, after.

E unaccented takes the sound of è (e in ebb) when preceding c, f, l, r, s, t, or x in the same syllable and in the middle of a word before any double consonant. Before r, the sound is more open than before the other letters. Ex. fer, iron; dessert, dessert; terre, earth; tendresse, tenderness; sonnette, bell; chef, chief; mes, my; est, is; esprit, spirit. In the last words the e is pronounced by many persons very nearly like é especially in rapid conversation. Even é often loses its broad, long sound.

16. E takes the sound of French a in femme, solennel, indemniser, and in all adverbial terminations in ement.

17. E is silent between g and a or o. Ex. pigeon, pigeon; mangeons, (we) eat; mangeant, eating. In these words the e merely serves to prevent g from having the hard sound of g in go.

For further observations on e mute, see page 26.

I.

18. I has only one sound, that of i in machine;—long in vie, life; rire, to laugh;—short in fini, finished; ici, here.

O.

19. O, when long, has the sound of o in rose. Ex. côté, side; dose, dose.

20. O short has a sound between the o in rob and the u in rub. Ex. Rome, robe, mode.

21. O before final re or r and a final consonant has the sound of o in lord. Ex. aurore, dawn; alors, then; bord, border.

O is silent in Laon, paon, and faon.

U.

22. French u has no equivalent in English. To acquire the sound, place the lips as if about to whistle, leaving the aperture very small; keeping the lips in this position try to utter e as in me. Ex. murmure, murmur.

U may be long as in mûr, ripe; or short as in vertu, virtue.

23. U is silent after q and between g and e or i. Ex. guide, guide; question, question; quatre, four; fatigue, fatigue.

EXCEPTIONS. — U is sounded when the vowel after it is marked with the diæresis, as aiguë, acute; also in arguer, to argue; aiguille, needle; aiguiser, to sharpen; etc. Qu is sounded as in English in a few words directly derived from the Latin. These words are alike or nearly alike in French and English. Ex. équateur, équation, quadrupède, etc. In équitation, ubiquité, and a few other words, u retains the proper French sound.

Y.

24. Y, initial, or between two consonants, has the sound of French i. Ex. style, style; y, there.

25. Y between two vowels is equivalent to ii, the first i forming a diphthong with the preceding, the second with the following vowel. Thus, essayer, to try; royal, royal; appuyer, to lean; are pronounced as if written essai-ier, roi-ial, appui-ier. (See ai and oi.)

In pays, country; paysage, landscape; paysan, peasant; ay is equivalent to ai-i.

COMPOUND VOWELS.

AI and EI (ay).

26. Ai and ei are equivalent sometimes to è, sometimes to é. Ai final is always like é; in other cases it takes the sound of è, — whenever e unaccented would have that sound. (See under E.)

Ex. reine, queen; j'aimai, I loved; j'avais, I had; lait, milk.

Ay, followed by a vowel, is equivalent to ai-i. Ex. rayer.

Ai in the present participle of the verb faire and in the corresponding syllables of all the forms derived from it, has the indistinct sound of e in battery. Ex. faisant, je faisais, tu faisais, il faisait, je défaisais, bienfaisant, etc. These forms were all written formerly as they are pronounced: fesant, je défesais, etc.; compare the future of the same verb, which is je ferai and not fuirai.

AU.

27. Au and eau sound like o in note. Ex. haut, high; beau, handsome.

EU ŒU, (œ.)

28. Eu (œu) has no exact equivalent in English; it is somewhat like the u in fur. It is longer in jeûne, fast, peur, fear, cœur, heart, than in jeune, young, feu, fire, and œuf, egg.

Œ has the sound of eu before liquid l, — as in œil, eye.

Eu, whenever it occurs in the conjugation of the verb avoir, to have, has the sound of simple French u, so that J'eus, tu eus, il eut, etc., must be pronounced as if written j'us, tu us, il ut, etc.

OU.

29. Ou has the sound of oo in poor. It is long in roue, wheel; boule, ball; short in mou, soft; cou, neck.

DIPHTHONGS.

30. The vowels i, u, ou, o, preceding a vowel sound, may coalesce with it and produce a diphthong.

These vowel sounds (i, u, ou, o,) are the only ones that can be initial in a true diphthong; i. e. one in which two vowels are heard but coalesce into one syllable.

31. In French diphthongs the first vowel (i, u, ou, o) is uttered quick and short and the voice rests upon the second vowel element. The diphthongal combinations are: i-a, i-e (i-ai), — i-o (i-au), i-eu, i-ou, — o-a, o-e, o-i (wa), — ou-a, ou-ai, ou-e, ou-i, — u-a, u-e, u-i. The e in these combinations is not the e mute.

By paying attention to the above remark the diphthongs present no difficulty, as each vowel retains its proper sound, the first being very short; oi is the only exception.

OI. (oy.)

32. Oi is nearly like wa in water; more accurately oi is equivalent to French a preceded by a w sound. The a (ah) is more prolonged in voir, to see; poire, pear; than in roi, king; moi, me.

Oy, followed by a vowel, is equivalent to oi-i. Ex. royal.

NASAL VOWELS.

33. M and N, following a vowel in the same syllable, lose their power as consonants, and form with that vowel a nasal sound which is in every respect a vowel.

34. The nasals form four groups, viz.: —

A.	E, AI.	O.	EU.
an, am.	ain, aim.	on, om.	eun.
en, em.	in, im. (ym.)		un, um.

To acquire these sounds the organs of speech should be kept in the same position as they are in uttering the simple vowel that is to be nasalized; the back part of the tongue being raised enough to close the passage between the mouth and the nose. The same is done in English in such words as anger, ink, want; but in English the nasal sound is not detached from the next consonant, while in French it is. No m or n consonant sound must be heard. To avoid this, the tip of the tongue must be kept motionless and the lips disposed to articulate a vowel. French a, thus uttered, will give an; — è (ai), (not i in machine) gives in (ain); — o gives on; — eu (not French u) gives un (eun).

The nasal sounds may coalesce with a previous i, u, ou, or o, and form a nasal diphthong, to which all that has been said of the other diphthongs is applicable.

35. The following list presents the nasal combinations.

N. B. The English equivalents of the French nasal vowels are all necessarily imperfect, as no consonant m or n must be heard in the French sound they are meant to explain.

an	} an in	{	dans, lance, manger, vanter.
am			camp, ambre, ample, lampe.
en			want en, enfant, mentir, dent.
em			temps, empire, membre, trembler.
ian	} is equivalent to	{	viande.
ien			i-an patient. (See special rule for ien .)
in	} an in	{	pin, crin, vin, rincer.
im			impie, importe, imposer, imbu.
ym			thym, nymphe, symphonie.
ain			anger sain, bain, saint, crainte.
aim			faim, essaim, daim.
ein			sein, peindre, feindre, ceinture.
ien is equivalent to i-in , rien. (See special rule for ien .)
oin	“	“	“ w-in , foin, coin, point, moins.
on	} on in	{	non, conte, chanson, ronde.
om			song nom, comte, plomb, compris.
ion is equivalent to i-on , action, passion, question.
un	} no equivalent	{	un, brun, tribun, chacun.
um			in English, French parfum, humble.
eun			eu nasal. à jeun.

The nasal diphthongs ian, ion, are the simple sounds an, on, preceded by a short French i; oin is in preceded by a w sound. All other combinations may be decomposed in the same manner, as ou-in, ou-en, etc.

36. IEN final, and in verbs in enir, is equivalent to i-in or yin, (yan in yankee). Ex. chien, bien, viendrai, tiendront; in other cases, when followed by a consonant (not n), it is equivalent to i-an (yan) nasal. Ex. science, audience, patient, and all words in ient.

REMARK. In compound words, as bientôt, chiendent, ien retains the sound of the primitive words bien, chien.

37. M and N are not nasal when double or when between two vowels or a vowel and a silent h. Ex. année, innocent, homme, une, inouï, inutile, inhumain.

EXCEPTIONS. The nasal sound is heard in ennui and its derivatives; in emmener and all words beginning in emm; in enivrer and enorgueillir.

38. Ent in the third person plural of verbs is silent. Ex. ils aiment, they love; ils unirent, etc. In other cases ent final is equivalent to nasal an. Ex. content, contented; président, président;— while in the verbs, ils content, they relate, ils président, they preside, ent is silent.

39. En and em in a few foreign names have the sound of in. Ex. Mentor, Benjamin, Memphis. Em final, and sometimes am and im in foreign proper names, are not nasal. Ex. Jérusalem, Abraham, Selim. Um in words that still preserve their Latin form is not nasal, u having the sound of o. Ex. album, triumvir. In many other foreign words m and n final are not nasal. Ex. Eden, Hymen, amen, etc.

CONSONANTS.

GENERAL RULES.

40. Final consonants are silent except c, f, l, r. Ex. était, après, croix, pronounced as if written étais, après, croi.

REMARK. When several consonants occur at the end of a word with no vowel after them, they are all silent, except c, f, l, r. Ex. est, faits, ils, dards, pronounced as if written è, fai, il, dar.

EXCEPTIONS. In foreign proper names the final consonant is generally sounded. Ex. Brutus, Job.

41. A double consonant is pronounced as one letter. Ex. abbé, frapper, pronounced as if written a-bé, fra-per.

42. B, c, d, f, l, m, n, p, (ph,) q, v, and z are pronounced as in English.

Exceptions to the above general rules will be given under the various letters.

43. In English, consonants in the middle or at the beginning of words are often silent, as p and l in psalm; g in phlegm; l in calm. In French, consonants in a like position retain their proper sound. Thus in psaume, flegme, calme, the p, the g, and the l are fully sounded.

SPECIAL RULES.

B final is pronounced in radoub, rumb.

C has the sound of g in second and its derivatives.

44. Ç is pronounced as c in façade. Ex. garçon, leçon.

45. Ch has the sound of ch in machine. Ex. chaise, chercher.

Ch in many words, derived from the Greek and in several proper names has the sound of k. Ex. chaos, chœur, Michel-Ange. But ch has the sound of sh in Achille, patriarche, archevêque. It is silent in almanach.

Cc before e, i, and y is equivalent to k-s. Ex. accès, accident.

C final is silent after n. Ex. banc. It is silent in accroc, broc, clerc, estomac, lacs, tabac.

D final is heard in sud.

Dd. Two d's are heard when ad precedes a syllable beginning with a d. Ex. addition.

F final is silent in clef, chef-d'œuvre, bœufs, œufs; though sounded in chef, bœuf, œuf. F is silent in neuf, nine, only when the next word begins with a consonant, before a vowel it has the sound of v. Ex. neuf hommes.

G before a, o, u, sounds like g in game. Ex. garçon.

46. G before e, i, and y, sounds like s in pleasure. Ex. genre, gibet, général.

47. GN has a liquid sound something like ni in union. Ex. agneau, magnifique. This sound is produced with the body, not with the tip of the tongue against the roof of the mouth.

G is hard before n at the beginning of a word. Ex. gnomon; also in stagnant, inexpugnable, and in several words in eg and ig that seldom occur.

Gg. Two g's are heard in suggérer: the first hard, the last like s in pleasure.

G final is sounded in joug.

48. H is said to be mute or aspirate. When mute it is entirely disregarded in pronunciation, and the vowel that comes after it is pronounced with the preceding consonant, or causes the preceding vowel to be elided as if no letter intervened. Ex. l'homme, deux habits.

49. When h is aspirated no real aspiration is heard as in English; but the vowel that comes after it is pronounced strongly. H aspirate prevents linking and elision. Ex. le héros, deux héros.

50. There are about 300 words beginning with h aspirate. These comprise many marine terms, foreign words, and the words in the following list, and their derivatives.

REMARK. The derivatives of héros — heroïne, héroïque, héroïsme, — are not aspirated. But haleur, haine, hausser, etc., follow the analogy of their primitives habler, hair, haut, which alone are given in the list.

habler	hameau	hargueux	hennir
hache	hanche	haricot	Henri
hagard	hangar	haridelle	héraut
haie	hanneton	harnais	hérisson
haillons	hanter	harpe	hérissier
hair	harangue	harpie	héron
haire	haras	hasard	héros
hâle	harasser	hâte	herse
halle	hareeler	haut	heurter
hallebarde	hardes	hâve	hibou
hallier	hardi	hâvre	hideux
halte	hareng	havresac	hiérarchie
homard	houblon	houx	humer
honte	houille	huche	huppe
horde	houlette	huée	hure
hors	houppe	huguenot	hurler
hotte	housse	huit	hussard

51. J is pronounced like s in pleasure; it is never silent nor double. Ex. déjà, joujou.

L when not liquid sounds as in English. Ex. livre.

52. Il not initial, and il final, have a liquid sound somewhat like ll in William, brilliant. This sound, still prevalent in the southern and central parts of France, has been softened down to nearly a y in the north and especially in Paris, so that there, ill in tailleur is scarcely more audible than i in païen. Ex. fille, famille, gentille.

53. The vowel that precedes liquid ill or il, retains its proper sound and does not coalesce with the i; ue and æ are then equivalent to eu. Ex. muraille, patrouille, orgueil, œil.

54. Ill is not liquid, that is, l retains its proper sound, in words that begin with il. Ex. illustre, illisible; also in mille, ville, tranquille, pupille, Achille, osciller, vaciller, etc.

Il is not liquid in mil, fil, civil, profil.

L final is silent in baril, chenil, coutil, fournil, fusil, gril, gentil, sourcil, persil, outil. It is also silent in soûl, poulx, fils, and in the terminations ould, ault, ould, outl.

M and N, when not nasal, are pronounced as in English. Ex. manier.

M is silent in damner, automne, and their derivatives.

P is silent in baptême, sept, compte, dompter, exempter, sculpter.

Q is always followed by u except in coq and cinq, when it sounds like k. (For qu see u, 23.)

55. R is rolled, but with less force at the end than at the beginning of a syllable. Ex. grand, sœur; rr and rh are generally pronounced with more force than r alone. Ex. arriver, rhume.

In the future and conditional of the verbs acquérir, to acquire, courir, to run, mourir, to die, the two r's must be distinctly heard to distinguish them from other forms that have but one r. Thus nous courrons, vous acquerrez, ils mourraient, must not be pronounced like nous courons, vous acquérez, ils mouraient.

R final is generally pronounced, but final er is equivalent to é. Ex. parler, aimer. In monosyllables in er the r is sounded. Ex. fer, cher, mer. It is also sounded in amer, enfer, hier, hiver, and in a few words of foreign origin, as magister, etc. R is silent in monsieur.

56. S is generally sounded as in English; but in words ending isme, asme, etc., it has not the sound of z. Ex. prisme, miasme.

57. S between two vowels has the sound of z. Ex. rose, base, vase.

S has also the sound of z in words compounded with the Latin proposition trans, followed by a vowel. Ex. transitif, transition. It has the same sound before b, d, v, and after l. — Ex. presbytère, svelte, balsamique.

As s initial has the hissing sound as in English, — when a word beginning with an s takes a prefix, the s, though between two vowels, retains its hissing sound. Ex. vraisemblable (compounded of vrai and semblable), monosyllabe.

Sch is generally pronounced like sh. Ex. schisme. It has the sound of sk in a few words.

S final is sounded in words that have been taken from Greek and Latin without any change of orthography. Ex. atlas, blocus, gratis, etc. S is also sounded in cens, en-sus, maïs, mœurs, vis, Rheims, fils, sens (in some of its meanings), lis (not in fleur-de-lis), tous (when used without a noun).

T is generally sounded as in English.

58. In words corresponding in form to those in which t has in English an sh sound, it has in French the sound of ss. This occurs in tial, tiel, tier, tion, not initial or preceded by x or s. Ex. partial, essentiel, initier, nation. But bestial, bastion, mixture, have the pure t sound.

59. T has also the sound of s in words in tie, that have in English cy, or tia, in which t sounds like sh. Ex. prophétie, démocratie, minutie, initier, — also in balbutier. In other words in tie and tier, t retains the proper sound. Ex. moitié, métier.

Th is never pronounced as in English, but always like t alone, as pathétique.

T final is heard in brut, chut, correct, dot, direct, déficit, fat, exact, net, suspect, strict. In sept and huit, t is silent only when they precede a noun commencing with a consonant. Ex. huit garçons. In Christ, s and t are both pronounced; but in Jésus-Christ they are both silent. In vingt, t is pronounced only in the series between 20 and 30. Ex. vingt-cinq.

X has the sound of gs in words beginning with x or ex before a vowel or an h mute. Ex. Xavier, exil, exhumer.

In a few proper names x has the sound of ss. Ex. Bruxelles, Auxerre; it has also this sound in soixante, — and in six and dix when standing alone. In dix-huit and dix-neuf, x sounds like z.

X in other cases has the sound of ks. Ex. luxé, Aix-la-Chapelle.

Z is pronounced in gaz. When final in proper names it has the sound of s. Ex. Metz, Suez, etc.

LINKING OF FINAL CONSONANTS.

60. The final consonant of a word, closely connected in sense with the next word beginning with a vowel or silent h must generally be carried over. * In that case s and x are sounded like z; d like t, and g (seldom linked) like k. Ex. un grand homme, vous avez, ils ont, aux armes.

No general rule can be given embracing all the cases in which a final consonant must be thus linked. In poetry and in impressive reading, the linking must be made in many cases where it would sound unnatural and affected in daily conversation. It may be stated in general terms that the more closely connected the words are in sense, the more imperative it is to link them together in pronunciation. Certain words, such as et, riz, clef, plomb, loup, etc., can never be linked. Words ending in a nasal sound are seldom linked, except short words that recur frequently, such as on, en, un, mon, ton, son, bien, bon, etc. When a nasal n is linked, either the nasal sound is heard and an additional n pronounced before the next vowel, or the nasal is dropped altogether, thus un homme, on a, as if written unhomme, on na; or u-nhomme, o-na. In rapid speech the nasal sound almost always disappears; many omit it altogether. In some combinations, such as bon homme, bien heureux, it is never heard.

OBSERVATIONS ON E MUTE.

We have seen that e unaccented when final is mute, and that in the words ce, de, je, le, me, ne, que, se and te, and when it terminates a syllable not final, it has the indistinct sound of e in battery. In rapid utterance, however, even this feeble sound is not heard whenever the articulation connected with it can be distinctly uttered without it.

Hence the following rule:—

61. E unaccented ending a syllable is silent whenever the consonant before it can be pronounced either with a vowel that precedes or one that comes after it in the next syllable or word.

Practice and oral teaching only can make this law of euphony perfectly clear. In the following examples the e's printed in italics are not pronounced.

Voilà le chemin de fer.

There is the railway.

Je le sais.

I know it.

Je ne te le donne pas.

I do not give it to thee.

Beaucoup de monde.

Many persons.

Je ne me le propose pas.

I do not propose it to myself.

Etre attentif.

To be attentive.

Noble ardeur.

Noble ardor.

In the last two examples the r and l that precede the e are virtually carried over to the next word as if no e intervened, and tr and bl were final.

NOTE. Care must be taken not to pronounce tre, dre, ble, ple, cre, etc., as they are in English, that is as ter, der, bel, pel, etc., in order, temple, noble. In French the l and r must not be separated by any intervening sound from the consonant that precedes. Ex. ordre, aimable, quatre, nacre, peuple.

I. PREMIÈRE LEÇON.

THE ARTICLE.

1. IN the French language there are only two genders, viz., the masculine and the feminine. This distinction applies also to inanimate objects, which are either masculine or feminine.

2. The definite article has a peculiar form for each gender: le before a masculine, la before a feminine substantive; les is the plural of both genders. Ex. : —

Masc. Le roi, the king.
le père, the father.

Fem. La reine, the queen.
la mère, the mother.

3. Le and la in the singular lose their vowels and take the apostrophe (') before a noun beginning either with a vowel or h mute. Ex. : —

Masc. L'ami, the friend.
l'homme, the man.

Fem. L'amie, the (female) friend.
l'histoire, (the) history.

4. The indefinite article, answering to the English a or an, is un for the masculine; une for the feminine. Ex. :

Masc. Un roi, a king.
un père, a father.
un ami, a friend.

Fem. Une reine, a queen.
une mère, a mother.
une amie, a (female) friend.

VOCABULARY.

Le livre, the book.
le pain, the bread.
le cheval, the horse.
le chien, the dog.
l'oncle, the uncle.
l'enfant, the child.
l'or, the gold.
un jardin, a garden.

un chapeau, a hat, bonnet.
la rose, the rose.
la fleur, the flower.
la plume, the pen, feather.
la tante, the aunt.
une poire, a pear.
une pomme, an apple.
et, and.

S. J'ai, I have.
tu as, thou hast.
il a, he has.
elle a, she has.

Ai-je, have I?
as-tu, hast thou?
a-t-il, has he?
a-t-elle, has she?

Pl. nous avons, we have.
vous avez, you have.
ils ont, they have.
elles ont, they (fem) have.

avons-nous, have we?
avez-vous, have you?
ont-ils, have they?
ont-elles, have they?

REMARK 1. J'ai is for je ai. The e of je, I, is elided when the verb begins with a vowel or silent h.

2. Observe the hyphen by which the verb and pronoun are always joined in interrogations.

3. The t in a-t-il, a-t-elle, is merely euphonic. It is inserted to prevent the hiatus between two vowel sounds, when the third person singular of a verb ends in a vowel, and is followed by il, elle, on.

4. The use of the 2d person singular is much more frequent in French than in English. It generally denotes familiarity and intimacy. In addressing inferiors, it denotes authority; in poetry, its use is the same as in English.

5. When, in a question not beginning with an interrogative pronoun or an adverb, the subject is expressed by a substantive, it must begin the sentence, and the pronoun still be put after the verb. Ex.: — L'enfant a-t-il ? has the child? La mère a-t-elle ? has the mother?

 II. DEUXIÈME LEÇON.

FORMATION OF THE PLURAL.

1. GENERAL RULE. The plural is formed in French as in English, by the addition of an s to the singular. Ex. : —

Le roi,	Plur. les rois.	la pomme,	Plur. les pommes.
le livre,	les livres.	l'enfant,	les enfants.
l'homme,	les hommes.	l'ami,	les amis.

EXCEPTIONS.

2. Nouns ending in s, x, z, in the singular, remain unchanged.

Le fils, the son.	Plur. les fils, the sons.
la noix, the walnut,	les noix, the walnuts.
le nez, the nose.	les nez, the noses.

3. Words ending in au, eu, form their plural by adding x instead of s, as : —

Le chapeau, the hat or bonnet.	Plur. les chapeaux.
le feu, the fire.	les feux.
le lieu, the place.	les lieux.

REMARK. Seven nouns in ou take x in the plural, viz. :

Le chou , the cabbage.	le pou , the louse.
le bijou , the jewel.	le genou , the knee.
le caillou , the pebble.	le joujou , the plaything.
le hibou , the owl.

Plural : les choux, les bijoux, les cailloux, etc.

The others ending in ou follow the general rule and take s in the plural, as : le clou, the nail ; plur. les clous ; le trou, the hole ; plur. les trous, etc.

4. Nouns ending in al, ail, change these terminations into aux, to form the plural, as :

Le cheval , the horse.	Plur. Les chevaux .
l'animal , the animal.	les animaux .
le travail , the work.	les travaux .

REMARK. This rule, however, has a few exceptions, which follow the general rule, simply taking s in the plural, as : le bal, the ball ; le carnaval, the carnival ; le portail, the doorway ; le gouvernail, the helm ; l'éventail, the fan, etc. Plur. les bals, les carnavals, etc.

5. The following words form their plural irregularly. (The first three have also a regular plural. See Part II, L. II.)

Le ciel , heaven.	Plur. Les cieux , heavens.
l'œil , the eye.	les yeux , the eyes.
l'aïeul , the great-grandfather.	les aïeux , the ancestors.

le palais , the palace.	vu , seen. ou , or.
un tableau , a picture.	deux , two. trois , three.
le chat , the cat.	quatre , four. cinq , five.
le général , the general.	le bras , the arm.
la noix , the walnut.

Voici, here is, this is, here are, these are.

Voilà, there is, that is, there are, those are.

Voici is compounded of the imperative of voir, to see, and ici, here. It means therefore literally, see here. Voilà means see there. They both govern the objective case. Ex. me voici, here am I; literally, Behold me here.

S. J'avais, I had.

tu avais, thou hadst.

il avait, he had.

Combien de sœurs avez-vous?	J'ai deux sœurs.
Avez-vous vu les amis?	Nous n'avons pas vu les amis.

III. TROISIÈME LEÇON.

CASE—A—DE.

1. French nouns have no variation of termination to indicate case; the nominative and objective are, as in English, alike in form, and the possessive is expressed by the preposition de (of) and its object.

2. The possessor must, in French, follow the object possessed.

and be preceded by the article. e. g. The king's throne, must be transposed as if it were, the throne of the king ; Le trône du roi.

3. The preposition de (of, from,) appears either unchanged or contracted with the article. A contraction takes place whenever de occurs before the article le or les ; in the first case, it takes the form du (singular), in the second des (plural). Ex.

S. du roi (instead of de le roi,) of the king, or the king's.

du père (instead of de le père,) of the father, or the father's.

Pl. des rois (instead of de les rois,) of the kings, or the kings'.

des mères (instead of de les mères,) of the mothers.

4. Before la and l', de remains unaltered, as : — de la mère, of the mother, or the mother's.

de l'ami, of the friend, the friend's.

de l'homme, of (the) man, the man's.

5. Before the indefinite article un, une, an apostrophe is put instead of the e of de, as : — d'un roi, of a king.

d'une reine, of a queen.

d'un ami, of a friend.

d'une amie, of a female friend.

6. Before le, the preposition à (to) is contracted with this article to au ; and before les into aux ; as : — au (à le) roi, to the king.

aux (à les) rois, to the kings.

au “ frère, to the brother.

aux “ frères, to the brothers.

7. The definite article must be used in French before all nouns used in a general sense or denoting a whole species of objects, though in English the article is not employed ; as : —

Man, l'homme.

dinner, le dîner.

Hence, of man, of life, of fortune, etc., are to be translated in French de l'homme, de la vie, de la fortune, etc. ; to man, to life, to nature, etc., à l'homme, à la vie, à la nature.

8. In French the article is to be repeated before each substantive of a sentence, as : —

The salt, pepper and vinegar, — le sel, le poivre et le vinaigre.

The men, women and children, — les hommes, les femmes et les enfants.

V. CINQUIÈME LEÇON.

THE PARTITIVE ARTICLE

1. The partitive article answers to the English some or any, expressed in French by du before a noun masculine beginning with a consonant, by de la before a noun feminine beginning with a consonant, and by de l' before a noun of either gender beginning with a vowel or an h mute. Ex : —

Du pain, some or any bread.

de la bière, some beer.

du vin, (some or any) wine.

des roses, roses.

Some is not always used in English, whereas du, de la, de l', des, must always be expressed in French.

Is there any water ? y a-t-il de l'eau ?

3. The partitive article must be used whenever in English some or any is expressed or understood before a substantive ; it must be repeated before every substantive in a sentence. Ex. : —

Have you bread and cheese ? Avez-vous du pain et du fromage ?

Bring me some mustard, oil and vinegar.

Apportez-moi de la moutarde, de l'huile et du vinaigre.

4. However, when the substantive is preceded by an adjective, the simple preposition de or d' takes the place of the partitive article, in the singular as well as in the plural, as : —

S. de bon vin, some or any good wine.

de bonne viande, some or any good meat.

de mauvais café, some or any bad coffee.

d'excellente farine, some or any excellent flour.

XI. ONZIÈME LEÇON.

NEGATIONS. — THE NEGATIVE AND INTERROGATIVE FORMS OF THE AUXILIARIES.

1. The negation not is rendered by the two words ne . . . pas. Ne is placed before the verb and becomes n' before a vowel or silent h; pas is placed immediately after the verb. In compound tenses pas is placed between the auxiliary and the participle. In the infinitive ne and pas generally both precede the verb. Ex.

Je ne suis pas.

I am not.

Je n'ai pas eu.

I have not had.

Ne pas être, less frequently, n'être pas. Not to be.

2. The words jamais, ever, personne, person, and rien, anything, used with a verb preceded by ne mean respectively never, nobody, nothing. When the verb is understood, as in answers, the ne is omitted, and they have none the less a negative meaning. When used with a verb not preceded by ne they are always affirmative. Ex.

Avez-vous jamais rien vu de pareil ?

Have you ever seen anything similar ?

Je n'ai rien.

I have nothing.

Il n'a jamais tort.

He is never wrong.

Personne n'a sommeil.

Nobody is sleepy.

C'est une personne qui a sommeil.

It is a person that is sleepy.

Qui a sommeil ? Personne.

Who is sleepy ? Nobody.

Qu'avez-vous ? Rien.

What is the matter with you ? Nothing.

3. The words aucun, nul, no; nullement, nowise, not at all; ni . . . ni, neither . . . nor; guère, but little, but few; and que in the sense of but or only; also require the verb to be preceded by ne. Ne (the verb) plus means, no more, not any more left. Ex.

Je n'ai plus de pain.

I have no more bread.

Il n'a ni pain ni vin.

He has neither bread nor wine.

Elle n'a guère de patience.

She has but little patience.

Nul n'est parfait.

No one is perfect.

REMARK. After ni . . . ni nouns used in a partitive sense take neither preposition nor article ; as, ni pain ni vin.

For further rules on the negative see P. I. L. 33, and P. II. L. 15.

4. In interrogations the pronoun which is the subject of the verb is placed after it, and both are joined by a hyphen, as : aurez-vous ? avez-vous eu ? When the verb ends with a vowel, -t- is placed between the verb and il, elle, or on, as : aura-t-il ? a-t-on ? See also L. I. Rem. 5.

XVIII. DIX-HUITIÈME LEÇON.

THE PLACE OF ADJECTIVES.

1. GENERAL RULE. ADJECTIVES GENERALLY FOLLOW THEIR NOUNS.

2. PARTICULAR RULES. The following generally precede the substantive :

Beau , fine.	méchant , wicked.
bon , good.	meilleur , better.
grand , great, large.	moindre , less, least.
gros , big.	petit , little.
jeune , young.	saint holy.
mauvais , bad.	vieux , old. vrai , true.

Ex. : — Un beau pays, a fine country.
Une grande ville, a large town or city.
Un jeune lion, a young lion.
Un mauvais lit, a bad bed.
Un meilleur avis, a better advice.
Un vieux soldat, an old soldier, etc.

Note. Grand is placed after its noun, when it signifies tall: un homme grand, a tall man.

N. B. It is to be observed, that substantives preceded by an adjective, when used in the partitive sense, take only de before them, instead of du, de, la, or des. (See L. v., 4.) Ex. : De bon vin, (some) good wine; de belles fleurs, beautiful flowers.

Note. Exceptions to this rule are: du bon sens, good sense; des jeunes gens, young men; des petits pois, green peas; and other expressions in which the noun and adjective form really but one compound word.

3. Monosyllabic adjectives, except those denoting some physical property (color, taste, form, etc.), precede the noun. Ex. : Un long discours, un fol amour.

4. Adjectives qualifying a noun followed by a limiting phrase or clause, precede the noun. Ex. : L'immortel auteur du Paradis perdu.

5. Many adjectives, when taken in their literal sense, follow, when taken figuratively, precede the substantive, as : —

FIGURATIVELY.

LITERALLY.

Un tendre amitié, a tender friend-ship. De la viande tendre, tender meat.

mon pauvre enfant, my poor child. un enfant pauvre, a poor (indigent) child.

un profond silence, a deep silence. un fossé profond, a deep ditch.

6. Many adjectives take their place sometimes before, sometimes after the noun, without changing their signification, simply for the sake of euphony or stress. This is mostly to be seen when the adjective is preceded by the definite article or by ce, cette. We say, for instance : une vérité affreuse, a frightful truth, but, l'affreuse or cette affreuse vérité :

L'inflexible dureté des riches.

The inflexible hardness of the rich.

Cette affligeante nouvelle se répandit dans la ville.

This afflicting news spread (soon) in the town.

7. Some adjectives have a different meaning, according as they stand before or after their noun : —

Mon cher ami, my dear friend (denoting affection). Un livre cher, a dear book (denoting the price).

un brave homme, a worthy man. un homme brave, a brave (courageous) man.

un honnête homme, an honest man. un homme honnête, a civil or polite man.

la dernière année, the last year (of a certain space of time).¹ l'année dernière, last year (the past year).

DEGREES OF COMPARISON.

1. The comparative is formed by placing the adverb plus, more, before an adjective. The superlative by placing the article before the comparative, as :

2. There is in French also a lower and lowest degree which is effected by the words moins, less, for the comparative degree, and le moins, f. la moins, the lest, for the superlative, as :

REGULAR VERBS.—FIRST CONJUGATION.—
DONNER.

1. There are in French three regular conjugations, viz. : in er, ir, and re. Verbs in -oir belong to the irregular ones, as their root undergoes manifold changes.* The Infinitive mood is to be considered as the radical part or ground-form on which the conjugation depends. What precedes the termination er, ir, or re, is the root, which, with regular verbs, always remains unaltered. To this are added the different terminations, by which persons, tenses, and moods are distinguished, and which are common to all the verbs of that same conjugation.

* Only six other verbs are conjugated like recevoir, which is often given as the model of one conjugation. They will all be found L. XL.

FORMATION OF THE TENSES OF REGULAR VERBS.

2. There are primitive tenses and derived tenses. The primitive tenses are : the infinitive, the participle present, the past participle, the present indicative, the preterite.

3. From the present infinitive are formed : the future, by adding ai, and the conditional, by adding ais, as : Inf. donner : Fut. je donnerai, and Cond. je donnerais ; finir : Fut. je finirai, Cond. je finirais. In the third conjugation the final e is dropped : vendre : Fut. je vendrai, Cond. je vendrais.

4. From the participle present are formed : the present of the subjunctive, by changing ant into e, as : donnant : que je donne ; finissant : que je finisse ; vendant : que je vende ; and the Imperfect Indicative by changing ant into ais, as : finissant : je finissais, etc.

5. With the participle past are formed all the compound tenses, by means of the auxiliaries avoir or être, as : Part. past : donné, fini, vendu — : j'ai donné, j'avais fini, j'aurai vendu, etc.

6. From the present of the Indicative, viz. : from its 1st person singular and the 1st and 2d persons plural, the Imperative is formed, by suppressing the pronouns je, nous, vous, as : donne (give), donnons, donnez ; finis (finish), finissons, finissez, etc.

7. From the preterite is formed the Subjunctive imperfect, by changing the final ai into asse for the verbs of the first conjugation, and is into isse for the second and third conjugations. Ex. : je donnai : que je donnasse ; je finis : que je finisse ; je vendis : que je vendisse.

XXI. VINGT ET UNIÈME LEÇON.

REMARKS ON THE ORTHOGRAPHY OF SOME VERBS OF THE FIRST CONJUGATION.

Some regular verbs in -er are, for the sake of euphony, liable to the following modifications :

1. Some verbs ending in -ter, as : jeter, to throw ; rejeter, to throw back ; and those polysyllabic verbs ending in eler, as : appeler, to call ; renouveler, to renew, etc. ; double the t or l, when they are followed by an e mute.

This is the case in some persons of the Present, Future, and Imperative, viz. :—

PRESENT.	IMPERATIVE.	FUTURE.
Je jette — nous jetons.	Jette.	Je jetterai.
tu jettes — vous jetez.	pl. jetons.	tu jetteras.
il jette — ils jettent.	jetez.	etc.
J'appelle — nous appelons.	Appelle.	J'appellerai.
tu appelles — vous appelez.	pl. appelons.	tu appelleras.
il appelle — ils appellent.	appelez.	etc.

Except the verb acheter, to buy, and a few others that seldom occur, which never double the t, but take the grave accent è :

Pres. J'achète, tu achètes, il achète, nous achetons, vous achetez, ils achètent.

Fut. J'achèterai. Imper. achète, pl. achetez.

2. Dissyllabic verbs ending in -eler, as : geler, to freeze, and all others that have an e mute in the last syllable but one, such as : semer, to sow ; mener, to lead ; lever to lift up, take the grave accent, è, when the final consonant of the root is followed by an e mute :

Infinitive : Mener, to lead, to conduct.

Pres. Je mène, tu mènes, il mène, nous menons, vous menez, ils mènent.

Imperf. Je menais, tu menais.

Fut. Je mènerai, tu mèneras. Imp. mène, menons, menez.

The same change takes place with those verbs which have é in the last syllable but one. They, however, retain the é in the Future and Conditional.

Infinitive: Espérer, to hope.

Pres. J'espère, tu espères, il espère, nous espérons, vous espérez, ils espèrent. Imperf. J'espérais.

Imper. Espère, espérons, espérez. Fut. J'espérerai.

Verbs in éger retain the é, as: je protégé.

3. In verbs ending in -ger, as: juger, to judge; partager, to share, divide, the e is retained in those tenses where g is followed by the vowels a or o, in order to give the g the same soft sound as in all other tenses and persons.

Ex.:

Infinitive: Manger, to eat.

Pres. Je mange; pl. nous mangeons. P. pr. Mangeant.

Impf. Je mangeais, tu mangeais, il mangeait, nous mangions, vous mangiez, ils mangeaient.

Pret. Je mangeai, tu mangeas, il mangea, nous mangeâmes, vous mangâtes, ils mangèrent. Imp. Mangeons.

4. In verbs ending in -cer, as: commencer, to begin, a cedilla must be placed under the c, when this letter is followed by a or o. Ex.:—

Infinitive: Placer, to place.

Pres. Je place, tu places, etc.; pl. nous plaçons, etc.

Impf. Je plaçais, tu plaçais, il plaçait, nous placions, vous placiez, ils plaçaient. Imper. Plaçons, etc.

Pret. Je plaçai, tu plaças, il plaça, nous plaçâmes, etc.

5. Verbs ending in -ayer, -oyer, -uyer change the y into i, whenever the letter y would be immediately followed by an e mute. Such are:—

Payer, to pay.

employer, to employ.

effrayer, to frighten.

XXIV. VINGT-QUATRIÈME LEÇON.

DISJUNCTIVE PERSONAL PRONOUNS.*

With personal pronouns it must be observed whether they are intimately connected with or governed by a verb, as : I speak, we go, I give you, etc. ; if this be the case, they are conjunctive (pronoms conjoints) ; or if they are employed by themselves or with a preposition ; in this case they are termed disjunctive (pronoms disjoints). We begin with the latter.

1. The disjunctive personal pronouns are : moi (I or me), toi (thou or thee), nous (we or us), vous, (you), lui (he or him), elle (she or her), eux (they or them, masculine), elles (they or them, feminine), and soi (self, one's self). These pronouns, it will be perceived, do not change their form to indicate case, the nominative and objective being the same.

* See P. II, L. IX.

Ex.: Qui a dit cela ? Moi, lui, elle, nous, etc.

Who has said this ? I, he, she, we, etc.

C'est pour moi, pour toi, pour elle, etc.

That is for me, for thee, for her, etc.

Je parle de toi, de vous, d'elles, d'eux, etc.

I speak of thee, of you, of them, of them, etc.

Nous pensons à lui, à vous, à eux, etc.

We think of him, of you, of them, etc.

2. All these disjunctive pronouns may take the word -même, pl. -mêmes, whenever in English the word self is joined to a pronoun. Ex.:—

S. moi-même, (I) myself.

toi-même, thyself.

lui-même, himself.

elle-même, herself.

Pl. nous-mêmes, ourselves.

vous-mêmes, yourselves.

eux-mêmes,
elles-mêmes, } themselves.

soi-même, one's self.

3. When a stress is laid upon personal pronouns, they are often preceded by c'est, c'était, etc., as in English:—

S. c'est moi, it is I.

c'est toi, it is thou.

c'est lui, it is he.

c'est elle, it is she.

Pl. c'est nous, it is we.

c'est vous, it is you.

ce sont eux,
ce sont elles, } it is they.

The verb être following ce is put in the plural only when the pronoun or noun which follows that verb is in the third person plural: c'étaient mes amis ce sont eux, but, c'est nous.

4. Soi is only used of mankind in a general sense, and of inanimate objects in the singular. Ex.:—

Doit-on toujours penser à soi, ought one always to think of one's self ?

LE ROSIER. (The rose-bush.)

“ Qui veut (will) me donner un petit arbre pour mon jardin ? ” disait Frédéric à ses frères et à sa sœur.

Leur père leur (them) avait donné à chacun un petit coin de terre à planter.

“ Ce n'est pas moi ! ” dit Auguste. — “ Ni moi ! ” s'écria Louis. — “ Ce sera moi ! ” dit la bonne Charlotte ; “ de quelle espèce le (it) veux-tu ? ”

“ Je voudrais (I should like) avoir un rosier, ” répondit Frédéric ; “ le-mien est tout jauni. ”

“ C'est bon, ” répliqua Charlotte. Puis elle prit (then she took) une pelle et alla (went) le retirer de terre.

“ Que vois-je (what do I see) ? ” dit Frédéric, “ tu n'en as toi-même que (only) deux, et encore (besides) il y en a un si petit ! Du moins ne me donne pas le plus grand. ”

“Non, non !” s’écria sa sœur, “il pourrait encore (could again) se sécher ; je puis jouir du plaisir de le voir fleurir dans ton jardin.”

XXV. VINGT-CINQUIÈME LEÇON.

CONJUNCTIVE PERSONAL PRONOUNS.

These are je (I), nous (we), tu (thou), vous (you), il (he), plu. ils (they, m.), elle (she), plu. elles (they, f.).*

Unlike the disjunctive personal pronouns, these, except vous and nous, vary to express different cases.

Je has me when used either as the direct or indirect object of the verb : tu has te in the same cases.

Of him, of her, of them, of it (m. or f.), are each represented by the pronoun en, generally referring to things : to him, to her, each by lui : to them (m. or f.), by leur.

The objective case (direct object) of il, is le (him), and of elle, is la, (her) : les (them) is the obj. plu. of both genders.

POSITION OF CONJUNCTIVE PRONOUNS.

GENERAL RULE. Conjunctive pronouns precede the verb except in the Imperative affirmative. In the interrogative form the subject comes after the verb.

* For on, of which se is used as the object and soi as the disjunctive, see Part II. L. XII.

SPECIAL RULES.

A. WITH ONE PRONOUN.

1. The nominative cases je, tu, il, elle, nous, vous, ils, or elles, usually precede the verb of which they are the subject: in an interrogative sentence, however, they are placed immediately after the verb. Ex. :—

Je pense, I think.

nous parlons, we speak.

tu espères, thou hopest.

vous jouez, you play.

Interrogative:

Finis-tu, dost thou finish?

Vient-elle, does she come?

2. The direct and indirect objects are placed immediately before the verb in a simple tense, and before the auxiliary in a compound one. Ex. :—

Tu me dis, you tell me.

Je vous donne, I give you.

Elle m'a répondu, she has answered me.

Charles nous a dit, Charles has told us.

3. If the sentence is negative, ne is put directly after the subject, before the governed pronoun, as :

Je ne vous donne pas, I do not give you.

Vous ne les avez pas vus, you have not seen them.

Elle ne m'a pas répondu, she has not answered me.

Charles ne nous avait pas dit, Charles had not told us.

4. In the interrogative form, the object begins the sentence, then follows the verb with its subject. If the question is a negative one, ne begins the sentence :

Me connaissez-vous, do you know me?

Me blâme-t-il, does he blame me?

Les vois-tu, do you see them?

Vous a-t-il répondu, has he answered you?

Ne vous a-t-il pas répondu, has he not answered you?

5. When the verb is in the Imperative affirmative, the governed pronouns are put after it, in French as in English. In this case me and te are changed into moi and toi for the direct and indirect objects. Ex. :—

Donnez-moi, give me.

Apportez-lui, bring (to) him.

Mangez-les, eat them.

Parlez-leur, speak to them.

6. But when the Imperative is negative, the governed pronoun precedes the verb. Ex. :—

Ne me donnez pas, do not give me.

Ne lui apportez pas, do not bring him.

Ne les mangez pas, do not eat them.

Ne leur parlez pas, do not speak to them.

B. WITH TWO PRONOUNS.

1. When a verb, which is not in the Imperative affirmative, governs two pronouns, they are both placed immediately before the verb, so that the indirect object comes first, and the direct follows.

Ex. :—

Je te le donne, I give it to thee (you).

Vous l'apporte-t-elle, does she bring it to you ?

Ne nous l'apportera-t-il pas, will he not bring it to us ?

On vous le dira, they will tell (it) you.

On ne vous le dira pas, they will not tell (it to) you.

2. An exception to the foregoing rule are the two indirect objects, lui (to him, to her), and leur (to them), which always follow the other governed pronoun. Ex. :—

Je le lui donne, I give it to him or her.

Je ne le lui donne pas, I do not give it him.

La lui donne-t-elle, does she give it him ?

La leur donnera-t-il, will he give it to them ?

Je ne la leur ai pas donné, I have not given it to them.

Ne le lui donnez pas, do not give it him.

Pourquoi ne la leur prêtez-vous pas, why do you not lend it to them ?

3. Of two personal pronouns governed by the Imperative affirmative the indirect object always stands last :

Donnez-le-moi, give it me.

Apportez-les-lui (leur), bring them to him (to them).

4. If the Imperative is negative, both of them precede the verb according to § 6, and lui and leur follow the direct object, according to B, § 2. Ex. :—

Ne me le donnez pas, do not give it me.

Ne la lui apportez pas, do not bring it to him.

Ne les leur envoyez pas, do not send them to them.

SUITE DU ROSIER.

Frédéric, transporté de joie, emporta le rosier; et Charlotte le suivit plus joyeuse encore que lui.

Le jardinier avait vu le trait d'amitié de la petite fille. Il alla chercher (he went for) un beau sureau d'Espagne.

“ Voulez-vous que je mette (put) ceci à la place de votre rosier ? ” demanda-t-il à Charlotte.

“ Si vous n'en avez pas besoin.”

“ Non,” répondit-il, “ je n'en ai pas besoin.” — Il le planta.

Le mois de Mai suivant, le rosier de Frédéric porta les plus belles roses, et tous les matins, Charlotte recevait un bouton à moitié ouvert, pour le mettre dans ses cheveux.

Le sureau prit (took) racine aussi et devint (became) bientôt si grand et si épais que Charlotte y trouva de l'ombrage dans la grande chaleur du jour.

3. Celui, celle, ceux, celles, are used with the preposition de, instead of the English possessive case, when the governing noun is not expressed. Ex. : mon chapeau et celui de mon frère, my hat and my brother's; ma plume et celle de ma sœur, my pen and my sister's.

REMARK. Celui, celle, &c., are used only before a relative or the preposition de; in all other cases celui-ci, celle-ci, celui-la, celle-la, &c., must be used. Ex. : J'ai celui-ci, je n'ai pas celui-la, I have this one, I have not that one.

4. Ce, which we have seen as an adjective, is also a pronoun. It is then invariable, meaning this, that, it. — It is used before the relative, as : ce qui (subj.), ce que (obj.), that which (what); ce dont, that of which.

For the use of ce or il before the verb to be, see Rule after the vocabulary of Lesson xv. See also Lesson xxiv. 3.

Voici du jambon : en voulez-vous ?

Here is ham, will you have some?

J'en prendrai un petit morceau.

I shall take a little piece of it.

Ce que vous dites me fait peur. Qui vient là? C'est moi. — Ce sont eux. Ce qui est beau n'est pas toujours utile. Ne parlez pas de ce qui ne vous regarde (concern) pas. XXVII. VINGT-SEPTIÈME LEÇON.

INTERROGATIVE PRONOUNS.

They are : 1. lequel f. laquelle, which (of)? 2. qui, who? que and quoi, what?

1. Lequel is used either without a noun, or is at least separated from it by de; but it agrees with it in gender and number. When the pronoun which is used interrogatively, it is always expressed by lequel, laquelle, etc., as :—

Voici deux appartements, lequel choisirez-vous?

Here are two apartments, which will you choose?

Une de ses sœurs est mariée. Laquelle est-ce?

One of his sisters is married. Which is it?

Laquelle de vos écolières est malade?

Which of your pupils is ill?

The same contractions take place in the article le compounded with quel, as when used by itself: thus, by contraction with the prepositions à and de, are formed auquel, auxquels, auxquelles, duquel, desquels, and desquelles.

2. The interrogative pronoun qui? is only used of persons.
Ex. : —

Qui est là, who is there?

A qui prêtez-vous cela, to whom do you lend this?

Qui cherchez-vous, whom are you looking for?

Pour qui est ce crayon, for whom is this pencil?

3. Whose, when used interrogatively, must be rendered in French by à qui. Ex. : —

Whose book is this? à qui est ce livre?

4. Que and quoi are neuter.* Quoi, what, is disjunctive, and used either by itself or after a preposition, as : —

De quoi parlez-vous, of what are you speaking?

Sur quoi, upon what? Avec quoi, with what?

5. Que, what, is conjunctive, and is only used before verbs : it never follows a preposition. Ex. : —

Que voulez-vous, what do you wish or want?

Que dit-on, what do people say?

Que demande-t-il, what does he ask?

VOCABULARY.

Marié, e, married.

levé, got up, risen.

A quoi pensez-vous donc? Auquel de ces écoliers avez-vous promis une récompense?

XXVIII. VINGT-HUITIÈME LEÇON.

POSSESSIVE AND RELATIVE PRONOUNS.

1. The possessive pronouns are formed from the possessive adjectives mon, ton, son, etc. They are :—

SING.		PLUR.
Masc.	Fem.	Masc.	Fem.
le mien,	la mienne,	les miens,	les miennes,	mine.
le tien,	la tienne,	les tiens,	les tiennes,	thine.
le sien,	la sienne,	les siens,	les siennes,	his, hers, its.
le nôtre,	la nôtre,	les nôtres,		ours.
le vôtre,	la vôtre,	les vôtres,		yours.
le leur,	la leur,	les leurs,		theirs.

These are not, as in English, of the same gender as the possessor. They agree in gender and number with the object possessed. Ex. :—

Cette dame a mon crayon et le sien.

That lady has my pencil and hers.

Avez-vous ma montre ou la vôtre ?

Have you my watch or yours ?

J'ai la mienne, I have mine.

Ma sœur a la sienne, my sister has hers.

2. The interrogative pronouns qui, quoi, and lequel, serve at the same time as relative pronouns, when they have a reference to some other noun or pronoun preceding.

3. As a relative qui is a subject and que the direct object. Qui and que are used for persons and things of both genders and numbers. Ex. :—

Un enfant qui pleure, a child that cries.

La porte qui est ouverte, the door which is open.

Le voyageur que j'ai quitté, the traveller whom I have left.

Le chapeau que j'ai acheté, the hat (which) I have bought.

Les maisons que vous avez vues, the houses (which) you have seen.

The relative que, whom, which, or that, is sometimes understood in English, but it must always be expressed in French.

4. Dont, whose, of which, is used for persons and things of both genders and numbers; but de qui, from whom or of whom, which is sometimes required instead of dont, has only reference to persons.

REMARK. When dont signifies whose the noun which it limits must be preceded by the article; if the noun is the object of a verb it must come after that verb, and not immediately after dont as in English. Ex. :—

Je connais la femme dont vous avez reçu la lettre.

I know the woman whose letter you have received.

Je connais la femme de qui vous avez reçu la lettre.

I know the woman from whom you have received the letter.

L'homme — les hommes dont vous parlez.

The man — the men of whom you speak.

La lettre — les lettres dont vous parlez.

The letter — the letters of which you speak.

5. After prepositions, qui refers to persons, lequel, to things and animals. Ex. :—

Le marchand avec qui j'ai voyagé.

The merchant with whom I travelled. But :

L'arbre sur lequel (not sur qui) je montai.

The tree upon which I climbed.

La clef avec laquelle on ouvrit la porte.

The key with which they opened the door.

Voilà l'homme à qui j'ai prêté mon livre.

There is the man to whom I have lent my book.

C'est le chien auquel vous avez donné à manger.

That is the dog to which you gave to eat.

6. Lequel, laquelle, etc., must also be used instead of qui in the Nominative, when the relative is separated from its noun by another substantive to which it might seem to relate. Ex. :—

La tante de mon ami laquelle demeure à Paris.

My friend's aunt who lives at Paris.

(qui demeure à Paris might relate to mon ami.)

7. That which, and what, meaning the thing which, are expressed by ce qui for the Nominative, and ce que for the Objective.

All that is rendered : Nom. tout ce qui, Obj. tout ce que. Ex. : —

What renders men miserable, is cupidity.

Ce qui rend les hommes misérables, c'est la cupidité.

I like all that is fine, j'aime tout ce qui est beau.

Do what I tell you, faites ce que je vous dis.

XXXI. TRENTE ET UNIÈME LEÇON.

REFLECTIVE VERBS.

Some verbs are called reflective, because their subject and object are the same person or thing, so that the subject acts upon itself, and is, at the same time, the agent and the object of the action. Reflective verbs, therefore, have always, besides the subject, another personal pronoun, viz. : me, te, se, myself, thyself, himself, herself, itself, for the singular ; nous, vous, se, ourselves, yourselves, themselves, for the plural. But it frequently happens that in English the second pronoun is only implied, whereas it must be expressed in French. Ex. : to repent, se repentir ; Pres. I repent, je me repens, etc.

Observe that all reflective verbs, without exception, are conjugated with the auxiliary être, as : I have hurt myself, je me suis blessé, and not je m'ai blessé.

NOTE 1. This verb in English is used in the plural, when followed by a plural substantive; in French, it remains always in the singular; as,
There are birds which, etc.; il y a des oiseaux qui, etc.

NOTE 2. It often happens that the verb il y a is rendered ago, these, or for these. Ex.:

I saw him two months ago.

Je l'ai vu il y a deux mois.

Il y a huit jours que je suis malade.

I have been ill these eight days.

Il est is also used impersonally, particularly in poetry, in the sense of il y a.

The English "it is said" is rendered in French, on dit.

REM. 1. The verb falloir is absolutely impersonal throughout all its tenses. When its subject is a personal pronoun, as : I must, you must, etc., we may add, for the first person me, for the second te, for the third lui, in the plural nous, vous, leur. More frequently, however, que with the Subjunctive mood is preferred. Ex. :—

I must read : il me faut lire, or il faut que je lise.
 thou must read : il te faut lire, or il faut que tu lises.
 he must read : }
 she must read : } il lui faut lire, or { il faut qu'il lise.
 } il faut qu'elle lise.
 we must read : il nous faut lire, or il faut que nous lisions.
 you must read : il vous faut lire, or il faut que vous lisiez.
 they must read : il leur faut lire, or il faut qu'ils lisent.
 I have been obliged to, read : il m'a fallu lire, etc.

2. When the subject is a noun, que with the Subjunctive mood must be used. It must further be observed that, when the verb falloir is used in the Present or Future tense, the following verb must be put in the Present of the Subjunctive; but when it is in the Imperfect, Preterite or Conditional, the verb following it must be rendered by the Imperfect of the Subjunctive. Ex. :—

The boy must work, il faut que le garçon travaille.
 The boy will be obliged to work.
Il faudra que le garçon travaille.
 The soldiers were obliged to retire.
Il fallait or il fallut que les soldats se retirassent.

3. When the verb il faut is followed immediately by a noun substantive, it signifies to want; here also one of the pronouns me, te, lui, nous, vous, leur, according to the person, must be inserted. Ex. :—

I want (must have) a hat, il me faut un chapeau.
 He wants some money, il lui faut de l'argent.

READING LESSON.

PRODUCTIONS DE DIVERS CLIMATS.

La providence a si sagement arrangé toutes choses, que chaque climat fournit aux habitants ce qui leur est le plus indispensable. Dans les contrées polaires il fait si froid, qu'il ne peut y croître ni fruits, ni céréales, ni légumes. La nature y a suppléé par la grande quantité de poissons que l'on pêche dans la mer et dans les lacs, et par l'abondance des quadrupèdes qui, à la vérité (indeed), sont la plupart (mostly) sauvages et féroces, mais qui fournissent aux habitants, aguerris (accustomed) à les poursuivre à la chasse, de très-belles fourrures, de la chair mangeable, des os et des nerfs qu'ils emploient pour leurs arcs (bows) et pour divers ustensiles.

Les peuples des climats chauds ont le ver à soie (silkworm), qui se nourrit des feuilles du mûrier et qui leur file (spins) un léger tissu dont on fait des étoffes convenables à la température du pays.

Le cotonnier porte des gousses renfermant le coton dont le tissu fournit également (likewise) les plus beaux vêtements. Et pour préserver les habitants de la zone torride de l'inflammation d'un sang trop échauffé, leurs campagnes et leurs jardins leur fournissent les oranges, les citrons et les olives qui les rafraîchissent.

XXXIII. TRENTE-TROISIÈME LEÇON.

FORMATION OF ADVERBS.

Most of the French adjectives become adverbs by adding the syllable -ment, according to the following rules :—

1. Adjectives ending in a vowel, simply add the final syllable -ment, as :—

Facile, easy ; adv. facilement, easily.

poli, polite ; adv. poliment, politely.

vrai, true ; adv. vraiment, truly.

2. Adjectives which do not end in a vowel, add the syllable -ment to their feminine termination, as : — doux, f. douce, soft, mild ; adv. doucement, softly.

franc, f. franche, frank ; adv. franchement, frankly, freely.

So also the adjectives, nouveau, new ; fou, foolish, and mou, soft ; adv. nouvellement, follement, mollement.

3. Adjectives which end in -ant or -ent, become adverbs by changing the final -ant into -amment, and -ent into -emment, as : —

Constant, constant ; adv. constamment.

Exceptions to this rule are : lent, slow, adv. lentement ; and présent, present, adv. présentement, actually, at present.

Je ne veux rien, I wish for nothing.

4. If one of the negations is followed by a noun in the partitive sense, this noun is simply preceded by de :

Affirmative: J'ai du pain, I have some bread.

Negative: Je n'ai pas de pain, I have no bread.

Affirmative: Avez-vous de l'argent, have you any money?

Negative: Je n'ai point d'argent, I have no money.

5. With the infinitive, ne — pas, ne — point, ne — rien, etc., are generally not separated, as :

Ne pas se venger, not to revenge one's self.

Ne plus écrire, to write no more.

Ne rien manger, to eat nothing.

6. Without a verb, the negatives stand without ne, as :

Pas à la fois, not at once. Pas moi, not I.

Pas beaucoup, pas trop, pas tant, pas aujourd'hui,

7. Non plus, nor — either, requires the full negation ne — pas before it, as :

Je ne le veux pas non plus, nor will I have it either.

8. If nor — either is connected only with a noun or pronoun, without a verb, the noun or the pronoun is preceded, in French, by ni, as :

Nor Charles either, ni Charles non plus.

9. Observe the expression ne — que for only, as :

Je n'ai que deux sœurs, I have only two sisters.

Il n'a qu'un morceau de pain, he has only a piece of bread.

CONJUNCTIONS.

The principal simple conjunctions are : —

Et, and.

et — et, both — and.

ou, or.

ou — ou, either — or.

pourtant, yet, still.

néanmoins, nevertheless.

si, if, whether.

sinon, if not.

ni — ni, neither — nor.

que, that, than (after a comp.).

mais, but.

toutefois,
cependant, } however.

comme, as.

donc, consequently, then.

puisque, since, as.

quoique (with the Subj.), though.

1. Among these simple conjunctions, only one governs the Subjunctive mood, viz. : quoique, though or although. Ex. : quoique je sois malade, though I am ill.

For the Subjunctive after que, see P. II. L. 19.

2. Si denotes a condition or supposition : s'il vient, if he comes ; si vous voulez, if you like. When si is followed by an Imperfect or Pluperfect, those tenses are always in the Indicative mood. (See P. II. L. 19.)

If I had, si j'avais ; If I were, si j'étais ;

If I had seen him, si je l'avais vu.

NOTE. The i in si is cut off before il and ils, but nowhere else, as : s'il avait, but si elle avait, etc.

3. The conjunction ni — ni requires ne before its verb, and the noun which follows it takes no article, if used in the partitive sense, as : —

Je n'ai ni père ni mère, I have neither father nor mother.

4. The conjunction que serves to connect two ideas so as to form of the two one sentence, as :

Je crois que vous avez raison, I believe you are right.

In English the conjunction that is almost always understood, whereas que is not only always expressed in French, but repeated before each member of the proposition, as : —

Je crois que vous avez raison et que vous réussirez.

I think you are right and that you will succeed.

5. When a conjunction governs several verbs, it is placed before the first verb only, and que is used before the other verbs. Ex. : As he is diligent and takes pains, comme il est appliqué et qu'il prend de la peine.

6. Donc is often used like the English auxiliary do, to urge or incite. Ex.: Taisez-vous donc, do be silent. It is also used interrogatively: C'est donc vous qui avez fait cela?

LAFITTE.

Lorsque Jacques Lafitte vint (came) à Paris, il se présenta chez M. Perregaux dans l'espérance d'obtenir une place ; mais le banquier lui annonça qu'il était dans l'impossibilité de satisfaire à sa demande, puisque les bureaux étaient au complet.

Lafitte, découragé par ce refus, s'éloignait tristement, lorsqu'en traversant la cour de l'hôtel, il aperçut à terre une épingle ; il la ramassa et la piqua sur sa manche. M. Perregaux ayant vu l'action du jeune solliciteur, en fut frappé (struck), et pensa qu'il devait être doué d'un esprit d'ordre et d'économie. Il le fit rappeler et lui dit qu'il pouvait compter sur une place dans sa maison. En effet, peu de jours après, le jeune Bayonnais entra chez le riche banquier, et chacun sait que, plus tard, il est devenu un homme riche et célèbre.

XXXVIII. TRENTÉ-HUITIÈME LEÇON.

IRREGULAR VERBS.—FIRST CLASS.

Those verbs are commonly called irregular which deviate from the three regular conjugations. This deviation is of three kinds.

1. Such verbs as take the termination corresponding to the ending of their Infinitive mood, but change their root. Ex.: Of the verb coudre, to sew, the radical is coud-, this final d is, in some persons and tenses, changed into s, for instance in the plural: nous cous-ons, we sew. These are the least difficult, and are therefore put in the first class.

2. Verbs which preserve their radical syllable throughout unchanged, but take flexions that do not accord with the ending of their Infinitive. For instance, the verb cour-ir, to run, ending in -ir, ought to take the flexions of the second conjugation (finir). But this is not the case; it takes the flexions of the third conjugation (vendre); the Present is not je couris, tu couris, etc., but je cours, tu cours, etc.; P. p. couru like vendu. Verbs of this kind we assign to the second class.

3. A certain number of verbs offer both these anomalies at the same time; i. e. they undergo some changes in their root, and are conjugated with other flexions than those corresponding with the ending of their Infinitive. For instance, the verb mourir, to die, ought, according to its Infinitive termination, -ir, to take the flexions of finir. This is not the case; it is, in most tenses, conjugated like vendre; and, besides, its root mour- is, in certain tenses and persons, changed into meur-, as: Pres. je meurs, tu meurs, etc. Such verbs, among which are included those ending in -oir, constitute the third class.

To facilitate the study of the irregular verbs, it is essential to distinguish the primitive tenses from the derived ones. The latter have generally a regular inflexion, whereas the former alone are subject to irregularity. As already mentioned, the primitive tenses are :

1. The Infinitive mood.
2. The Participle present.
3. The Participle past.
4. The Present of the Indicative mood.
5. The Preterite.

From these the other tenses and moods are derived, as it is explained, L. XX. The derivative tenses are formed regularly, and therefore seldom mentioned in the following list.

To aid the pupil's memory, the following hints will prove useful :

1. The Present of the Subjunctive may be found by dropping the final nt of the third person plural Indicative, as : from ils écrivent — que j'écrive ; from ils prennent — que je prenne ; from ils boivent — que je boive.

2. The plural of the Present Indicative, the Participle Present and the Imperfect of the Indicative have the same radical, as : nous mourons, we die ; P. pr. mourant ; Imperf. je mourais ; — nous craignons ; P. pr. craignant ; Imperf. je craignais ; — nous allons ; P. pr. allant ; Imperf. j'allais, etc.

3. The Future and Conditional are formed from the Infinitive ; the following, however, have an irregular formation, — je courrai (instead of courirai), je mourrai, je verrai, j'enverrai, j'acquerrai, je pourrai, je saurai, je voudrai, il faudra, je viendrai, je tiendrai, je ferai, and j'irai.

4. When the Participle past ends with the sound of i (i, is, it,) the Preterite generally ends in is. Ex. : Part. p. sorti, gone out ; Pret. je sortis ; — Part. p. dit, said ; Pret. je dis ; — Part. p. pris, taken ; Pret. je pris, etc.

5. But when the Participle past ends in u, the Preterite usually ends in us. Ex. : P. p. cru, believed ; Pret. je crus ; P. p. lu, read ; Pret. je lus ; — P. p. connu, known ; Pret. je connus, etc.

XLVII. QUARANTE-SEPTIÈME LEÇON.

HOW TO RENDER DO, DID, SHALL, WILL, ETC.— SUPPLEMENTARY TENSES.

The auxiliaries do, will, shall, etc., in answers, are often used in English in an elliptical manner, when in French the principal verb must be repeated, and a noun or pronoun supplied.

Si, "yes," is generally used in answers instead of oui in replying to a question in which there is a negation, or in contradiction to a negative statement.

EXAMPLES :

Avez-vous du pain ?	Oui, j'en ai.	Have you any bread ?	Yes, I have.
Avez-vous répondu ?	Oui, j'ai répondu ?	Have you answered ?	Yes, I have.
Achèteront-ils ce beurre ?	Oui, ils l'achèteront.	Will they buy that butter ?	Yes, they will.
Voulez vous le lui demander ?	Oui, je veux bien.	Will you ask him for it ?	Yes, I will.
Etes-vous Anglais ?	Non je ne le suis pas.	Are you an Englishman ?	No, I am not.
Avez-vous été à Rome ?	Non, je n'y ai pas été.	Have you been in Rome ?	No, I have not.
Est-ce vous qui êtes venu hier soir ?	Non, ce n'est pas moi.	Was it you who came last night ?	No, it was not I.
Ce n'est pas ce peintre qui a fait votre portrait ?	Si, c'est lui.	That painter did not take your likeness, did he ?	Yes, he did.
Lui rendrez-vous son portrait ?	Cela va sans dire.	Will you return her likeness to her ?	Of course I will.
Partira-t-il ?	Oui, il partira.	Will he set out ?	Yes, he will.
Iriez vous s'il y allait ?	Mais oui, je le ferais.	Should you go there if he did ?	Why, yes, I should.
Est-ce la mode ?	Oui, c'est la mode.	Is it the fashion ?	Yes, it is.
Pourquoi vous plaignez-vous ?	Je ne me plains pas ; c'est mon frère qui se plaint. Il se plaint ! Oui, vraiment, et il y a longtemps qu'il se plaint.	Why do you complain ?	I do not complain ; my brother does. — Does he ? Indeed he does, and he has complained for a long time.
J'ai faim. Vraiment ?	Oui, bien faim.	I am hungry. Are you ?	Yes, very.
Doit-elle venir ce soir ?	Oui, elle doit venir.	Does she intend to come this evening ?	Yes, she does.

In exclamations the auxiliary must be translated by some words expressive of the meaning implied by the English ellipsis. Ex. : —

Son associé est revenu des Indes.	His partner has returned from India.
Est-ce possible, vous me surprenez, or simply, Ah ! vraiment !	Has he ?
J'ai sommeil. Ah ! vraiment ? or,	I am sleepy. Are you ?
Allons donc, vous plaisantez.

SUPPLEMENTARY TENSES.

The verbs aller, devoir, and venir de are idiomatically used, forming, with an infinitive, what some grammarians have called "Supplementary Tenses."

Aller and devoir before an infinitive form idiomatic futures, and correspond to the English verbs to go and to be (to be about to), in a like position.

Venir de forms idiomatic past tenses, and corresponds to the English to have just.

CONJUGATION OF THE SUPPLEMENTARY TENSES.

Je vais	}	avoir,
Tu vas		chanter,
Il va		danser,
Nous allons		finir,
Vous allez		rendre,
Ils vont		recevoir,

Je'allais avoir, etc.

Je dois	}	avoir,
Tu dois		chanter,
Il doit		danser,
Nous devons		finir,
Vous devez		rendre,
Ils doivent		recevoir,

Je devais avoir, etc.

Je devrais avoir, etc.

J'aurais dû avoir, etc.

Je viens de (d')	}	avoir,
Tu viens		chanter,
Il vient		danser,
Nous venons		finir,
Vous venez		rendre,
Ils viennent		recevoir,

Je venais d' avoir, etc.

I am going	}	to have.
Thou art going		to sing.
He is going		to dance.
We are going		to finish.
You are going		to render.
They are going		to receive.

I was going to have, etc.

I am	}	to have.
Thou art		to sing.
He is		to dance.
We are		to finish.
You are		to render.
They are		to receive.

I was to have.

I should or ought to have.

I should or ought to have had.

I have just	}	had.
Thou hast just		sung.
He has just		danced.
We have just		finished.
You have just		rendered.
They have just		received.

I had just had, etc.

These last tenses may be expressed by faire preceded by ne and followed by the conjunctive que, with an infinitive preceded by de (ne faire que de). e. g. Il ne fait que d'arriver. He has but just arrived. Je ne fais que de sortir. I have but just gone out.

N. B. The particle de is here indispensable, because, without it the expression would have quite another sense, and would denote a continuation or a frequent repetition of the action. Ex.: Vous ne faites que sortir. You do nothing but go out. Elle ne fait que jouer. She does nothing but play.

PART II.

ELISION.

The vowels a, e, i, when final, are sometimes elided before a word beginning with a vowel or h mute ; thus : l'âme, l'homme, s'il, instead of la âme, le homme, si il.

ELISION OF a. A is elided only in the word la. Ex. : l'amitié.

ELISION OF e. E is elided in the nine monosyllables je, me, te, le, de, ne, ce, se and que. Ex. : j'aime ; c'est l'homme qu'il n'estime pas.

EXCEPTIONS. — 1. The vowels of the pronouns le, la, je, and ce are never elided when they come after the verb. Ex. : Ai-je un livre ; est-ce elle. The e in je and ce is not pronounced, however, though the e and a of le and la are in voyez-la aujourd'hui, voyez-le aujourd'hui.

2. Before oui and onze no elision takes place : je crois que oui ; le onze.

The E is elided in lorsque, when ; puisque, since ; quoique, though, only before il, elle, on and un. Ex. : lorsqu'il, puisqu'on, etc. In quelque the e is elided only before un, une, and autre. Ex. : quelqu'un ; quelqu'autre. In entre and presque, e is elided only when they form part of a compound word. Ex. : entr'acte, presque-île.

ELISION OF i. I is elided only in the conjunction si before il and ils. Ex. : s'il, s'ils.

I. PREMIÈRE LEÇON.

ON THE GENDER OF SUBSTANTIVES.

I. RULES ON THE GENDER OF SIMPLE NOUNS.

§1. MASCULINE BY THEIR SIGNIFICATION ARE :

1. The names of all masculine beings, as : Henri, Henry ; l'empereur, the emperor ; le maître, the master ; le Français, the Frenchman ; le taureau, the bull, etc.

2. The names of metals, trees, shrubs, seasons, months, and days, as : le fer, iron ; le chêne, the oak ; le printemps, spring ; le joli Mai, (the) fine May ; (le) lundi, Monday, etc.

3. All words that are made substantive by prefixing the article, as : le vert, the green (color) ; le bien, the good ; le boire et le manger, drinking and eating ; le oui et le non, the yes and no.

4. Nouns expressing professions, titles, or qualities which belong generally to men : philosophe, orateur, etc.

5. The names generally used in natural history to designate the different species of animals : un quadrupède, un mammifère, un herbivore, etc.

6. The names employed in Chemistry to designate simple bodies and most of their compounds : l'or, le cuivre, l'hydrogène, l'oxygène.

7. The names of the decimal nomenclature : le mètre, le franc, le centime, etc.

§2. MASCULINE BY TERMINATION :

1. Nouns ending in a consonant (except those in aïson, ion, and eur).

2. Nouns ending in any vowel except e mute and é preceded by t or ti.

3. Nouns ending in e mute preceded by b, g, l (not double), m, r (except rr not preceded by u), s, t (not double), or u (except those in ique).

To any rules for terminations, there will be found many exceptions. These rules are general. Most of the exceptions in common use, the pupil will learn as they occur in this grammar.

§ 3. FEMININE BY SIGNIFICATION:

1. All names of female persons and animals, as : Marie, Mary ; la reine, the queen ; la fille, the girl ; la jument, the mare, etc.

2. The names of fruits, flowers, and herbs, as : la poire, the pear ; la pomme, the apple ; la rose, the rose ; l'herbe, the grass.

Except : Le marron, the chestnut ; le citron, the lemon ; le raisin, the grape ; un abricot, an apricot ; un œillet, a pink ; le lis, the lily, and a few more, on account of their masculine termination.

3. The names of countries, places, and rivers ending in e mute, as : la France, la Prusse, l'ancienne Rome, la Loire, la Seine, etc.

Except : Le Hanovre, le Mexique, le Danube, le Rhône.

§ 4. FEMININE BY TERMINATION:

1. Nouns ending with e mute, not included in the masculine terminations, as : la vie, life ; l'épée, the sword.

2. Those ending in aïson, ion, and eur, as : la maison, the house ; la religion, la grandeur.

3. Those ending in é preceded by t or ti, as : la beauté, beauty.

4. These five words ending in i are feminine : la foi, faith ; la loi, law ; la fourmi, the ant ; la merci, mercy ; l'après-midi.

5. Most nouns ending in oire (not oir) are feminine, as : la gloire, glory ; l'histoire, history ; la victoire, victory ; la mâchoire, the jaw.

6. Gens. This word presents an anomaly in gender. It is masculine, but when an adjective precedes it, that adjective takes the feminine form, if its termination is not e mute. If a definitive, as tout or certain, precedes this adjective, the definitive also takes the feminine form. In all other cases, gens takes a masculine adjective, as: Toutes les vieilles gens sont soupçonneux, all old people are suspicious. But, Tous les jeunes gens.

II. GENDER OF COMPOUND SUBSTANTIVES.

This depends upon the manner of their composition.

1. When the first component is a noun, it determines the gender of the whole, as: Le chou-fleur, the cauliflower; un arc-en-ciel, a rainbow; la fête Dieu.

2. When they consist of a preposition or an adjective and a noun, the gender of the noun remains for the whole, as: Le contre-coup, the counter-buff; l'avant-bras, m. the fore-arm.

3. Those nouns compounded with a verb and noun are always of the masculine gender, as: Le porte-manteau, the portmanteau: le tire-bouchon, the corkscrew; le porte-feuille, the portfolio (though feuille is feminine).

THEME 1.

Indicate the gender of the following nouns, by placing an article, either the definite or the indefinite, before them:

The life, — vie. The feast, — fête. The treaty, — traité. The master-key, — passe-partout. The spit, — tourne-broche. Christianity, — christianisme.

Un honnête père de famille, chargé¹ de biens et d'années, voulut régler d'avance² sa succession entre ses trois fils, et leur partager ses biens, le fruit de ses travaux et de son industrie. Il en fit trois portions égales, et assigna à chacun son lot. — Puis il leur dit : “ Il me reste encore un diamant de grand prix ; je le destine à celui de vous qui saura le mieux le mériter par quelque action noble et généreuse, et je vous donne trois mois pour vous mettre en état de l'obtenir.”

Aussitôt les trois fils se dispersent, mais ils se rassemblent au temps prescrit.³ Ils se présentent devant leur juge, et voici ce que raconte l'aîné⁴ : “ Mon père, un étranger s'est trouvé dans des circonstances qui l'ont obligé de me confier⁵ toute sa fortune : il n'avait de moi aucune sûreté, par écrit,⁶ et n'aurait pu produire contre moi aucune preuve du dépôt ; mais je lui ai tout remis fidèlement. Cette fidélité n'est-elle pas quelque chose de louable⁷ ? ” “ Tu as fait, mon fils,” lui répondit le viellard, “ ce que tu devais faire. Il serait honteux d'en agir autrement, car la probité est un devoir.”

1. Laden. 2. Beforehand. 3. Prescribed, appointed. 4. The eldest. 5. To trust. 6. In writing. 7. Laudable.

FIN.

Le second fils plaida¹ sa cause à son tour, à peu près en ces termes : “ Je me suis trouvé, pendant mon voyage, sur le bord d'un lac ; un enfant venait² imprudemment de s'y laisser³ tomber ; il allait se noyer ;³ je l'en ai tiré, et je lui ai sauvé la vie, aux yeux des habitants d'un village situé au bord de ce lac ; ils pourront attester la vérité du fait.”⁴—“ A la bonne heure,” interrompit⁵ le père ; “ mais il n'y a point encore de noblesse dans cette action ; il n'y a que de l'humanité.”

Enfin, le dernier des trois frères prit la parole. “ Mon père,” dit-il, “ j'ai trouvé mon ennemi mortel, qui, s'étant égaré la nuit, s'était endormi, sans le savoir, sur le penchant⁶ d'un abîme ;⁷ le moindre mouvement qu'il eût fait, au moment de son réveil,⁸ ne pouvait manquer⁹ de le précipiter ; sa vie était entre mes mains ; j'ai pris soin de l'éveiller¹⁰ avec les précautions convenables, et l'ai tiré de cet endroit¹¹ fatal."

" Ah ! mon fils," s'écria le bon père avec transport, et en l'embrassant tendrement, " c'est à toi, sans contredit,¹² que la bague¹³ est due."

Laquelle de ces trois actions était la plus noble ? Celle du plus jeune fils.

Les actions des deux autres n'étaient-elles pas nobles et généreuses ? Non, la première était une action de justice, la seconde une action d'humanité.

Et qu'est-ce que lui dit le père ? Il s'écria avec transport : " Mon fils, c'est à toi, sans contredit, que la bague est due."

II. DEUXIÈME LEÇON.

PLURAL OF NOUNS.

(See Part I. Lesson 2, p. 30.)

The general rules on this subject have already been given in the second lesson of Part I. We have to add here the following particulars.

1. Nouns of two and more syllables, ending in -ant and -ent, are spelled by some French writers in the plural -ens and -ans, instead of -ents and -ants, as : momens for moments, enfants for enfants. This orthography, however, is not to be recommended.

2. The following nouns in al and aïl do not form their plural in vux, but take an s.

Le bal, the ball.

le cal, callus.

le narval, the narwhal.

le carnaval, the carnival.

le régal, the regale, treat.

le détail, the particulars.

le gouvernail, the helm, rudder.

l'éventail, m. the fan.

l'épouvantail, m. the scarecrow.

un portail, a portal, front gate.

Plural : Les bals, les cals, les détails, les éventails, etc.

NOTE. Le bétail, cattle, makes in the plural les bestiaux.

3. The usual plural of ciel is cieux, the heavens ; there is, however, a regular plural, les ciels, meaning : 1, the testers ; 2, the climates ; 3, the skies of pictures.

4. L'œil, the eye, has in the plural les yeux. Des œils de bœuf are oval or round windows. Aïeul, has aïeuls when it means grandfathers, and aïeux in the sense of ancestors.

5. How compound words form their plural : —

Les beaux-frères, the brothers-in-law.

Les belles-sœurs, the sisters-in-law.

Les choux-fleurs, the cauliflowers.

Les chefs-lieux, the chief-towns (of counties).

2. But when a word is composed of two substantives separated by a preposition, the first alone takes the plural termination. Ex.:—

Les chefs-d'œuvre, the masterpieces.

Les arcs-en-ciel, the rainbows.

3. When a word consists of a substantive and a verb or preposition, the substantive alone can take the sign of the plural, if required by the sense. Ex.:—

Les tire-bottes, the boot-jacks.

Les essuiè-mains, the towels.

Les garde-fous, the balusters.

4. When there is no substantive in the compound word, none of the components can take the mark of the plural. Ex.:—

Les passe-partout (not passe-partouts), the master-keys.

Les forte-piano, the pianos.

5. The words: la grand'mère, the grandmother; la grand'tante, grand-aunt; la grand'rue, the main street; la grand'route, the highway, — have, in the plural, les grand'mères, les grand'tantes, etc.

Les castors entreprennent des travaux très-considérables pour se construire des habitations solides et commodes. Ce sont des cabanes (huts) ou plutôt des espèces de maisonnettes bâties dans l'eau, avec deux issues, l'une pour aller à terre, l'autre pour se jeter à l'eau. La forme de cet édifice³ est presque toujours ovale ou ronde ; il y en a depuis quatre ou cinq pieds jusqu'à huit ou dix de diamètre et de deux ou trois étages.⁴ Les murailles⁵ ont jusqu'à deux pieds d'épaisseur ;⁶ elles sont élevées à plomb⁷ sur un pilotis,⁸ qui sert en même temps de fondement et de plancher à la maison.

Les castors aiment à ronger⁹ continuellement de l'écorce (bark), et ils en font ample provision pour se nourrir pendant l'hiver. Chaque cabane a son magasin, et ils ne vont jamais piller¹⁰ leurs voisins. Ces cabanes contiennent quelquefois jusqu'à trente castors, qui vivent toujours en paix ensemble. Si quelque castor aperçoit un ennemi, il donne un grand coup, de sa queue, sur l'eau. A ce signal, tous les autres plongent dans l'eau, ou se réfugient dans les cabanes.

READING LESSON.

DÉMOSTHÈNE.

Démosthène, jeune homme d'Athènes, avait grande envie de devenir orateur habile ; mais la nature semblait lui en avoir refusé tous les moyens.

D'abord il bégayait¹ à l'excès ; puis il ne pouvait prononcer la lettre R. ; ensuite il avait une voix désagréable et glapissante,² et de faibles poumons.³ D'autres ajoutent qu'il avait encore la mauvaise habitude de lever l'épaule⁴, quand il avait prononcé trois ou quatre mots. Aussi, la première fois qu'il harangua le peuple, il s'en tira si mal, qu'il fut sifflé⁵.

Tout autre que lui aurait à jamais perdu courage. Mais Démosthène prit patience et résolut, en dépit⁶ de la nature, de devenir bon orateur, et il le devint. Écoutez comment il s'y prit.⁷

Quelquefois il allait au bord de la mer, dans l'endroit où les vagues⁸ venaient se briser (break) avec fracas.⁹ Là, il débitait¹⁰ un discours à haute voix, pour s'accoutumer à dominer le tumulte d'une assemblée populaire.

D'autres fois, il mettait dans sa bouche de petits cailloux (pebbles) ; puis il courait en gravissant¹¹ une montagne et en déclamant, afin de se contraindre¹² à prononcer clairement jusqu'à la moindre syllabe.

Enfin, on dit qu'il s'exerçait à parler dans une chambre souterraine,¹³ et que pour se mettre dans la nécessité de rester longtemps enfermé, il s'était fait raser¹⁴ la moitié de la tête.

Il se plaçait des heures entières devant un miroir, pour se donner une bonne contenance et des gestes convenables. On dit qu'il se mettait aussi l'épaule nue immédiatement sous la pointe d'une épée,¹⁵ afin qu'elle le piquât,¹⁶ toutes les fois que, d'après sa mauvaise habitude, il ferait son mouvement d'épaule.

C'est par des exercices soutenus¹⁷ de ce genre, joints à une étude profonde des sciences, qu'il se rendit enfin le plus grand orateur qui ait existé ; et aujourd'hui encore, après tant de siècles,¹⁸ ses harangues sont admirées comme des chefs-d'œuvre d'éloquence.

1. To stammer. 2. Shrill. 3. Lungs. 4. Shoulder. 5. To hiss. 6. In spite of. 7. To manage. 8. The waves. 9. Noise. 10. To deliver. 11. To climb. 12. To force. 13. Subterranean. 14. To shave. 15. A sword. 16. To sting. 17. Continued. 18. Century.

IV. QUATRIÈME LEÇON.

SPECIAL USE OF DE AND A.

In general we may say de is used when made of, composed of, coming from, belonging to, can be understood ; whereas à is employed when for the purpose of is meant.

I. DE IS USED : —

1. After adverbs of quantity, as : beaucoup, peu, plus, moins, tant, etc. (See Part I. L. 6, p. 42.)

2. Before a limiting word which follows a noun used partitively and preceded by a word denoting quality. Ex.:—

Il y eut deux hommes DE tués, there were two men killed.

Voici quelque chose DE plus, here is something more.

Voici un homme DE trop, here is a man too many.

J'ai deux chambres DE louées, I have two rooms let.

NOTE. The noun may be understood. Ex.: J'en ai une de louée. Or rien or personne may supply the place of the noun and its preceding word. Ex.: Il n'y a personne de malade chez nous, there is no one sick at our house. Rien de bon, nothing good.

3. As in English, after nouns expressing quantity, number, measure, weight, etc., as : —

Une quantité de noix, a quantity of walnuts.

Une paire de bas, a pair of stockings.

Une livre de beurre, a pound of butter.

Une pièce de toile, a piece of linen.

Un morceau de fromage, a piece of cheese.

Une main de papier, a quire of paper.

Une bouteille de vin, a bottle of wine.

4. After adjectives denoting dimension or age, as : —

A wall twenty feet high : un mur haut de vingt pieds or un mur qui a vingt pieds DE haut or DE hauteur.

A boy ten years old, un (petit) garçon de dix ans.

A table six feet long, une table longue de six pieds or de six pieds de longueur.

NOTE. It may be observed here that with adjectives of dimension, the verb to be may be rendered in French by avoir, as : —

This tower is 120 feet high.

Cette tour A cent vingt pieds DE hauteur.

5. When an English adjective is rendered in French by a noun, the order of the substantives is inverted in English. In French the latter is preceded by de. Ex.: —

A witty man, un homme d'esprit.

A gold watch, une montre d'or.

Silk stockings, des bas de soie.

The Russian Ambassador, l'ambassadeur de Russie.

Irish linen, la toile d'Irlande.

Spanish wool, la laine d'Espagne.

Burgundy wine, le vin de Bourgogne.

6. De is used, as in English, after a common noun followed by its proper name. Ex.: —

Le royaume d'Espagne, the kingdom of Spain.

L'île de Malte, the island of Malta.

La ville de Londres, the city of London.

Le lac de Genève, the lake of Genève.

Except the combinations with mont, rue, place, and église, as: le Mont Blanc, le Mont Etna, rue Richelieu, place Vendôme, l'église Saint-Sulpice, etc.

7. After many adjectives it takes the place of the English with, from, of, by, in, etc. (See L. 8, compl. of adj. 1.) Ex.: —

Full of ardor, plein de feu.

Greedy after money, avide d'argent.

Dressed in black, vêtu de noir.

I am pleased with my situation.

Je suis content de ma position.

I am deprived of everything, je suis privé de tout.

8. De is used for than, instead of que, after plus, more, and moins, less, when these adverbs are followed by a numeral adjective or substantive : —

Il a plus de six ans, he is more than six years old.

9. For in, after a superlative, before the name of a place : —

Une des meilleures institutions de Boston, one of the best institutions in Boston.

Les garçons de notre école, the boys in our school.

FRENCH COMPOUND NOUNS WITH DE.

10. English nouns compounded with two substantives are generally rendered in French by two separate substantives joined by de, when one expresses the nature, species, or quality of the other. (Compare p. 240, 2.) In French the order must be altered, the last coming first, and a preposition inserted. Westminster bridge, for instance, must be translated as if it were bridge of Westminster : le pont de Westminster.

1. De is used when coming from, belonging to, made of can be understood, as : —

A toothache, un mal de dents.

A headache, un mal de tête.

The town-hall, l'hôtel de ville.

A sea-fish, un poisson de mer.

A feather-bed, un lit de plumes.

A holiday, un jour de fête.

A gold mine, une mine d'or.

The moon-light, le clair de lune.

A masterpiece, un chef-d'œuvre.

2. When in the English word the second component denotes a person or an animal, in French de is always used, as :—

A schoolmaster, un maître d'école.

A chambermaid, une femme de chambre.

The dancing-master, le maître de danse.

The music-mistress, la maîtresse de musique.

A saddle-horse, un cheval de selle.

V. CINQUIÈME LEÇON.

PECULIARITIES IN THE USE OF NAMES OF COUNTRIES, TOWNS, ETC.

(See Part I., L. VII.)

1. As mentioned in the First Part (7th lesson), the definite article is put before the names of countries, provinces, rivers, and mountains. But the names of countries and islands, which have the same name as cities situated in them, such as Naples, Bade, Gènes (Genoa), Malte, Candie, etc., are used without the article.

Except, however: le Hanovre and le Luxembourg.

2. Further, the definite article is always retained with names of countries which are only used in the plural, and in those which are compounded with an adjective. Ex.: —

The productions of India, les productions des Indes.

The governor of the Netherlands.

Le gouverneur des Pays-bas.

The queen of Great Britain.

La reine de la Grande-Bretagne.

3. In the following cases de only, without the article, is used before names of countries : —

1. When sovereigns, courts, and titles are spoken of. Ex.: —

La reine d'Angleterre, the queen of England.

Le Grand-duc de Bade, the grand-duke of Baden.

NOTE. With the names of some countries that are not European, the article is generally used, as : —

L'empereur de la Chine, du Brésil, etc.

The emperor of China, of Brazil, etc.

However, with Persia, la Perse, and Egypt, l'Égypte, only de is used : —

Le roi de Perse, the king of Persia.

2. Where the names of countries have the meaning of an adjective (see also L. IV. 4), as : —

L'argent de France, French money.

La soie d'Italie, the silk of Italy.

Du fromage de Suisse, Swiss cheese (de may be omitted).

3. After the verbs : venir, to come ; revenir, to come back, to return ; arriver, to arrive, and the noun le retour, if the name of the country is feminine, as : —

Il est venu de France, he has come from France.

Lorsque je revins d'Espagne, when I returned from Spain.

A mon retour d'Italie, on my return from Italy.

But if the same is masculine, the definite article is used, as : —

J'arrive du Tyrol, du Mexique, du Portugal, etc.

4. After words, such as empire, royaume (kingdom), duché, ville, île (isle), as in English (see L. IV. 6) : —

L'empire d'Autriche, the Empire of Austria.

La ville de Paris, the city of Paris.

4. Both to and in used after a word signifying going, coming, sending, living, being, etc., before names of countries in the singular, must be rendered in French by the preposition en, without any article. Ex. : —

We are going to America, nous allons en Amérique.

He is to go back to Belgium, il doit retourner en Belgique.

I send him to Switzerland, je l'envoie en Suisse.

My brother is in America, mon frère est en Amérique.

Rouen is in France, Rouen est située en France.

5. If the name of the country be accompanied by an adjective, dans with the definite article must be used :

Dans la Suisse française, in French Switzerland.

Dans l'Allemagne méridionale, in southern Germany.

6. The article is omitted before names of towns, villages, etc., as : —

Anvers, Antwerp.

Athènes, Athens.

Bruzelles, Brussels.

Douvres, Dover.

Genève, Geneva.

Livourne, Leghorn.

Lisbonne, Lisbon.

NOTE. A few names of towns are preceded by the article : —

7. The names of rivers and mountains are preceded by the definite article, as in English :

le Tibre, the Tiber.

le Rhône, the Rhone.

le Danube, the Danube.

le Rhin, the Rhine.

la Moselle, the Moselle.

les Alpes, the Alps.

8. Both to and at or in before names of places are rendered by à. Ex.: —

Are you going to Brussels, allez-vous à Bruxelles?

He was at Rome and Naples, il était à Rome et à Naples.

9. After partir, to set out, to leave, the preposition pour must be used before names of countries with the article, before names of cities without it : —

Nous partirons pour l'Espagne et le Portugal.

We will set out (or leave) for Spain and Portugal.

VI. SIXIÈME LEÇON.

POSSESSIVE ADJECTIVES.

(See the First Part, L. XII.)

1. Possessive adjectives must be repeated :—

1. Before every noun of the same sentence, as :—

My brothers and sisters have arrived.

Mes frères et mes sœurs sont arrivés.

2. Before two or three adjectives qualifying different things :—

I love your great and your little children.

J'aime vos grands et vos petits enfants.

NOTE. But when the two substantives relate to the same person, and when the two or three adjectives are of the like signification* and qualify the same object, the possessive adjective is not repeated. Ex.:—

My teacher and friend, mon précepteur et ami.

His good and useful advice, ses bons et utiles conseils.

* If they have a contrary signification, the possessive adjective must be repeated, as : Ses bonnes et ses mauvaises pensées (thoughts).

2. Custom requires the use of the possessive adjective before the names of relations in addressing them or speaking of them. Ex.:—

Aunt, when do you leave?

Ma tante, quand partez-vous?

Cousin, will you go with me?

Mon cousin (ma cousine), voulez-vous aller avec moi?

Father is not at home, mon père n'est pas à la maison.

3. When in English the possessive pronouns mine, thine, his, hers, etc., preceded by the preposition of, are placed after a noun to which they relate, they are rendered in French by mes, tes, ses, etc., before the noun, which is put in the plural. Ex.:—

A book of mine, un de mes livres.

A friend of yours, un de vos amis.

4. When the verb to be is found before a possessive adjective followed by a noun in the possessive case, and signifies to belong, in French à must be used. Ex.:—

This book is my father's, ce livre est à mon père.

That house is our uncle's, cette maison-là est à notre oncle.

5. When parts of the body, or physical and intellectual faculties are spoken of, the French generally use the definite article where in English the possessive adjective is used (see L. III. 5.) Ex.:—

I have a pain in my head, j'ai mal à la tête.

He has lost his senses, il a perdu l'esprit.

NOTE 1. If, however, there were an ambiguity to be feared, the possessive adjective should be used in French as in English.

NOTE 2. When a habitual complaint is spoken of, the possessive adjective is also properly used. Ex.:—

His headache has returned, sa migraine l'a repris.

6. After the verbs changer and redoubler the possessive adjective is dropped and replaced by the preposition de, as:—

He has changed his religion, il a changé de religion.

READING LESSON.

EUDAMIDAS.

Eudamidas de Corinthe fit, en mourant, un testament qui semblerait ridicule à tout autre qu'à un ami. Il touchait à sa dernière heure, et laissait sa mère et sa fille exposées à la plus cruelle indigence, n'ayant pour tout bien que deux fidèles amis, Carixène et Aréthus. Eudamidas ne fut point alarmé ; il jugea des cœurs de ses amis par le sien propre, et il fit ce testament qui ne doit jamais être oublié. “ Je lègue¹ à Aréthus le soin de nourrir ma mère, et de l'entretenir dans sa vieillesse ; à Carixène le soin de marier ma fille, et de lui donner une dot² convenable.”

Carixène étant mort quelque temps après, Aréthus exécuta la commission de tous les deux ; et, pour rendre son action plus illustre, il maria la fille de son ami et la sienne en un même jour, et leur donna à toutes deux une même dot. Quant à (as to) la mère, il la nourrit jusqu'à la mort. Si la générosité d'Aréthus est digne d'admiration, la noble hardiesse³ et la confiance du testateur⁴ l'est encore davantage ; car celui qui a la résolution de faire un semblable⁵ testament, est capable non-seulement de l'exécuter, mais de quelque chose encore de plus, et il n'est pas douteux qu'il n'eût nourri la mère de son ami, et marié sa fille, aussi bien que la sienne propre, même sans en être prié.

Le fer, la flamme était toute prête.

The sword, the flame was quite ready.

2. The adjectives demi, half ; nu, bare ; excepté, except ; y compris, included ; supposé, supposed ; ci-joint, inclosed, annexed, are invariable when they precede the noun ; demi and nu are then joined with their noun by a hyphen. Ex. :

Une demi-heure, half an hour

Marcher nu-pieds, to walk barefooted.

Marcher nu-tête, to walk bareheaded.

Excepté les deux premières pages.

Except the two first pages.

Y compris la somme de cent francs.

The sum of a hundred francs included.

Supposé ces faits, these facts supposed.

But they must agree with their noun when they follow it, as :

Une heure et demie, an hour and a half.

Avoir les jambes nues, to have bare legs.

Les deux premières pages exceptées.

The two first pages excepted.

Copie de ma lettre est ci-jointe.

A copy of my letter is annexed.

3. Feu, late, is invariable, like the preceding ones, when it is before the article or possessive pronoun ; when it follows, it varies, as :

Feu la reine or la feuë reine, the late queen.

Feu mes tantes or mes feuës tantes, my late aunts.

4. Some adjectives, as bon, vite, bas, etc., may be used adverbially : then, of course, they are invariable. Ex. :

Ces roses sentent très-bon (not bonnes).

These roses smell very sweet.

Les cerfs courent très-vite, the stags run very fast.

5. If the expression avoir l'air, to look, is followed by an adjective, this latter remains unchanged when a moral or intellectual quality is spoken of, as :

Ces dames ont l'air bon.

These ladies look good-natured.

But if a bodily or organic quality is mentioned, or when the adjective refers rather to the subject than to the word air, the adjective agrees with the subject of the sentence. In this latter case, the verb être is understood, as :

Ces pierres ont l'air très-dures.

These stones seem to be very hard.

Madame F. a l'air mécontente (i. e. d'être mécontente).

Mrs. F. appears to be discontented.

6. If a noun is accompanied by an adjective in the superlative, the latter always agrees with it in gender and number. When the superlative follows, the article must be repeated :

La plus belle femme, the handsomest woman.

Les gens les plus riches, the richest people.

THEME 15.

1. I have a good friend. 2. The leaves are green. 3. These pears are riper than those apples. 4. His brother and cousin have arrived. 5. Charles and Louisa are very industrious. 6. Men and women are mortal. 7. My son and daughter are happy. 8. His uncle and aunt are dead. 9. Louis XIV. had in France an absolute¹ power² and authority (autorité). 10. She left her room and her trunk³ open. 11. I found the windows and the shutters⁴ shut. 12. Give these presents to the most industrious pupils. 13. Miss Emma is the daughter of the richest man in (de) this town. 14. I remained there (y) [for] half an hour. 15. The child slept two hours and a half. 16. I have read the whole book, except the two last chapters.⁵ 17. The late queen was opposed⁶ to that measure.⁷ 18. Why do you go barefooted? 19. These pears appear to be ripe.

1. Absolu. 2. Pouvoir, m. 3. Coffre, m. 4. Volet, m. 5. Chapitre, m. 6. S'opposait. 7. Mesure.

B. PLACE OF THE ADJECTIVE.

The principal rules have already been given in the seventeenth Lesson of Part I. We have to add here only the following.

When two adjectives refer to the same noun, we should examine what kind of adjectives they are.

1. If both of them are such as precede, when single, they may both remain before the noun if one of them forms with the noun, as it were, but one idea. Ex. :

Une jolie petite fille,* a pretty little girl.

Un beau jeune homme,† a handsome young man.

* In Latin filiola.

† Youth (juvenis).

2. If both preceding adjectives are taken in their full sense, they must be joined by et, and, as :

Un grand et beau jardin, a large, beautiful garden.

3. An adjective usually placed before the noun, when connected by a conjunction with another adjective which is to be put after it, is itself placed after the noun. Ex. :

Une action belle et courageuse.*

A fine, courageous action.

Une femme petite, mais bien faite.

A short but well-made woman.

4. In English, two or more adjectives may qualify a substantive, without a conjunction ; but in French, et (or sometimes mais) is always placed before the last of the adjectives, if these follow their noun. Ex. :

Une dame riche, jeune et aimable.

A young, rich, amiable lady.

Un homme instruit, modeste et estimé de tout le monde.

A well-instructed, modest, and generally-esteemed man.

THEME 16.

1. Charles is a handsome young man. 2. Henry is a pretty little boy. 3. This is a long (and) tedious¹ book. 4. My friend is an amiable and virtuous man. 5. He has a large and beautiful house. 6. This is a drowned² man or woman. 7. For this place I want an aged man or woman. 8. Is it the elder brother or sister ? 9. The savage lived in a large, damp³ cavern. 10. Spain is a fertile country, but badly cultivated.⁴ 11. A plain,⁵ simple, and natural style is the only one to be recommended.⁶ 12. Brave and trusty⁷ men are generally humane⁸ and merciful.⁹ 13. This is an interesting¹⁰ and instructive study.¹¹

1. Ennuyeux. 2. Noyé e. 3. Humide. 4. Cultivé e. 5. Uni. 6. Recommandable. 7. Constant. 8. Humain. 9. Miséricordieux. 10. Intéressant. 11. Etude, f.

* "A fine action" would be, Une belle action.

C. COMPLEMENT OF ADJECTIVES.

The complement of an adjective is either a substantive or a verb, preceded by one of the prepositions de, à, en, etc.

1. Adjectives and participles which denote plenty, desire, scarcity or want, and most of those followed in English by of, with and from, govern in French by means of the preposition de, as :

La vie est pleine de misères, life is full of miseries.

Le jeune homme fut comblé d'honneurs, (loaded with honors).

2. The following adjectives govern also by means of de :

Capable, capable.

las, tired, wearied.

content, contented, pleased.

libre, free.

digne, worthy.

mécontent, discontented.

exempt, free.

satisfait, satisfied.

honteux, ashamed.

sûr, sure, etc.

jaloux, jealous.

Ex. : Il est digne de récompense, he is worthy of reward.

3.* Adjectives denoting fitness, unfitness, disposition, inclination, readiness, or any habit, require à before the object. Ex. :

Il est propre à tout, he is fit for anything.

Le cheval est utile à l'homme, the horse is useful to man.

NOTE 1. The following adjectives are followed by à in French and of in English :

Attentif à, heedful of ; sensible à, sensible of ; insensible à, insensible of or to.

Ex. : Soyez attentifs au danger, be heedful of (the) danger.

Je suis sensible à votre bonté, I am sensible of your kindness.

NOTE 2. Some adjectives are followed in French by the preposition à, and in English by in ; such are :

Habile à, skilful in.

patient à, patient in.

exact à, punctual in.

impatient à, impatient in.

Ex. : Il est habile à tout, he is skilful in doing all.

Elle est exacte à son service, she is punctual in her service.

4. The following adjectives, which are followed in English by to or towards when they express behavior, require in French the preposition envers :

* To this rule must be excepted some words in the preceding list, § 2.

Affable envers, affable to.

bon envers, (or pour) kind to.

juste envers, just to.

cruel envers, cruel to.

honnête envers, civil to.

poli envers, polite to.

reconnaissant envers, thankful to.

respectueux envers, respectful to.

généreux envers, generous to.

libéral envers, liberal to.

Ex. : Il a été très-bon envers moi (or pour moi).

He has been very kind to me.

Soyez poli envers tout le monde.

Be polite (civil) to everybody.

5. All others not mentioned in the foregoing sections, and which take in English the preposition to, are followed in French by à.

Ex. :

That is easy to say, cela est facile à dire.

• Religion is necessary to man, la religion est nécessaire à l'homme.

He was deaf to my prayers, il était sourd à mes prières.

THEME 17.

1. We were loaded¹ with honors. 2. The basket² is full of fruit. 3. Do not be so greedy of (after) riches. 4. My cousin is worthy of your friendship. 5. Are you pleased with your horse? 6. Human life³ is never free from troubles.⁴ 7. Voltaire was always greedy of praise and insatiable of glory. 8. I am not satisfied with your exercise. 9. That old man is not fit for that place; he is not punctual in his engagements. 10. My servant is always ready to do his duty.⁵ 11. Nature³ is content with little. 12. Many people are dissatisfied with their condition. 13. Let us be kind to everybody. 14. These children are inclined⁶ to idleness.⁷ 15. That is easy to say, but difficult to do. 16. Scipio Africanus⁸ was respectful to his mother, liberal to his sisters, good to his servants, just and affable to everybody. 17. Children must⁹ not be cruel to animals. 18. He is insensible to all the remonstrances¹⁰ of his friends.

1. Comblé. 2. Le panier. 3. Put the article. 4. Peine, f. 5. Devoir, m. 6. Enclin. 7. Paresse, f. 8. Scipion l'Africain. 9. Doivent. 10. Remontrance, f.

D. ADJECTIVES OF DIMENSION.

1. Adjectives relating to the dimension or size of objects are expressed in French either by an adjective or a substantive. Thus long can be rendered by the adjective long or longue (f.) de, or by the noun de longueur. Observe that in the first case de follows, in the second precedes, and that these adjectives are placed after the substantive and before the dimension. Ex. :

2. The verb to be connected with such adjectives, must be expressed by être when, in French, the adjective of dimension is preferred to the noun, as :

This table is ten feet long.

Cette table est longue de dix pieds.

That tower is a hundred feet high.

Cette tour-là est haute de cent pieds.

3. But the verb to be must be rendered by avoir when the dimension is expressed by a noun. Ex. :

This table is ten feet long.

Cette table a dix pieds de longueur.

That tower is a hundred feet high.

Cette tour-là a cent pieds de hauteur.

4. In a similar manner age is expressed either with âgé de and the verb être, or with the verb avoir without the verb âgé. Ex. :

A boy eight years old, un garçon âgé de huit ans.

(The latter is much preferred.)

5. The word by, which is sometimes used in English after a comparative, to denote how much a thing exceeds another, is rendered by de, not by par. Ex. :

Charles is taller than I by three inches.

Charles est plus grand que moi de trois pouces.

THEME 18.

1. I have seen a tree ninety feet high. 2. We have a house eighty feet long and forty-five high. 3. This stick is three feet long. 4. This plank¹ is two inches² thick.³ 5. This tree is fifty feet high. 6. London bridge⁴ is nine hundred and twenty feet long, fifty-five high, and fifty-six wide.⁵ 7. The monument of London stands (est placé) on a pedestal⁶ twenty feet high. 8. This ditch is twelve feet deep.⁷ 9. The famous mine of Potosi in (dans le) Peru is more than (de) fifteen hundred feet deep.⁷ 10. My room is forty feet long and thirty wide. 11. The walls of Algiers⁸ are fourteen feet thick and thirty feet high. 12. King Street⁹ is about¹⁰ a mile¹¹ and a half long and sixty-five feet wide. 13. My brother is elder than I by two years. 14. I am taller than Robert by seven inches. 15. 1. Planche, f. 2. Pouce, m. 3. Epais, épaisse. 4. Le pont de Londres. 5. Large or — largeur. 6. Piédestal. 7. Profondeur. 8. Alger. 9. La rue royale. 10. Environ. 11. Mille, m. 12. The free-way = le passage. 13. Il consiste. 14. Pile, f. 15. Du milieu. 16. Tonneau, m.

READING LESSON.

L'ÉLÉPHANT.

L'éléphant est le plus gros des quadrupèdes; il habite les forêts épaisses,¹ les bords des fleuves et les lieux humides. Ses jambes informes soutiennent un corps épais et lourd.² On aperçoit à peine sa petite queue,³ tandis que de larges oreilles ombragent⁴ les deux côtés de sa tête. Ses yeux sont petits en proportion de son corps énorme. Son nez, qui se prolonge de plusieurs pieds et qui est très-flexible, lui sert de main. A l'aide de ce nez, qu'on appelle trompe,⁵ il puise (draws) de l'eau, cueille les herbes et les fleurs, dénoue⁶ les cordes, ouvre et ferme les portes, débouche les bouteilles, ramasse par terre la plus petite pièce de monnaie ; en un mot, il fait presque tout ce que nous faisons avec nos doigts. Quand il a soif, il remplit d'eau cette trompe, et boit ensuite comme s'il vidait⁷ une bouteille. Il se nourrit d'herbes, de feuilles, de fruits et de riz (rice). Il mange environ cent cinquante livres d'herbes par jour.

De chaque côté de sa trompe sortent deux énormes dents qu'on appelle défenses. Ces défenses sont des armes terribles, dont il épouvante⁸ les plus féroces animaux. Elles fournissent une matière précieuse, qu'on appelle ivoire, et pèsent⁹ jusqu'à cent livres chacune.

1. Thick. 2. Heavy. 3. Tail. 4. To shade, over-shade. 5. Trunk or proboscis. 6. To untie. 7. To empty. 8. To terrify. 9. To weigh.

IX. NEUVIÈME LEÇON.

I. PERSONAL PRONOUNS.

(See Part I., L. XXIV.)

1. Conjunctive pronouns, in the first and second persons, should be repeated before every verb in a simple tense. Ex.:—

Je vous aime et je vous aimerai toujours.

I love you and (I) shall always love you.

Vous dites et vous direz toujours.

You say and (you) will always say.

Je le vois et je l'entends.

I see and hear it.

Il nous ennuie et nous obsède sans cesse.

He wearies (us) and besets us unceasingly.

NOTE. With a compound tense, or when the pronouns are in the third person, they are rarely repeated, though more frequently than in English, as:—

Je l'ai vu et entendu.

I have seen and heard it.

Il écoute et ne peut comprendre, etc.

He listens and cannot conceive, etc.

2. When an emphasis is laid upon the personal pronoun, it must be repeated in French, but then, the first is disjunctive. Very often it is then preceded by c'est, or for the third person plural, by ce sont. Ex.:—

I say so, $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \textit{moi, je le dis.} \\ \textit{c'est moi, qui le dis.} \end{array} \right.$

He has pretended this, $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \textit{lui, il a prétendu cela.} \\ \textit{c'est lui qui a prétendu cela.} \end{array} \right.$

We have not said so, $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \textit{nous n'avons pas dit cela, nous.} \\ \textit{nous, nous n'avons pas dit cela.} \end{array} \right.$
It is not we who said so, $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \textit{ce n'est pas nous qui avons dit cela.} \end{array} \right.$

They have done it, $\begin{cases} \text{eux, ils l'ont fait.} \\ \text{ce sont eux qui l'ont fait.} \end{cases}$

NOTE. Observe that in such cases the verb is put in the same number and person as the pronoun which is the antecedent of the relative qui, as : —

Is it I who told this news ?

Est-ce moi qui ai dit cette nouvelle ?

3. When a verb relates to subjects of different persons, it is put in the plural with nous, if one of the several subjects is in the first person, — or with vous, if the subjects are in the second and third persons. Ex.: —

My brother and I shall go into the country.

Mon frère et moi, nous irons à la campagne, or,

Nous irons à la campagne, mon frère et moi.

I told you and him or both you and him.

Je vous l'ai dit à toi et à lui.

You and your friend will come with me.

Vous et votre ami, vous viendrez avec moi.

4. When the verb governs two pronouns (both being persons) one in the Direct Objective, the other in the Indirect, the Indirect is a disjunctive (see p. 110). Ex.: —

Je vais vous présenter à lui.

I am going to introduce you to him.

5. A personal pronoun, used as subject, may follow the verb after aussi, peut-être, encore, toujours, en vain, du moins, or au moins.

THEME 19.

1. I believe and shall always believe that you were (avez eu) wrong. 2. He says so, but he does not believe it. 3. I honor and respect him, but I do not love him. 4. We come and go. 5. A passionate¹ temper² renders a man unfit³ for business,⁴ deprives⁵ him of his reason, and makes him unfit (makes that he is not fit) (propre) for society.⁴ 6. I have always loved and esteemed her. 7. They (on) flatter⁶ and praise us. 8. It is I who have written it.

9. It is they who have seen it. 10. They and my brother have come. 11. You like the town and I the country.

1. Passionné. 2. Caractère. 3. Inapte. 4. Put the definite article. 5. Priver. 6. Flatter.

6. When two personal pronouns limit a verb, both should be disjunctive, and therefore after the verb. Ex.:—

I forgive both you and her.

*Je pardonne à vous et à elle.

I speak to him and not to you.

Je parle à lui et non à vous.

7. The pronouns himself, herself, themselves, when with a reflexive verb, are expressed in French by se; otherwise by lui-même, elle-même, eux-mêmes, elles-mêmes. Ex.:—

He (she) does not know himself (herself).

Il (elle) ne se connaît pas.

They highly distinguished themselves.

Ils (elles) se distinguèrent beaucoup. But:

Has he done it himself? Yes, himself.

L'a-t-il fait lui-même? Oui, lui-même.

8. Soi, self, is of both genders, and is used of things as well as of persons. Ex.:—

Il est sage de parler rarement de soi.

It is wise to talk seldom of one's self.

9. The pronoun itself, preceded by a preposition and relating to an inanimate object, is expressed by soi, when the antecedent noun is taken in an abstract sense. Ex.:—

L'aimant attire le fer à soi.

The loadstone attracts iron to itself.

La vertu est aimable en soi.

Virtue is amiable in itself.

*This sentence may better be translated thus: Je vous pardonne ainsi qu'à elle, and the following, c'est à vous que je parle, etc.

10. But it is rendered by elle, when the inanimate object is of an individual nature and of the feminine gender. Ex.:—

La rivière entraîna tout avec elle.

The river carried everything away with itself.

Ces raisons sont solides en elles-mêmes.

Those reasons are solid in themselves.

11. The English personal pronouns are always rendered by the disjunctive (moi, toi, lui, etc.), when they are used alone, or when after a preposition or after que, than. Ex.:—

Qui a fait cela? Moi, lui, elle, etc.

Who has done that? I, he, she, etc.

Voulez-vous aller avec moi, avec lui, avec eux? etc.

Will you go with me, with him, with them? etc.

Je parle de toi, d'elle, d'elles, de vous, etc.

I am speaking of thee, of her, of them, of you, etc.

Il est plus jeune que moi.

He is younger than I.

THEME 20.

1. I speak to you and to him. 2. I forgive [both] you and him, because I hope (that) you will behave¹ better for the future (à l'avenir). 3. The governor is your enemy; if you apply² to him, you will never succeed.³ 4. I do not trust⁴ (to) him, but I should trust (to) his brother. 5. That man works for himself. 6. Each acts for himself. 7. If you do this for him and for her, you will greatly oblige me. 8. One ought not⁵ [to] speak of one's self, unless (qu') with modesty. 9. That man is too proud; he does not know himself. 10. The moon brought⁶ a change⁷ of weather with it (§ 10).

1. Se conduire. 2. S'adresser à qn. 3. Réussir. 4. Se fier à qn. 5. On ne doit pas. 6. Amena. 7. Changement, m.

II. PARTICULAR USE OF EN AND Y.

1. The pronouns it and them, used with regard to inanimate objects, are rendered by en, when the French verb requires de before an object which follows, whatever preposition may be used in English. Ex.:—

A-t-on parlé de mon ouvrage? Oui, on en a parlé.
 Did they speak of my work? Yes, they spoke of it.
Vous m'avez rendu service. Je vous en remercie.
 You have done me a service. I thank you for it.

2. En is further used to express the words some and any, when they come after a verb, and supply the place of an antecedent substantive, as : —

Voici du jambon; en veux-tu? Donnez-m'en, s'il vous plaît.
 Here is ham, will you have some? Give me some, if you please.
J'ai des noix, en voulez-vous? Donnez m'en trois.
 I have some walnuts; will you have any? Give me three of them.
Donnez-lui-en, give him some.
Offrez-leur-en, offer them some.

NOTE. Observe 1, that when used with another personal pronoun, en follows that pronoun; and 2, that, in the affirmative Imperative, moi and toi are changed into m' and t' before en, as : donnez-m'en.

3. Y stands for in it, into it, at it, to it, there, and, with the verb penser, for of it, about it, of them. Like the other conjunctive pronouns, it is placed immediately before the verb, except with the affirmative Imperative, where it follows it.* EX.: —

Votre père est-il au jardin? Oui, il y est.
 Is your father in the garden? Yes, he is in it (there).
Allez-vous au spectacle? Non, Monsieur, je n'y vais pas.
 Are you going to the theatre? No, sir, I am not.
Y pensez-vous? Je n'y pense plus.
 Do you think of it? I do no more think of it.
Allez-y, go there.
N'y allez pas, do not go there.
 NOTE. Y must always refer to an antecedent.

* Except moi and toi which follow the word y, with the affirmative Imperative, as : Conduisez-y-moi, rends-y-toi (go there), whereas we say : Conduisez-nous-y. When both en and y happen to be governed by the same verb, y stands before en. EX.: Je vous y en porterai, I will bring you some there. But conduisez-moi là is preferable to conduisez-y-moi.

THEME 21.

1. We speak of it. 2. You speak of them. 3. I am sorry for it. 4. I have heard that your uncle has arrived, and I am very glad of it. 5. She spoke to him of it. 6. Talk¹ no more of it, for I will not hear of it. 7. Have you [any] books? 8. Yes, I have. 9. Have you bought some flowers? 10. Yes, I have bought some. 11. Give me three of them, if you please. 12. You have bread, give some to the poor. 13. I thank you for it. 14. Do not thank me for it. 15. I study that language,² I know its rules well. 16. Since³ you have no apples in your garden, I will send you some. 17. If I had money, I would give you some. 18. Send us some. 19. Send me none. 20. Mr. A. is a true friend; I shall never forget the services which I have received⁴ from him. 21. Is your father in his garden? 22. Yes, he is (in it). 23. Do you agree⁵ to it? 24. Yes, I agree to it. 25. Have you⁶ just returned from the country? 26. No, I am going there. 27. We shall think of it. 28. We have forced⁷ them to it. 29. 1. Parler. 2. Langue, f. 3. Puisque. 4. Reçu. 5. Consentir. 6. Revenez-vous? 7. Forcés. 8. Un fossé. 9. Prenez garde. 10. Verger. 11. Toutes sortes de.

III. THE SUPPLYING PRONOUNS LE, LA, LES.

1. The pronouns le, la, les are used in French to supply the place of an antecedent substantive or adjective, or of a phrase. In such case, their equivalent in English is so or it, either expressed or understood.

2. When le refers to a noun with the definite article or possessive adjective, it takes the gender and number of that noun. Ex. : —

Etes-vous la mère de ces enfants. Oui, je la suis.

Are you the mother of these children? Yes, I am.

Mesdemoiselles, êtes-vous les nièces de Madame B.? Oui, Madame, nous les sommes.

Ladies, are you Mrs. B.'s nieces? Yes, madame, we are.

Sont-ce là vos domestiques? Oui, ce les sont.

Are those your servants? Yes, they are.

Sont-ce là vos gants neufs? Non, ce ne les sont pas.

Are those your new gloves? No, they are not.

3. But when le supplies the place of an adjective, of a noun used adjectively, or of a phrase, it remains unchanged. Ex. : —

Depuis quand êtes-vous malade? Je le suis depuis huit jours.

How long have you been ill? I have been (so) these eight days.

Ces dames sont-elles mariées? Oui, elles le sont.

Are these ladies married? Yes, they are (it or so);

Etes-vous chrétiens? Oui, nous le sommes.

Are you Christians? Yes, we are.

Il le fera, s'il le peut, he will do it, if he can.

NOTE. Le, la, les must be used (§ 2) when the adjective is used substantively, as :

Mademoiselle, êtes-vous la malade? Oui, je la suis.

Miss, are you the sick one? Yes, I am (she).

4. Le should also be inserted in sentences containing a comparative, after que — ne, as :

READING LESSON.

L'ÉLÉPHANT. (Continuation.)

L'éléphant vit (lives) au delà de cent cinquante ans, quand il est libre. Ces animaux marchent ordinairement de compagnie; le plus âgé conduit la troupe; le second d'âge marche le dernier; les jeunes et les femelles sont au milieu des autres; les mères portent leurs petits et les tiennent embrassés de leurs trompes.

L'éléphant dompté¹ est le plus doux et le plus patient de tous les animaux. Il s'attache à celui qui le soigne;² il le caresse, et semble deviner³ tout ce qui peut lui plaire. En peu de temps il comprend les signes et même la parole. Il reçoit les ordres de son maître avec attention et les exécute avec prudence. Un éléphant domestique rend autant de service que six bons chevaux.

Ils ne cassent rien de ce qu'on leur confie. Ils posent doucement les paquets qu'ils portent, et les rangent dans l'endroit⁴ qu'on leur montre. Ils essaient avec leurs trompes flexibles, s'ils sont bien situés, et quand un tonneau⁵ commence à rouler, ils vont d'eux-mêmes chercher des pierres pour l'établir solidement.

1. To tame. 2. To take care. 3. To guess. 4. Place. 5. Cask.

CONVERSATION.

Quel âge l'éléphant atteint-il ?	Il vit au delà de 150 ans.
Se laisse-t-il dompter ?	Oui ; et quand il est dompté, il est le plus doux de tous les animaux.
L'éléphant est-il intelligent ?	Très-intelligent ; il comprend les signes et même la parole.
Se rend-il utile aux hommes ?	Un seul éléphant rend autant de service que six bons chevaux.
Les éléphants sont-ils maladroits (awkward) ?	Non, pas du tout ; ils ne cassent rien de ce qu'on leur confie.
Que font-ils quand un tonneau commence à rouler ?	Ils vont chercher des pierres pour l'établir solidement.

X. DIXIÈME LEÇON.

INTERROGATIVE PRONOUNS.

See Part I., Lesson xxv.

In regard to the interrogative pronouns lequel ? qui ? que ? and quoi ? the following observations are to be made : —

1. Lequel, which ? always refers to some noun either preceding or immediately following, and agrees with it in gender and number.

Ex. : —

Voici deux routes, laquelle prendrez-vous ?

Here are two routes ; which will you take ?

Lesquels de vos souliers sont déchirés ?

Which of your shoes are worn out ?

NOTE. The interrogative adjective what joined to a noun is always expressed by quel, f. quelle. Ex. :—

What book do you read ? quel livre lisez-vous ?

What are your reasons ? quelles sont vos raisons ?

2. The interrogative pronouns who ? whose ? to whom ? whom ? are expressed by qui ? de qui ? (not dont ?) à qui ? and for the objective qui ? (que as an interrogative means what, never whom). Ex. :—

Who comes ? qui vient ?

Of whom do you speak ? de qui parlez-vous ?

Whom do you seek ? qui cherchez-vous ?

3. Instead of the simple qui ? the form qui est-ce qui, who ? is often used for the Nom., and qui est-ce que, whom ? for the Dir. Obj. Ex. :—

Qui est-ce qui vient là, who comes there ?

Qui est-ce que vous cherchez, whom are you looking for ?

4. The same is the case with que ? for which qu'est-ce qui ? is often used in the Nom., and qu'est-ce que ? in the Dir. Obj. The latter has a still stronger form, qu'est-ce que c'est que . . ? This compound form is generally used in the expression what is that ? and also when a simple noun follows, e. g. :—

Qu'est-ce que cela ? } what is that ?
Qu'est-ce que c'est que cela ? }

Qu'est-ce que la vie ? } what is life ?
Qu'est-ce que c'est que la vie ? }

5. The pupil must be careful, however, not to confound qui est-ce qui, who ? with qu'est-ce qui, what ? The latter is used for the wanting Nominative of the conjunctive pronoun que. We say :—

Who has offended you ? } qui est-ce qui vous a offensé ?
 } qui vous a offensé ?

Whereas :

What (Nom.) makes you so sad ?

Qu'est-ce qui vous rend si triste ?

What are you doing there ? } qu'est-ce que vous faites là ?
 } que faites vous là ?

What is the news ? } qu'y a-t-il de nouveau ?
 } qu'est-ce qu'il y a de nouveau ?

6. Que, what? as the conjunctive form, can only be used before the verb or in close connection with it; but the disjunctive form quoi, what? stands either alone or after a preposition, or is even used as an interjection. Ex. : —

Vous cherchez quelque chose; quoi donc?

You are looking for something; what is it?

A quoi pense-t-il, of what does he think?

De quoi parle-t-on, of what do people talk?

Quoi! vous êtes marié! what! you are married!

NOTE. Quoi is also used instead of qu'y a-t-il, as : —

Quoi de plus magnifique qu'une belle nuit d'été! (instead of qu'y a-t-il de plus magnifique!)

What is there more splendid than a beautiful summer's night?

7. In antithetical questions with or (as you or I?), the French usage departs very widely from the English, inasmuch as the contrasted persons or objects, instead of standing in the Nominative as in English, usually follow de. Ex. : —

Qui de vous ou de moi remportera le prix?

Who will take the prize, you or I?

Qui a été le plus appliqué de toi ou d'Emile? or Qui de toi ou d'Emile a été le plus appliqué?

Who has been the most diligent, you or Emil?

8. De may be omitted, however, when two or more ou's occur, and also when de or des with lequel precedes. Ex. : —

Laquelle des deux nations était la plus vertueuse, les Grecs ou les Romains?

Which of the two nations was the more virtuous, the Greeks or the Romans?

THEME 23.

1. Which of your brothers is married? 2. Which of your sisters has (est) gone to England? 3. Of all these pictures, which should you like best?¹ 4. Which of your daughters learns Italian?² 5. Here are two pencils; which will you take? 6. What countries did Alexander the Great conquer?³ 7. What are your terms?⁴ 8. Who goes there? 9. To whom do you speak? 10. For whom does a miser⁵ hoard⁶ riches?⁷ 11. Who will be bold⁸ enough to attack him? 12. Who are these women? 13. Whose⁹ gloves are these?

14. Here are two grammars ; to which do you give the preference ?
 15. Who sustains¹⁰ this globe in the air ? 16. What is more pleasant than to do good ?¹¹ 17. What is human life ? 18. What should prevent¹² your father from buying (d'acheter) this house ?
 19. A little more fame,¹³ a little more wealth, — what does all this signify ?¹⁴ 20. What are you speaking of ? 21. Of what do you accuse me ? 22. On (sur) what will you interrogate¹⁵ him ? 23. What ! Charles has been arrested !¹⁶ 24. Which of you has been sick, Emily or Emma ? 25. Which was the greatest man, Alexander, Cæsar, or Napoleon the First ?

1. Le mieux. 2. Put the article. 3. Put has conquered, a conquis. 4. Condition, f. 5. L'avare, m. 6. Amasser. 7. Richesse. 8. Hardi. 9. See p 264, § 2, 2, à qui. 10. Soutenir. 11. Du bien. 12. Empêcher. 13. Gloire. 14. Signifier. 15. Interroger. 16. Arrêté.

SERVILIUS SE DÉFEND DEVANT LE PEUPLE.

“ Si l’on m’a fait venir ici pour me demander compte¹ de ce qui s’est passé dans la dernière bataille où je commandais, je suis prêt à vous en instruire ; mais si ce n’est qu’un prétexte pour me faire périr, comme je le soupçonne,² épargnez-moi³ des paroles inutiles : voilà mon corps et ma vie que je vous abandonne, vous pouvez en disposer.

“ Quel est donc mon crime ? Quelle faute ai-je commise jusqu’ici ? On m’accuse d’avoir perdu beaucoup de monde dans le dernier combat. Mais quel est le général qui puisse livrer des batailles contre une nation aguerrie,⁴ qui se défend courageusement, sans qu’il y ait de part et d’autre⁵ du sang de répandu ? Quelle divinité s’est engagée envers le peuple romain, à lui faire remporter des victoires sans aucune perte ?⁶ A qui fera-t-on croire que la gloire s’acquiert⁷ autrement que par de grands périls ? XI. ONZIÈME. LEÇON.

RELATIVE PRONOUNS.

(See Part I., L. XXIV.)

1. The relative pronouns who, which and that are rendered by qui, when they are in the Nominative case, whether they refer to persons or things, as : —

The man who works, l'homme que travaille.

The pen which is on the table.

La plume qui est sur la table.

2. The same pronouns when in the Direct Objective, whom, which, that, are expressed by que, as : —

The man whom you know, l'homme que vous connaissez.

The book which I have lost, le livre que j'ai perdu.

NOTE. Sometimes, however, lequel must be employed instead of qui or que, when by the use of the latter an ambiguity might arise. In such a case as this for instance : Le frère de Madame Lebeau qui habite Paris, where two persons being mentioned, it would be doubtful whether we mean to say that the brother or the lady lives in Paris. In the first case, we must say : —

Le frère de Mad. Lebeau lequel habite Paris, or if the lady is meant :

Le frère de Mad. Lebeau laquelle or qui habite Paris.
For the latter of the two persons qui can generally be used.

3. When the relative pronouns whom or which follow a preposition, they are usually expressed by qui in speaking of persons,* and by lequel or laquelle (pl. lesquels, lesquelles) in speaking of animals and things, as : —

The little boy to whom I give the book, is diligent.

Le petit garçon à qui je donne le livre, est appliqué.

The Englishman with whom I travelled.

L'Anglais avec qui j'ai voyagé.

The glory to which heroes sacrifice, etc.

La gloire à laquelle les héros sacrifient, etc.

The cane with which he struck me, etc.

La canne avec laquelle il me frappe, etc.

4. The relative pronouns whose, of whom or of which are commonly expressed in French by dont, both for persons and for objects, as : —

The Frenchman whose brother arrived yesterday.

Le Français dont le frère est arrivé hier (see L. III., 12).

I have seen the garden of which you speak.

J'ai vu le jardin dont vous parlez.

5. But lequel must be employed when the noun which follows whose is governed by a preposition.

We can consequently say : —

The man whose merits are known.

L'homme dont les mérites (Nom.) sont connus.

The author whose works you have read.

* After entre, between, and parmi, among, we must always write lesquels or lesquelles whether persons or things be spoken of.

L'auteur dont vous avez lu les ouvrages (Dir. Obj.).*

But we must say :

The man of whose modesty people talk so much.

L'homme de la modestie duquel on parle tant.

The friend to whose honesty I have trusted, has deceived me.

L'ami à la probité duquel je me suis fié, m'a trompé.

6. The relative pronouns whom, which, and that, are often left out in English, but in French qui and que are never omitted.

Example: —

The boy I saw with you yesterday.

Le garçon que j'ai vu hier avec vous.

I shall send you the books you have chosen.

Je vous enverrai les livres que vous avez choisis.

THEME 34.

1. The man who has done this is generally¹ esteemed. 2. The flocks² which graze³ in those meadows⁴ are mine (à moi). 3. The watch which I had is broken. 4. The books which you read are good, but difficult⁵ to be understood. 5. The sister of my friend who arrived here last week, is very ill. 6. The physician's daughter of whom I spoke to you the other day, has married Mr. B. 7. A bird whose wings have been clipped,⁶ cannot fly any more. 8. Bees⁷ among which we find such admirable order,⁸ are very useful insects. 9. The professor⁹ to whom I write, is very learned. 10. The man you respect is my friend. 11. Idleness is a vice to which young people are much inclined. 12. The country we inhabit¹⁰ is beautiful and fruitful. 13. The reasons upon which I rely,¹¹ are unanswerable.¹² 14. Mr. B. is a man to whose discretion I dare¹³ not trust. 15. He who gets¹⁴ riches, knows not for whom he gets them. 16. The daughter of Minos gave a thread¹⁵ to Theseus,¹⁶ by means (au moyen) of which he went out¹⁷ of the labyrinth (le labyrinthe).

* Observe here the position of the noun. If the word depending upon dont is a Direct Objective, it must stand after the active verb.

1. Généralement. 2. Troupeau, m. 3. Paître, (see p. 178, No. 25). 4. Prairie, f. 5. Difficiles à comprendre. 6. Rognés. 7. Les abeilles. 8. Ordre, m. 9. Professeur. 10. Habiter. 11. Je me fonde. 12. Sans réplique. 13. Je n'ose me fier. 14. Amasser. 15. Un fil. 16. Thésée. 17. Sortir.

7. Quoi, what, is also used as a relative, but only in connection with a preposition, as : —

C'est à quoi je pense le moins.

This is the thing of which I think the least.

Savez-vous à quoi il s'occupe à présent ?

Do you know what he busies himself with now ?

Après quoi, after which. Sans quoi, otherwise.

C'est pourquoi, on that account, therefore.

8. The adverbs of place où, d'où and par où, are also often employed instead of the relative pronouns dans lequel, duquel, par lequel, etc., when things are spoken of, as : —

L'embarras où (for dans lequel) se trouve mon père.

The embarrassment in which my father finds himself.

Le village par où (for par lequel) nous venons de passer.

The village through which we have just passed.

9. The correlative pronouns he who, fem. she who, pl. they who or those who, are rendered by celui qui, fem. celle qui, pl. masc. ceux qui, pl. fem. celles qui. Ex.: —

He who is contented, is happy.

Celui qui est content est heureux.

They (or those) who are discontented, are unhappy.

Ceux qui sont mécontents, sont malheureux.

NOTE 1. Both or either may vary according to the verb they depend on, (celui qui, celui que, etc.) as : —

I shall give it to him whom I love most.

Je le donnerai à celui que j'aime le mieux.

NOTE 2. In French both pronouns must be joined, and no inversion can take place as in English. Ex.: —

He is a bad citizen who rebels against his country.

Celui qui se révolte contre sa patrie est un mauvais citoyen.

10. The English what, when not an interrogative pronoun, but a compound relative in the sense of that which, is translated by ce qui for the Nominative, ce que for the Direct Objective, and by ce dont, when the verb takes the preposition de, as :—

What is fine, is not always good.

Ce qui est beau n'est pas toujours bon.

I shall do what I have promised.

Je ferai ce que j'ai promis.

I have sent him what he needed.

Je lui ai envoyé ce dont il avait besoin.

11. When ce qui, ce que or ce dont begins the sentence, c'est must be placed before the second clause, except (as in the first sentence above) when an adjective or a participle follows, as :—

Ce que vous pouvez faire de mieux, c'est de partir tout de suite.

The best thing for you to do, is to leave immediately.

Ce qui me chagrine, c'est la perte de mon domestique.

What grieves me, is the loss of my servant.

12. Proverbial and general expressions usually commence with qui, whoever, instead of celui qui. Ex.:—

Qui court deux lièvres, n'en prend aucun.

He who chases two hares catches none.

Qui casse les verres, les paie.

Who(ever) breaks the glasses must pay for them.

Sauve qui peut ! let him save himself who can !

THEME 25.

1. This is the object¹ at which he aims.² 2. The study to which I am devoted,³ gives me great pleasure. 3. Nature, whose beauty we daily⁴ admire, is an inexhaustible⁵ source of enjoyment⁶ for us. 4. Your pupil's mother, with whom I was speaking yesterday, left⁷ this morning. 5. What sort of a book is that in which you are reading? 6. It is a Roman History. 7. There is nothing upon (à) which I think more frequently⁸ than the sad fate⁹ of my poor friend. 8. What is true is also good. 9. Virtue and freedom are the conditions without which we cannot be happy. 10. Is the house in which you live on the highway?¹⁰ 11. No, it is tolerably far¹¹ from it (en). 12. That is the thing about which I would speak with you. 13. The thing the miser thinks least about (à) is to aid¹² the poor. 14. He who cannot keep a secret, is incapable of governing.¹⁶ 17. That which most deserves our respect is virtue. 18. What I most wish, is to see you happy. 19. What I like most, is to be alone.

1. Le but. 2. Tendre. 3. Dévoué. 4. Journellement. 5. Inépuisable. 6. Le plaisir. 7. Est partie. 8. Souvent. 9. Le sort. 10. La route. 11. Assez éloigné. 12. Assister. 13. Progrès, m. 14. Apporter. 15. De trop prompts remèdes. 16. De gouverner.

READING LESSON.

SUITE DE "SERVILIUS."

"Si vos ennemis se sont ralliés, s'ils ont été soutenus par un corps de troupes qui s'avancait à leur secours ; enfin, s'il a fallu recommencer tout de nouveau le combat, et si, dans cette dernière action, j'ai perdu quelques soldats, n'est-ce pas le sort¹ ordinaire de la guerre ? Trouverez-vous des généraux qui veuillent se charger du commandement de vos armées, à condition de ramener à Rome tous les soldats qui en seraient sortis sous leur conduite ? N'examinez donc point si, à la fin d'une bataille, j'ai perdu quelques soldats, mais jugez de ma conduite par ma victoire.

"S'il est vrai que j'ai chassé² les ennemis de votre territoire, que je leur ai tué beaucoup de monde dans deux combats, que j'ai forcé les débris³ de leurs armées de s'enfermer dans leurs places,⁴ que j'ai enrichi Rome et vos soldats du butin⁵ qu'ils ont fait dans le pays ennemi : que (let) vos tribuns s'élèvent, et qu'ils me reprochent en quoi j'ai manqué⁶ contre les devoirs⁷ d'un bon général.

"Mais ce n'est pas ce que je crains : ces accusations ne servent que de prétexte pour pouvoir exercer impunément leur haine⁸ et leur animosité contre le sénat et contre l'ordre des patriciens. Faut-il que vous ne demandiez jamais rien au sénat qui ne soit préjudiciable au bien commun de la patrie, et que vous ne le demandiez que par des séditions ? Si un sénateur ose⁹ vous représenter l'injustice de vos prétentions, si un consul ne parle pas le langage séditieux de vos tribuns ; s'il défend avec courage la souveraine puissance dont il est revêtu, on crie au tyran.¹⁰ A peine est-il sorti de charge, qu'il se trouve accablé d'accusations. C'est ainsi que, par votre injuste plébiscite, vous avez ôté la vie à Ménénius, aussi grand capitaine que bon citoyen. Ne devriez-vous pas mourir de honte d'avoir persécuté si cruellement le fils de ce Ménénius Agrippa, à qui vous devez vos tribuns et ce pouvoir qui vous rend à présent si furieux ?

“ On m'en voudra peut-être de la liberté avec laquelle je vous parle dans l'état où je me trouve à présent ; mais je ne crains point la mort : condamnez-moi, si vous l'osez ; la vie ne peut être qu'à charge à un général qui est réduit à se justifier de ses victoires. Après tout, un sort pareil à celui de Ménénius ne peut me déshonorer.”

1. The fate. 2. Driven out. 3. Remains. 4. Fortresses. 5. Booty. 6. To fail. 7. Duties. 8. Hatred. 9. Dare. 10. Behold the tyrant.

XII. DOUZIÈME LEÇON.

INDEFINITE PRONOUNS.

In regard to the indefinite pronouns treated of in Lesson XXIX., Part I., the following peculiarities are to be observed :—

1. The word on derived from homme, man (Latin homo), serves to render all vague and general reports expressed in English by they say, people say, it is said, we say, etc. The verb which follows is always in the third person singular, as :—

People say, it is said, on dit.

One cannot have everything, on ne peut pas avoir tout.

NOTE 1. When in English the passive voice is used in this sense, the verb must be changed in French into the active voice with on, as : —

It is said, on dit.

It is believed, on croit.

I was told, on m'a dit.

I am deceived, on me trompe.

Letters have been received, on a reçu des lettres.

NOTE 2. For the cases where l'on is used instead of on, see Lesson XXIX., 2.

2. Chacun, e, each, has for the English his, her, or its, which follows it, son, sa, ses, and leur, leurs, for their, as : —

Put these books each in its place.

Remettez ces livres chacun à sa place.

The judges have given sentence each according to his conscience.

Les juges ont opinés chacun selon sa conscience.

The bees build each their cells.

Les abeilles bâtissent chacune leur cellule.

When chacun means every one, everybody (including all), it is always masculine. Example : Chacun à son tour. But when used relatively, i. e., in reference to a part of mankind, it may be feminine. Example : Chacune de nous (femmes) se prétendait supérieure aux autres.

3. Aucun, personne, and rien do not require ne before the verb, in a sentence interrogative or of doubt : aucun then stands for any, personne for anybody, and rien for anything. Ex. : —

Je ne crois pas qu'il y ait aucun homme sans défaut.

I do not think there is any man without a fault.

Je doute qu'il y ait rien de plus beau.

I doubt whether there is anything more beautiful.

NOTE. Aucun and nul are not used in the plural, except before nouns which have no singular, or which are used in a different sense in the plural.

5. When, however, these three pronouns serve to answer a question without repeating the verb used by the inquirer, they retain their negative meaning, as : —

Qu'avez vous ?

Rien.

Rien du tout.

What is the matter with you ?

Nothing.

Nothing at all.

5. None, not one, are rendered by aucun ne and pas un ne. Examples : —

None of you were there, aucun de vous n'y était.

I have four sisters ; none (not one) of them is married.

J'ai quatre sœurs, aucune or pas une n'est mariée.

6. Somebody, some one, anybody, and any one, are expressed by quelqu'un singular and masculine. Ex. : —

Somebody told me so, quelqu'un me l'a dit.

Do you know any one here ? Connaissez-vous quelqu'un ici ?

7. La plupart, most, is properly a collective noun, and like most other collective nouns takes the plural after it. This requires the verb and attribute which follow to be put in the plural. Ex. : —

La plupart de ces pommes ne sont pas encore mûres.

Most of these apples are not yet ripe.

8. Another is usually expressed by un autre, and others (Nom. and Direct Obj.) by d'autres or les autres. Ex. : —

Another would not have acted so.

Un autre n'aurait pas agi ainsi.

Charity is contented that others be preferred.

La charité est contente que les autres soient préférés.

Buy some others, achetez-en d'autres.

9. Autrui, others, only applies to persons ; it is, however, also taken as a singular in the sense of another. It is employed only after a preposition. Consequently, when in English the indefinite pronoun others occurs in the Nom. or Dir. Obj., it must not be translated by autrui, but by d'autres or les autres (§ 8). Ex. : —

Charity rejoices in the happiness of others.

La charité se réjouit du bonheur d'autrui.

Attend from autrui ce que vous faites à autrui.

Expect from others the same treatment which you give them.

10. When, however, the verb in the latter clause governs the Dir. Obj., en is used instead of son or ses. Ex. : —

Souvent nous blâmons les défauts d'autrui sans en reconnaître les bonnes qualités (without acknowledging their good qualities).

11. Tel has two significations : such and many a (man). In the former, it is an adjective and agrees with its noun, in the latter it is often a pronoun, i. e. is used without a substantive. Ex.:—

Telle était la difficulté du terrain que, etc.

Such was the difficulty of the ground, etc.

Tel parle de choses qu'il n'entend pas.

Many a man speaks of things which he does not understand.

12. Such a must be rendered by un tel, une telle. Ex.:—

Un tel homme, such a man.

Une telle femme, such a woman.

Un tel has also the meaning of so and so, as:—

Chez Monsieur un tel; Madame une telle.

13. Tel que has the meaning such as or just as, and agrees in gender and number with the noun to which it refers. Ex.:—

Telles que vous les voyez, such as you see them (fem.).

14. Notice also the expression: Il n'y a rien de tel que . . . or il n'est rien tel que . . ., there is nothing like. Ex.:—

Il n'y a rien de tel que d'avoir une bonne conscience.

There is nothing like having a good conscience.

XIII. TREIZIÈME LEÇON.

INDEFINITE PRONOUNS, CONTINUED.

1. L'un et l'autre, fem. l'une et l'autre (plur. les uns et les autres, fem. les unes et les autres), both. These pronouns agree in gender and number with the noun to which they refer; if they are preceded by a preposition in English, that preposition must be repeated in French before each part. Ex.:—

Both are gone, l'un et l'autre sont partis.

I will do it for them both.

Je le ferai pour l'un et pour l'autre.

NOTE 1. When in English the word both is followed by a noun, it is rendered in French by les deux. Ex.:—

I use both hands, je me sers des deux mains.

NOTE 2. Both followed by and is a conjunction and is commonly omitted in French, as:—

She is both handsome and rich, elle est belle et riche.

2. L'un ou l'autre, fem. l'une ou l'autre, either, also requires the repetition of the preposition, as:—

I will do it for either.

Je le ferai pour l'un ou pour l'autre.

3. Ni l'un ni l'autre, fem. ni l'une ni l'autre, neither, requires ne before the verb, as : —

Neither has obtained the prize.

Ni l'un ni l'autre n'a gagné le prix.

I will do it for neither of them (fem.).

Je ne le ferai ni pour l'une ni pour l'autre.

4. L'un l'autre, fem. l'une l'autre (plur. les uns les autres, fem. les unes les autres), one another, each other. The first of the two pronouns is always the subject and consequently stands in the Nominative in French. Active verbs then require se, nous or vous to be prefixed, although no reflexive pronoun appears in English. When they are preceded by a preposition in English, that preposition must come between them in French. Ex.: —

These two girls love each other tenderly.

Ces deux jeunes filles s'aiment (l'une l'autre) tendrement.

Charles and Henry speak ill of each other.

Charles et Henri parlent mal l'un de l'autre (not de l'un l'autre.)

5. The word the same is expressed by le même or la même for the singular and by les mêmes for the plural of both genders, whether it be connected with a noun or not, as : —

Is that the same pencil which I have lent you.

Est-ce le même crayon que celui que je vous ai prêté?

Yes, it is the same, oui, c'est le même.

6. The same, meaning the same thing, is expressed by la même chose. Ex.: —

He did the same, il a fait la même chose.

7. When même signifies even, it is an adverb and invariable. It may be placed before or after the nouns. Ex.: —

Vos frères, vos amis, vos ennemis même.

Your brothers, your friends, your enemies even.

8. Everything, all, are expressed by tout without any article, placed, in compound tenses, between the auxiliary and the participle, as : —

I have lost everything, j'ai tout perdu.

Everything falls, tout tombe.

All have perished there, tous y ont péri.

I have seen them all, je les ai toutes vues.

9. Le tout stands for a substantive singular and masculine, and answers to the English the whole, as:—

Le tout est plus grand que la partie.

The whole is greater than a part.

Je prendrai le tout, I will take the whole.

10. The English words all that, everything that and whatever, are rendered in French by tout ce qui (Nom.), or tout ce que (Dir. Obj.), always singular and masculine. Ex.:—

I like all that is fine, j'aime tout ce qui est beau.

All that he says is true, tout ce qu'il dit est vrai.

11. In the sense of quite, entirely, before an adjective or a participle masculine of both numbers, and before an adjective feminine beginning with a vowel or h mute, tout remains uninflected; but it is declinable before an adjective or a participle feminine which begins with a consonant, and agrees with it in gender and number. Examples:—

Nous fûmes tout surpris, we were quite surprised.

Ma sœur était tout étonnée.

My sister was quite astonished.

Elle fut toute surprise, she was quite surprised.

12. When tout in connection with que stands for . . . as, although, however, it is used as a conjunction with the Indicative mood; and in this use the above-mentioned rule (§ 11) also holds good (see also § 13). Ex.:—

Tout riches que vous êtes, rich as you are.

Toutes savantes que sont ces dames.

Learned as these ladies are (however learned these ladies are, etc.).

THEME 27.

1. Both are (ont) right. 2. Both serve the same purpose.¹ 3. Do you speak of my brother or of my sister? 4. I speak of both.

5. Both his uncle and aunt are dead. 6. Either of you can do me a great favor. 7. Yesterday I expected my two best friends, but neither of them came. 8. Both suspect² him, but neither will say why. 9. Fire and water destroy³ each other. 10. Love⁴ one another, said our Lord.⁵ 11. They speak ill of one another. 12. It is rare to hear two authors⁶ speak well of each other. 13. This poem is the same that⁷ I was mentioning⁸ to you. 14. How much do you ask for the whole? 15. I will not sell the whole; I must keep⁹ a part for myself. 16. All is mutable¹⁰ in this world. 17. Everything displeases¹¹ you. 18. He has taken everything for himself. 19. All is not gold that glitters¹² (transl.: All that (L. XI., § 10) glitters is not gold). 20. Whatever is good in itself (en soi), is not always approved.¹³ 21. His mother was (fut) quite cast down¹⁴ at that news; however, sorry¹⁵ though she was, she received me kindly, and desired¹⁶ me to dine with her. 22. This fashion¹⁷ is quite new. 23. My friend, however learned he may be, is sometimes mistaken.¹⁸

1. Usage, m. 2. Soupçonner. 3. Se détruisent. 4. Aimez-vous. 5. Seigneur. 6. Auteur. 7. Que celui dont. 8. Parlé. 9. Garder. 10. Variable. 11. Déplaire. 12. Brille. 13. Approuver. 14. Abattue. 15. Affligée. 16. Prier. 17. Mode, f. 18. Se tromper.

13. Quelque — que, however, though — ever so, is used in the same sense as tout — que, with this difference, that tout — que supposes something more true or real, whereas quelque — que implies something as possibly assumed, and on this account always governs the Subjunctive. Quelque, when before an adjective or participle, remains unchanged. The construction of the sentence is as follows: quelque begins the clause, the second place is taken by the adjective or participle, then follows que, then the pronoun, then the verb in the Subjunctive mood. Ex.: —

However skilful you may be.

But when the subject is not a pronoun, but a substantive, then the verb takes the fourth place and the noun the fifth. Ex.: —

However praiseworthy your conduct may be — or though your conduct be ever so praiseworthy, — it will be condemned.

14. Quelque, followed by a substantive and any other verb than to be, is an adjective, and therefore takes an s before a noun plural. It corresponds with the English whatever. The construction is : 1, quelque(s); 2, the substantive; 3, que; 4, the pronoun; 5, the verb in the Subjunctive mood; the rest as in English. Ex.: —

Whatever riches they may have collected, they are not happy.

Quelques fautes qu'il ait commises, je lui pardonnerai.

Whatever faults he has committed, I will forgive him.

15. Quel que, fem. quelle que, must be divided when it is immediately followed by the verb to be; it agrees in gender and number with the noun to which it relates; it likewise requires the verb to be put in the Subjunctive mood. Ex.: —

Quelle que soit votre faute, on vous pardonnera.

Whatever your fault may be, they will forgive you.

Quels que soient les talents de votre frère, il ne réussira pas.

Whatever your brother's talents may be, he will not succeed.

16. The English whoever and whosoever are usually rendered by quiconque when they mean every one who or all those who. Examples : —

Quiconque n'observera pas cette loi, sera puni.

Whoever does not observe this law, will be punished.

Je parle à quiconque veut m'entendre.

I speak to whomsoever will hear me.

17. The same two pronouns whoever and whosoever are expressed in French by qui que ce soit (or fût) qui, when they mean whatever may be the person who. The verb is in the Subj. mood. Examples :

Whoever has done that, he is a man of talent.

Qui que ce soit qui ait fait cela, c'est un homme de talent.

Whomsoever you meet with, do not say what you have seen.

Qui que ce soit que (Dir. Obj.) vous rencontriez, ne dites pas ce que vous avez vu.

18. A shorter expression for qui que ce soit que (not qui) is qui que, which is often used, except before il and ils :

Qui que vous soyez, vous êtes le bienvenu.

Whoever you may be, you are welcome.

Qui que vous rencontriez, ne dites pas, etc.

Whomsoever you meet with, do not say, etc.

19. Nobody whatever, is expressed by qui que ce soit and ne before the verb. Ex.: —

Let nobody whatever enter my room.

Ne laissez entrer qui que ce soit dans ma chambre.

I trust nobody whatever.

Je ne me fie à qui que ce soit.

NOTE. But when nobody whatever begins the sentence, personne is used, as : —

Nobody whatever has spoken ill of you.

Personne n'a parlé mal de vous.

20. When the English indefinite pronoun whatever does not mean all that which or everything which, but whatever may be the thing which, it is rendered into French by quelque chose qui, quoi que, or quoi que ce soit (or fût) qui or que. Ex.: —

Whatever may be said to you, do not believe it.

Quelque chose qu'on vous dise, ne le croyez pas. Or :

Quoi qu'on vous dise, ne le croyez pas. Or :

Quoi que ce soit qu'on vous dise, ne le croyez pas.

Whatever you may order, I will do it.

Quelque chose que vous commandiez, je le ferai. Or :

Quoi que ce soit que vous commandiez, je le ferai.

21. Nothing whatever, not anything whatever, is translated by quoi que ce soit or fût, and ne before the verb. Ex.: —

Without application, it is impossible to succeed in anything whatever.

Sans application on ne peut réussir en quoi que ce soit.

THEME 28.

1. The wise man does not fear men, however powerful they may be. 2. Men, however great or small they may be, are never sufficiently¹ sensible how necessary they are to each other. 3. Whatever wealth² you may have, you will never be happy, unless you³ restrain your passions. 4. Do not lose [your] courage, whatever may happen to you. 5. I have found nothing whatever. 14. I complain¹² of nothing whatever. 15. Young men !¹³ whatever the destiny¹⁴ may be that awaits¹⁵ you, in whatever region of the earth your days may be¹⁶ spent, nature will continually offer to you her products¹⁷ and her wonders ;¹⁸ you will continually be surrounded¹⁹ with the objects of your study.

XIV. QUATORZIÈME LEÇON.

ADVERBS.

See Part I., Lessons XXI and XXXII.

1. As already observed, the manner or mode of the action is expressed by the adverbs of quality or manner, as :

Il agit sagement (not sage), he acts wisely.

Il écrit mal (not mauvais), he writes badly.

2. There are certain adjectives, however, which are used instead of the adverb. This is the case in the following expressions : —

Aller vite, to walk fast.

coûter cher, to be expensive.

vendre cher, to sell dear.

sentir bon, to smell sweet.

sentir mauvais, to smell badly.

trouver bon, to approve.

trouver mauvais, to take ill.

voir clair, to see clearly.

tenir ferme, to hold fast.

rester court,
demeurer court, } to stop short.

payer comptant, to pay cash.

marcher droit, to walk straight.

chanter juste, to sing correctly.

chanter faux, to sing false.

parler haut, to speak loud.

parler bas, to speak low.

faire exprès, to do on purpose.

3. The adjectives in this case remain, of course, unchanged.
Examples : —

Cette montre coûte trop cher (not chère).

This watch is too dear.

Les enfants parlent trop haut (not hauts).

The children speak too loud.

La chanteuse a chanté faux (not fausse).

The songstress has sung false.

NOTE 1. In speaking of the state of the health, however, the adverb bien or mal is employed. Ex. : —

Je suis bien, I am well.

Elle se trouve mal, she finds herself ill.

NOTE 2. Observe also the expressions, Elle est bien, she is pretty; and elle n'est pas mal, she is not bad-looking.

4. Some adverbs take after them an object with de or à, in case the adjective from which they are derived also takes one. Ex. : —

Conformément à vos ordres.

In conformity with your orders.

Indépendamment de mes instructions.

Independently of my instructions.

Cette rivière coule parallèlement à la Vistule.

That river flows parallel with the Vistula.

THEME 29.

1. Do not go so fast. 2. The night is approaching; I no longer (plus) see clearly. 3. The rose smells sweet, but the pink¹ smells better. 4. Do not speak low (in a whisper) in the presence of others. 5. How does the singer² sing? 6. She sings false (incorrectly). 7. Do not speak so low; speak louder, so that you can³ be understood. 8. You do not read well, and you write no (pas) better. 9. To-day I am not very well. 10. Do not eat so fast. 11. This merchant sells his goods⁴ very dear. 12. It is dark; I do not see clearly. 13. I have distributed⁵ the money according to (in conformity with) your orders.

1. L'œillet. 2. La chanteuse. 3. Qu'on puisse vous comprendre. 4. Marchandises. 5. Distribuer.

ADVERBS OF TIME, ETC.

1. Observe the distinction between the following adverbs: — 1. Plutôt means rather (of inclination); plus tôt, sooner (of time). 2. Tout à coup means at once, suddenly, unexpectedly; tout d'un coup means at once, i. e., at one time; à la fois means altogether. 3. Immediately is translated by tout de suite, tout à l'heure, and also by sans délai. De suite means successively, one after the other. 4. L'autre jour means the other day, lately, synonymous with dernièrement. On the next day is le lendemain. 5. A little while ago is tantôt; just is expressed by the verb venir (see Part I. Lesson XLVI.). Ex.: —

He has just gone out, il vient de sortir

2. Très, fort, and bien, all mean very, right; and whether one or the other is to be used before the adjective depends upon euphony alone. Very much, with verbs is generally translated by beaucoup, and sometimes also by bien; but never by très or très beaucoup. Bien, with a noun in the sense of much or a great many, must be followed by de with the definite article (see Lesson IV., § 1).

3. When, in interrogative phrases, is rendered by quand. In other cases, quand refers to a possible, probable fact; lorsque to a positive, real fact. Quand is vague; lorsque is precise, as its etymology shows, alorsque, i. e., à l'heure que.

4. Plus and davantage both mean more. The latter always stands at the end of a sentence, and consequently can be followed neither by a noun nor by a comparison with than. Than after plus and moins is usually que, but before a numeral it is translated by de.

5. Adverbs follow the simple verb. Do not say, Ma sœur rarement sort le matin; but, ma sœur sort rarement le matin, my sister seldom goes out in the morning. Je pense souvent à vous, I often think of you.

In connection with the compound tenses of the verb, the adverb is generally placed between the auxiliary and the Participle Past. Ex.:

Ma sœur a beaucoup voyagé.

My sister has travelled a great deal.

6. But adverbs of time can also be placed at the beginning of the sentence, when an emphasis is laid upon them. Ex.:—

Bientôt je le vis reparaître, I saw him soon reappear.

THEME 30.

1. We often put off¹ till the next day what we ought to do at once. 2. Fortune is so fickle² that she often suddenly deserts³ those that she has favored⁴ the most. 3. A single⁵ drop of vinegar contains more than a hundred animalculæ.⁶ 4. This man has a great many faults. 5. Children must obey immediately. 6. This man has been very much regretted.⁷ 7. One does not arrive at once at the highest pinnacle⁸ of fame. 8. Mr. M. (has) won a thousand dollars at one time. 9. He undertakes too many things at once. 10. Did you believe this man? 11. At first (d'abord) I was not willing to believe him. 12. Good taste⁹ is rather a gift¹⁰ of nature, than an acquirement¹¹ of art. 13. How much money have you lent him? 14. I have lent him more than eighty florins.

1. Renvoyer or différer. 2. Inconstant. 3. Abandonner. 4. Favorisés. 5. Une seule goutte. 6. Animalcule, m. 7. Regretter. 8. Degré, m. 9. Goût, m. 10. Don, m. 11. Acquisition, f.

READING LESSON.

LE CONNÉTABLE DE BOURBON ET BAYARD.

(Dialogue.)

Le Connétable. N'est-ce pas le pauvre Bayard que je vois au pied de cet arbre, étendu sur l'herbe,¹ et percé d'un grand coup? Oui, c'est lui-même. Hélas! je le plains. En voilà deux qui périssent aujourd'hui par nos armes: Vandenesse et lui. Ces deux Français étaient deux ornements de leur nation par leur courage. Je sens que mon cœur est encore touché pour sa patrie. Mais avançons pour lui parler. Ah! mon pauvre Bayard, c'est avec douleur que je te vois en cet état.

Bayard. C'est avec douleur que je vous vois aussi.

Le Con. Je comprends bien que tu es fâché de te voir dans mes mains par le sort² de la guerre; mais je ne veux point te traiter en prisonnier, je te veux garder comme un bon ami, et prendre soin de ta guérison,³ comme si tu étais mon propre frère. Ainsi tu ne dois point être fâché de me voir.

Bay. Hé! croyez-vous que je ne sois point fâché d'avoir obligation au plus grand ennemi de la France? Ce n'est point de ma captivité, ni de ma blessure,⁴ que je suis en peine:⁵ je meurs dans un moment, la mort va me délivrer de vos mains.

Le Con. Non, mon cher Bayard, j'espère que nos soins réussiront à te guérir.

Bay. Ce n'est point là ce que je cherche, et je suis content de mourir.

1. Grass. 2. Fate. 3. Recovery. 4. Wound. 5. Sorry.

XV. QUINZIÈME LEÇON.

SYNTAX OF NEGATIONS.

(See P. I., L. XXXII.)

1. It is necessary in the first place to distinguish whether the negation belongs to a verb or not; if not, the negative particle stands without ne. Not, without a verb, before nouns, is translated by non or non pas. Ex.:—

His cruelty and not his pride.

Sa cruauté et non (or non pas) son orgueil.

Not in connection with other words is simply pas:—

Not much, pas beaucoup.

Not I, pas moi.

Not so much, pas tant.

Why not, pourquoi pas.

Not at all, pas du tout or point du tout.

N. B. Observe the following expressions:—

Not (nor) — either, non plus.

Nor his brother either, ni son frère non plus.

Nor I either, ni moi non plus.

Not only — but, non-seulement — mais. (See § 4.)

2. But if the negation belongs to the verb the negative particle, whatever it may be, is invariably accompanied by ne. Ex.:—

Ne lui parlez pas, do not speak to him.

Je n'ai rien vu, I have seen nothing.

Je ne l'ai plus, I have it no more.

Aucun de vous n'y était, none of you were there.

Le pauvre homme n'a point d'argent.

The poor man has no money.

Je ne connais personne ici, I know nobody here.

*Ni prières ni * menaces ne purent l'attendrir*.

Neither prayers nor threatenings could move him.

* If neither — nor come before two verbs in the Indicative mood, the former is expressed simply by ne before the first, and nor by ni ne before the second. Ex.:—

I neither praise nor blame him.

Je ne le loue, ni ne le blâme.

Il ne sait ni lire ni écrire.

He knows neither how to read nor write.

Nous n'approuvons nullement votre dessein.

We by no means approve of your design.

NOTE. When the verb is in the simple Infinitive ne pas or ne point (also ne jamais) are not separated, as : —

Not to study, ne pas étudier or ne point étudier.

But when it is in the compound Infinitive it is optional to separate them or not, as : —

Not to have studied, $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \textit{ne pas (point) avoir étudié.} \\ \textit{n'avoir pas (point) étudié.} \end{array} \right.$

3. The words no more or not any more (meaning not more) are expressed by ne before the verb and pas plus after, when more is followed by than : —

He is no more than fifteen years of age.

Il n'a pas plus de quinze ans.

But they are rendered by ne — plus without pas, when more is not followed by than. Ex. : —

I shall read no more (no longer), je ne lirai plus.

4. Non seulement, not only, takes no ne with the verb. Ex. : —

Je l'ai fait non seulement pour lui, mais aussi pour ses enfants.

I have done it not only for his sake, but also for his children's.

THEME 31.

1. I do not speak. 2. I have not spoken. 3. Have you bought this book? 4. No, sir, I have not (P. I., L. XLVII.). 5. It is your friendship which I seek, not my interest.¹ 6. Not I. 7. Not we. 8. Are you tired? 9. Not at all. 10. I was not there; nor my sister either. 11. This peasant² can neither read nor write. 12. The boy has neither paper³ nor pens. 13. I have never had such a (un si) good book. 14. We have no desire at all⁴ to do it. 15. The speaker⁵ has convinced⁶ not only his friends but also his adversaries. 16. Charles XII. persisted in⁷ never speaking (never to speak) French. 17. I have no more hope.

1. Intérêt, m. 2. Paysan, m. 3. See p. 224, § 3. 4. Nullement envie. 5. L'orateur. 6. Convaincre. 7. S'obstina à.

NE USED ALONE WITHOUT PAS.

5. The negative not is expressed by ne without pas or point with the three verbs: cesser, to cease; oser, to dare; pouvoir, to be able; when followed by an Infinitive, as: —

Elle ne cesse de pleurer, she does not cease crying.

Il n'ose revenir, he dares not come back.

Je ne puis le croire, I cannot believe it.

NOTE 1. Cesser takes pas, however, when a time is specified, as: —

Il ne cesse pas de travailler avant huit heures du soir.

NOTE 2. In regard to pouvoir, use in the first person of the Present tense either: —

Je ne puis (without pas), or: Je ne peux pas.

6. When the negative use of savoir means to be uncertain, i. e. in doubt, it does not take pas. In the same way pas is always omitted in the expression je ne saurais, I cannot. Ex.: —

Je ne savais que dire, I did not know what to say

Je ne saurais vous donner une garantie.

I cannot give you a security.

But if “not know” has the signification of not to have learned, not to know (a language, etc.), then savoir always takes ne and pas. Ex.: —

Je ne sais pas nager, I cannot swim.

Ne savez-vous pas l'allemand, do you not know German?

7. In sentences depending upon prendre garde, to take care, there is no pas. Ex.: —

Prenez garde qu'il ne vous trompe.

Pas is used however if an infinitive follows. Ex.: —

Prenez garde de ne pas tomber.

8. Of two negative sentences standing in immediate connection with each other, the latter loses its pas. Ex.: —

Je ne connais personne qui ne fasse quelquefois des fautes.

NOTE 1. Also peu and sans are here regarded as a negation, as: —

Peu s'en faut qu'il ne soit tombé, he was very near falling.

Sans rien faire, without doing anything.

NOTE 2. The former sentence may also be interrogative if only the idea of negation be contained in it, as :—

Y a-t-il (or est-il) un homme qui ne croie en Dieu ?

9. Do not put pas after que ne, when used instead of pourquoi pas. Ex.:—

Si vous avez froid, que ne mettez-vous votre manteau ?

If you are cold, why not put on your cloak ?

10. Nor after voilà, il y a and depuis que, when the verb which has the idea of negation is in the compound of the Present or in the compound of the Imperfect. Ex.:—

Il y a deux mois que je ne lui ai parlé.

Il a bien changé depuis que je ne l'ai vu.

11. Pas is not used when ne is connected with d'autre followed by que, as :—

Je n'ai d'autre ambition que de vous rendre heureux.

I have no other ambition than to make you happy.

12. Further in the following idioms :—

N'avoir garde, to take care not to, to be on one's guard.

N'importe, it does not matter.

Ne voir goutte, to see nothing (at all).

Ne dire mot, to say not a word.

à Dieu ne plaise que, etc., God forbid, etc.

13. A moins que and conjunctions expressing fear, take ne before the following verb (in the subjunctive). Ex.:—

A moins que vous ne le fassiez, Unless you do it.

THEME 32.

1. Alcibiades could not suffer that his country should obey¹ a rival.² 2. I dare not enter³ his room. 3. It is no more than a week⁴ since I saw (que j'ai vu) your uncle ; he has gone to America, you will see him no more. 4. I cannot (§ 6) tell you whether (si) my father is at home or not (non) ; I have not seen him this morning. 5. Take care lest (que, § 7) he steal your money. 6.

Take care not to be (to come) too late. 7. We dare not tell him this news. 8. There is no enemy who is (soit) not able⁵ to injure.⁶ 9. God forbid that I should betray⁷ your secret.

NEGATION USED IN FRENCH, AND NOT IN ENGLISH.*

14. Ne is moreover often employed in French when in English no thought of negation is to be discovered. This is the case : —

With the affirmative verb of a comparative clause introduced by que, than, when the verb closely follows que. Also after verbs, nouns, and conjunctions expressing fear and apprehension.

Ex.: —

Il est plus âgé que je ne croyais.

He is older than I thought.

Je crains qu'il ne vienne.

I fear he may come.

Il parle autrement qu'il n'agit.

He speaks otherwise than he acts.

A moins que vous ne le fassiez.

Unless you should do it.

NOTE. But if the first clause of the sentence be negative, que of the latter clause is not followed by ne, if the compared action is not doubtful, as :

Il n'écrit pas mieux qu'il parle.

15. The verbs douter, to doubt; nier and disconvenir, to deny; contester, to contest, require ne before the verb (in the Subjunctive) of the dependent sentence, yet only when these verbs themselves are used simply negatively or simply interrogatively. Ex.: —

Je ne doute pas } que cela ne soit vrai. (?)
Doutez-vous }

I do not doubt (do you doubt) that this is true.

Niez-vous } qu'il ne soit coupable. (?)
Je ne nie pas }

Do you deny (I do not deny) that he is guilty?

* The pupil should learn, in connection with this lesson, § 6, L. XIX.

16. But when these verbs are affirmative, or negative-interrogative, ne is not inserted in the second clause. Also when ne pas douter has the force of être sûr. Ex.:—

Je doute que cela soit vrai (without ne).

Ne niez-vous pas qu'il soit coupable?

17. If the dependent sentence in English is negative, it takes, of course, ne — pas. Ex.:—

I fear he will not come, je crains qu'il ne vienne pas.

They fear the fortress will not have ammunition enough.

On craint que la forteresse n'ait pas assez de munition.

18. Empêcher, to prevent, to hinder, requires ne before the following verb in the Subjunctive mood, as:—

J'empêcherai qu'il ne sorte.

I will hinder him from going out.

Empêchera-t-il
Il n'empêchera pas } que vous ne le fassiez.

Will he prevent you (he will not prevent you) from doing it?

THEME 33.

1. He is more wicked than I thought. 2. Henry is stronger than he was last year. 3. Ireland is more powerful, at present, than were the three kingdoms at (à) the death of queen Elizabeth. 4. A traveller often relates¹ things otherwise than they are. 5. I fear lest (que) some misfortune has befallen² my son. 6. I fear our master will come; do you not fear he will come? 7. READING LESSON.

LE CONNÉTABLE DE BOURBON ET BAYARD.

(Suite.)

Le Con. Qu'as-tu donc ? Est-ce que tu ne saurais te consoler d'avoir été vaincu et fait prisonnier dans la retraite de Bonnavet ? Ce n'est pas ta faute, c'est la sienne : les armes sont journalières (changing). Ta gloire est assez bien établie par tant de belles actions. Les Impériaux¹ ne pourront jamais oublier cette vigoureuse défense de Mézières contre eux.

Bay. Pour moi, je ne puis jamais oublier que vous êtes ce grand connétable, ce prince du plus noble sang qu'il y ait dans le monde, et qui travaille à déchirer² de ses propres mains sa patrie et le royaume de ses ancêtres.

Le Con. Quoi ! Bayard, je te loue, et tu me condamnes ! Je te plains, et tu m'insultes !

Bay. Si vous me plaignez, je vous plains aussi ; et je vous trouve bien plus à plaindre que moi. Je sors de la vie sans tache ; j'ai sacrifié la mienne à mon devoir, je meurs pour mon pays, pour mon roi, estimé des ennemis de la France, et regretté de tous les bons Français. Mon état est digne d'envie.

Le Con. Et moi, je suis victorieux d'un ennemi qui m'a outragé, je me venge de lui ; je le chasse du Milanais ;³ je fais sentir à toute la France combien elle est malheureuse de m'avoir perdu, en me poussant à bout.⁴ Appelles-tu cela être à plaindre ?

Bay. Oui, on est toujours à plaindre quand on agit contre son devoir. Il vaut mieux périr en combattant pour la patrie, que de la vaincre et de triompher d'elle. Ah ! quelle horrible gloire que celle de détruire⁵ son propre pays ! (To be continued.)

1. The Imperialists, Austrians. 2. To tear. 3. From the Milanese territory. 4. To the extreme. 5. Destroy.

XVI. SEIZIÈME LEÇON.

REMARKS ON SOME PREPOSITIONS.

The use of the prepositions is of too various a nature to allow of its being determined by definite rules. Their departure from the original signification can only be shown by examples.

Prepositions must generally be repeated before every noun. A, de, and en must always be repeated.

All prepositions except en govern the infinitive; en is followed by the present participle. Ex. : —

Pour aller, in order to go. En allant, in going.

I. ON THE USE OF SOME FRENCH PREPOSITIONS.

à.

A denotes 1st place, and is used before names of places (not countries), and common names; (in English at or in) : — à Paris, at Paris. à l'église, at church.

à la campagne, in the country. à l'ombre, in the shade.

au théâtre or au spectacle, at the theatre.

à la poste, at the post-office.

frapper à la porte, to knock at the door.

à la main, in the hand. à droite, to the right.

Dans, en.

Dans means both in and into a (closed) place ; it is used in a more determinate sense than en, and is always followed by the article or another determinate word (such as, this, my, which, etc.). Ex. : —

Dans la (ma, votre) chambre, in the (my, your) room.
Dans ma poche, in my pocket.
Dans l'hiver de 1850, in the winter of 1850.

Etre dans la ville, to be within the town (not in the country).

Observe also the difference in the following expressions : —

Il est au jardin and il est dans son jardin.
Je suis à la maison (at home) and je suis dans ma maison.

En is used in a more vague sense, and is followed by no article. It is used for in or to before the name of a kingdom, republic, country, county, or province. Ex. : —

En liberté, in liberty. En colère, in a passion.
En France, in or to France.

En ces termes, in these words.

Vivre en paix, to live in peace.

Il est en prison, he is in prison (he is a prisoner).

NOTE. There are a few expressions in which the article is retained after en; such are, en l'absence, in the absence; en l'honneur, in honor. Only l' and la are thus found after en, never le.

Dans and en, relating to time, are differently used. Dans denotes the point of time, en the duration. Ex. : —

Dans dix minutes, ten minutes hence.

En dix minutes, within the space of ten minutes.

Je partirai dans huit jours, I shall set out in a week.

XVII. DIX-SEPTIÈME LEÇON.

DIFFERENT USES OF THE CONJUNCTION QUE.

I. QUE WITH THE INDICATIVE.

1. The conjunction que is used 1. to join the two terms of a comparison ; 2. in a restrictive sense, for but or only, as :

Elle n'a que deux frères, she has only two brothers.

2. The que of admiration or exclamation expresses wonder or surprise ; it answers to the English words how, how much, how many. Ex. : —

Que vous êtes heureux ! how happy you are !

Que la terre est petite en comparaison avec le soleil !

How small is the earth compared with the sun !

Que de peine vous prenez pour moi !

How much trouble you take for me !

3. In short exclamations que is inserted after the noun when the verb is omitted. Ex. : —

Quel beau pays que l'Italie !

What a beautiful country Italy is !

Quel homme que ce Fénelon !

What a man that Fenelon is (or was) !

4. It stands for pourquoi in negative exclamations, as : —

Que ne puis-je vous aider ! why can I not assist you !

5. The French paraphrase of a sentence with c'est is followed by que, whereas in English this is not expressed. Ex. : —

C'est une belle chose que la discrétion.

Discretion is a good thing.

C'est une chose détestable que la haine.

Hatred is a detestable thing.

If, however, an Infinitive follows, que need not be used : —

C'est une honte (que) d'ignorer sa langue maternelle.

It is a shame not to know one's mother tongue.

6. Que must be inserted after c'est-à-dire, that is to say, when a verb follows. Que is also frequently used after voilà and peut-être.

Example : —

Vous serez parfaitement libres, c'est-à-dire que vous ne dépendrez de personne.

You will be perfectly free, that is to say, you will depend upon nobody.

7. In the expressions : que oui, yes ; que si ! O yes ! que non, no ; que is used pleonastically. Ex. : —

Je dis que oui, I say yes.

8. Que stands for since instead of depuis que :

Combien y a-t-il que votre sœur est morte ?

How long is it since your sister died ?

9. Que is used for when after à peine, scarcely, and in the signification of as or when, after the specification of a time, in which case the use of lorsque would be incorrect. Ex. : —

À peine était-il sorti, que la maison s'écroula.

Scarcely was he gone out, when the house fell.

Un matin que je sortais de très-bonne heure.

One morning as I went out early.

Maintenant que vous êtes en France, etc.

Now that you are in France. . . .

10. Que corresponds to the English that after all verbs of thinking, feeling, saying,* as : dire, affirmer, répondre, déclarer, croire, penser, sentir, etc., and usually takes the Indicative when these words are used affirmatively. In English the that is often omitted, but in French it must always be employed. Ex. : —

Dites-lui que je l'attends.

Tell him that I am waiting for him.

Il m'a répondu qu'il n'en savait rien.

He answered me that he knew nothing of it.

On croit qu'elle est très-riche.

She is supposed to be very rich.

* Where in Latin the Acc. is used with the Infinitive.

NOTE. Que is not only always expressed in French, but repeated before each member of the proposition. Ex.:—

Je crois que vous vous trompez et que vous ne réussirez pas.

I think you are mistaken, and that you will not succeed.

11. In many cases where the conjunction is repeated in English, the French, instead of repeating it, put que in the place of it. This is the case with lorsque, quand, pendant que, tandis que, parce que, tant que and dès que. Ex.:—

Lorsque l'empereur fut revenu et qu'il (and when he) eut visité le camp, il résolut de livrer bataille.

Tandis que Charles XII donnait un roi à la Pologne soumise, que le Danemark n'osait le troubler, et que le roi de Prusse recherchait son amitié, le czar devenait de jour en jour plus redoutable.

THEME 38.

1. I am much younger than you. 2. Caroline is only seventeen years old. 3. How pretty she is! 4. How I hate flatterers!¹ 5. How small is the part of the world which we inhabit!² 6. What (que de) misfortunes you have undergone!³ 7. If you are (avez) cold, why (§ 4) don't you put on your cloak? 8. It is a very difficult thing to know (§ 5) [how to] keep what one has. 9. Look, it rains! 10. Perhaps he will come. 11. I believe (that) you are right. 12. He told me that he had not yet received a letter from his uncle. 13. Are you ready? 14. O no! (§ 7) I cannot finish before an hour. 15. Have you not been there? 16. O yes! 17. How long is it since you lost your father? 18. One day when the two sparrows⁴ had flown out,⁵ the children took away⁶ their nest. 19. Tell me the day (on which, § 9) you think⁷ of leaving. 20. I think he is not at home. 21. Scarcely is he out of bed before he begins to work. 22. Why (§ 4) did you not tell it? 23. When you have acknowledged your faults, and (§ 11) have repaired⁸ them, I will forgive you.

1. Flatteur. 2. Habiter. 3. Éprouvés. 4. Le moineau. 5. Étaient sortis. 6. Enlever. 7. Vous comptez partir. 8. Réparés.

II. QUE WITH THE SUBJUNCTIVE MOOD.

1. Que, in a conditional sense, is used in the beginning of a sentence for the word whether, and in the middle, to avoid the repetition of si; in both cases it governs the Subjunctive mood. Ex.:—

Whether he come or not, I do not care.

Qu'il vienne ou non, je ne m'en soucie pas.

If somebody calls and I am out, send for me.

Si quelqu'un vient me voir et que je sois sorti, envoyez-moi chercher.

If you meet her, and (if) you have time to speak to her.

Si vous la rencontrez et que vous ayez le temps de lui parler.

2. For till, instead of jusqu'à ce que after attendre, to wait
Example:—

Wait till it gets less cold.

Attendez qu'il fasse moins froid.

You must wait till I am back.

Il faut attendre que je sois de retour.

3. For the English third person of the Imperative, let him or let them. Ex.:—

Let him come, qu'il vienne.

Let them do it, qu'ils (qu'elles) le fassent.

4. For that, instead of pour que, afin que:—

Come here that I may speak to you.

Venez ici que je vous parle.

5. Que is used with ne for the English but (or but that) after verbs expressing doubt, fear, etc. (see p. 293, § 15). Ex.:—

I don't doubt but that you are right.

Je ne doute pas que vous n'ayez raison.

6. In the same manner que is used for before, instead of avant que; for unless, instead of à moins que; for without, instead of sans que, and for yet, instead of et cependant. Ex.:—

I shall not go out before you are in.

Je ne sortirai pas que vous ne soyez rentré.

I shall not pardon you unless you acknowledge your faults.

Je ne vous pardonnerai pas que vous ne reconnaissiez vos fautes.

He takes no trip without some accident befalling him.

Il ne fait pas de voyage qu'il ne lui arrive quelque accident.

Though he should have all the gold in the world, yet he would not be satisfied.

Il aurait tout l'or du monde, qu'il ne serait pas content.

(For the use of que instead of repeating compound conjunctions, and after verbs governing the Subjunctive, see Lesson 19, on the Subjunctive Mood, § 12).

THEME 39.

1. Whether it rain or not, I must go out directly. 2. If I were rich and had children, I would give them a good education. 3. Whether you be rich or poor, you should (devez) be a man of probity. 4. He had not a doubt (did not doubt) but that this was his pursuer.¹ 5. Wait till the rain is over. 6. A miser² might have all the gold in the world, he would never be satisfied. 7. You shall not go out before it is light.³ 8. Let him have his share.⁴ 9. Come that I may tell you the reason of that thing (en). 10. May heaven bless⁵ you! 11. May the earth lie lightly on him (be light⁶ to him). 12. Let him employ his time well. 13. I shall not leave the house (go out) before you pay me. 14. He cannot play but he hurts⁷ himself. 15. If you go to Paris and (§ 1) will take me with you, I shall be most happy.⁸ 16. My friend says he will not pay the bookseller⁹ before he has received all the books (which) he (has) ordered. 17. I shall put off¹⁰ my journey; I shall wait till your time allows you to accompany me.

READING LESSON.

LE CONNÉTABLE DE BOURBON ET BAYARD.

(Fin.)

Le Connét. Mais ma patrie a été ingrate après tant de services que je lui avais rendus. Le roi m'a fait une injustice énorme. En me dépouillant¹ de mon bien, on a détaché de moi jusqu'à (even) mes domestiques, Matignon et d'Argouges. J'ai été contraint, pour sauver ma vie, de m'enfuir presque seul. Que voulais-tu que je fisse ?

Bay. Que vous souffrissiez toutes sortes de maux, plutôt que de manquer à la France et à la grandeur de votre maison. Si la persécution était trop violente, vous pouviez vous retirer : mais il valait mieux être pauvre, obscur, inutile à tout, que de prendre les armes contre nous. Votre gloire eût été au comble² dans la pauvreté et dans le plus misérable exil.

Le Conn. Mais ne vois-tu pas que la vengeance s'est jointe à l'ambition pour me jeter dans cette extrémité ? J'ai voulu que le roi se repentît de m'avoir traité si mal.

Bay. Il fallait l'en faire repentir par une patience à toute épreuve, qui n'est pas moins la vertu d'un héros que le courage.

Le Conn. Mais le roi, étant si injuste et si aveuglé³ par sa mère, méritait-il que j'eusse de si grands égards pour lui ?

Bay. Si le roi ne le méritait pas, la France entière le méritait. La dignité même de la couronne, dont vous êtes un des héritiers, le méritait. Vous vous deviez⁴ à vous-même d'épargner⁵ la France, dont vous pouviez être un jour roi.

Le Conn. Eh bien ! j'ai tort, je l'avoue ; mais ne sais-tu pas combien les meilleurs cœurs ont de peine à résister à leur ressentiment ?

Bay. Je le sais bien : mais le vrai courage consiste à résister. Si vous connaissez votre faute, hâtez-vous de la réparer. Pour moi, je meurs, et je vous trouve plus à plaindre dans vos prospérités, que moi dans mes souffrances. Quand l'empereur ne vous tromperait pas, quand même il vous donnerait sa sœur en mariage, et qu'il partagerait la France avec vous, il n'effacerait point la tache⁶ qui déshonore votre vie. Le connétable de Bourbon rebelle ! ah ! quelle honte ! Écoutez Bayard mourant comme il a vécu, et ne cessant de dire la vérité.

1. Strip. 2. The highest. 3. Blinded. 4. To owe. 5. To spare. 6. The stain.

XVIII. DIX-HUITIÈME LEÇON.

USE OF THE TENSES OF THE INDICATIVE.

I. PRESENT TENSE.

1. The Present of the Indicative corresponds to the English present. In French there is only one form of this tense, as : Je lis, I read ; j'aime, I like. The English forms : I am reading, I do read, etc., must therefore always be translated as if they were : I read, jé lis. Ex. : —

The children are playing in the garden.

Les enfants jouent au jardin.

Nous dinons toujours à deux heures.

2. The Present tense is sometimes employed for the Future, when speaking of actions which are to be done at a time proximate or near, as : —

Je pars demain, I (shall) set out to-morrow.

3. It is also used in a narrative, instead of the Preterite, in order to give more vivacity to the description, and to make the event, as it were, present. For this reason it is called also the historical or narrative Present. Ex. : —

A cette nouvelle, qu'il repousse avec irritation, Napoléon descend de la montagne du Salut et s'approche de la Moskwa et de la porte Dorogomilow. Il s'arrête (stops) encore à l'entrée de cette barrière, mais inutilement. Murat le presse, etc.

Here repousse, descend, s'approche, s'arrête, presse are historical Presents (instead of repoussa, descendit, s'approcha, s'arrêta, pressa). It is particularly liked for euphony, when several Preterites of the first conjugation would be used. Example : —

Mentor range les soldats, il marche à leur tête et s'avance vers les ennemis (instead of rangea, marcha, s'avança).

4. The Present tense must also be used for the English Perfect, when a duration of time is expressed in which the condition is still continuing:—

How long have you been here?

Depuis quand êtes-vous ici?

Have you had this dog long?

Y a-t-il longtemps que vous avez ce chien?

I have had him these two years.

Je l'ai depuis deux ans.

If the Compound of the Present were used in these sentences, it would imply that the condition no longer existed. Il y a deux ans qu'il a été mort, would be absurd in French, as it would imply that he was alive again.

THEME 40.

1. Do you speak French? 2. Yes, sir, I do. 3. Is it raining?
4. No, it does not rain. 5. I do not like lazy boys. 6. I cannot write with a bad pen. 7. I see a man who is asleep.¹ 8. What are you doing? 9. I am reading a very amusing book; you must read it also; to-morrow I shall send it to you. 10. I set out to-morrow for Germany. 11. I shall be ready in a moment. 12. How long have you been (§ 4) in Paris? 13. I have been here for (depuis) three months. 14. Have you had this stick² long? 15. I have had it for more than (de) four years. 16. Has your father known that gentleman long? 17. I think he has known him for a year or two.

1. Qui dort. 2. Canne, f. _____

II. PAST TENSES.

5. The Imperfect tense denotes continuity of an action or condition, in past time. It is therefore used to express what was customary or habitual. It is also used in descriptions of persons and of things, in expressing physical and moral qualities, traits of character etc.* Ex.:—

* Hence it is called by some grammarians the simultaneous past, and by some the descriptive tense.

Henri IV était un bon prince, il avait de belles qualités, il aimait son peuple et en était aimé.

Je ne savais pas cela.

Pendant mon séjour à la campagne je me levais tous les matins à cinq heures et je faisais de longues promenades.

Calypso ne pouvait se consoler du départ d'Ulysse. Sa grotte ne résonnait plus de son chant. Les nymphes qui la servaient, n'osaient lui parler. Elle se promenait souvent seule, etc.

Lorsque j'étais en pleine mer, je m'amusais quelquefois à dessiner les beaux nuages, semblables à des groupes de montagnes, qui voguaient à la suite les uns des autres, sur l'azur des cieux.

La grotte de la déesse était sur le penchant d'une colline: de là on découvrait la mer; d'un autre côté on voyait une rivière où se montraient des îles bordées de hauts peupliers qui portaient leurs têtes superbes jusque dans les nues. Les divers canaux qui formaient ces îles, semblaient se jouer dans la campagne: les uns roulaient leurs eaux claires avec rapidité; d'autres avaient une eau paisible et dormante. On apercevait de loin des collines et des montagnes qui se perdaient dans les nues. Les montagnes voisines étaient couvertes de pampres verts qui pendaient en festons: le raisin, plus éclatant que la pourpre, ne pouvait se cacher sous les feuilles, et la vigne était accablée sous son fruit.

6. When two occurrences take place, that which is interrupted by the other and which was lasting before the other happened, must be in the Imperfect tense:—

Je dormais (I was sleeping) lorsqu'il entra.

Je le surpris pendant qu'il écrivait.

From this we see that whenever in English the Imperfect, I was, with the Part. pres. is used (I was sleeping, I was writing, etc.), in French the Imperfect tense must be employed.

7. In longer narrations, all those parts which do not form the thread of the narrative, but serve only to illustrate the principal facts, and which are only explanatory additions or observations of the writer, are in the Imperfect tense. Ex.:—

Au temps que l'Italie était française, une sédition éclata (broke out) dans un des régiments en garnison à Livourne. C'était une affaire grave: c'était beaucoup plus qu'une mutinerie de soldats. L'empereur parut extrêmement irrité, lorsqu'il apprit cette nouvelle. Ses ordres étaient précis et terribles; il ne voulait pas de conseils de guerre, etc.

Était, étaient and roulait serve as illustrative additions and explanatory observations of the writer on the facts expressed by the verbs éclata, parut, apprit.

8. After the conjunction si, if, the Imperfect is used to denote a condition or supposition (see § 18). Ex.:—

Si j'avais de l'argent. Si mon frère venait, etc.

Il me demanda si j'avais des heures libres.

He asked me if I had some hours to spare.

9. Sometimes the Imperfect is used instead of the Conditional, to denote that something would have happened, had not another occurrence prevented it, as :—

J'étais perdu, s'il ne m'avait pas retenu.

I should have been lost, if he had not held me.

NOTE. In a similar manner the expressions: should have, ought to have, and could have, are often rendered in French by the Imperfects: Il fallait, je devais, il pouvait, etc. Ex.:—

Vous deviez me le dire tout de suite.

You ought to have told me directly.

THEME 41.

1. Cæsar was a great general. 2. Henry the Fourth was a good king, he loved his people. 3. We were at dinner when the courier¹ arrived (Pret.). 4. Tranquillity reigned throughout (dans) the whole country. 5. The general was waiting for troops² which were to (devaient) come. 6. My father studied (used to study) much when he was young. 7. If he came now, he would find me prepared. 8. When I was at Paris, I went every morning to take a walk in the Champs-Élysées, or in the Bois de Boulogne; afterwards³ I came home, where I employed⁴ myself till dinner, either in reading⁵ or writing, and [in] the evening, I generally went [for] amusement⁶ to the French Theatre or the Opera. 9. If I were in France, I would learn French. 10. If he had something, he would give it to you. 11. I asked him if his father was at home. 12. He answered that he did not know it. 13. I thought you were wrong. 14. I observed that he was quite pale.⁷

1. Le courier. 2. Troupes, pl. f. 3. Après cela. 4. S'occuper. 5. A lire. 6. À amuser. 7. Pâle.

THE PRETERITE.

10. This tense (as: J'allai, je vis, je reçus, etc.) is used in French to express a particular fact or event entirely elapsed, which has happened but once, or very seldom, at a definite time. It is the narrative or historical tense. Ex.:—

Je fus à Rome l'été passé.

Il partit le 20 Octobre.

Les Romains chassèrent Tarquin de Rome.

Après la mort d'Aristide, Cimon prit les rênes du gouvernement.

Ce fut l'époque où la Grèce commença à produire les grands hommes.

Quand les ordres de Criton furent exécutés, un domestique apporta la coupe (cup, goblet) fatale.

Le premier Octobre 1714 Charles XII quitta enfin la Turquie. Les Turcs accompagnèrent le roi jusqu'à la frontière et comblèrent ce monarque de tous les signes de leur respect et de leur admiration. Pendant cinq jours Charles supporta la lenteur qu'entraîne naturellement un long cortège; le sixième jour il perdit patience et conçut l'idée de continuer le voyage avec deux compagnons. Accompagné de deux colonels suédois, il abandonna le cortège. Tous trois franchirent la frontière et continuèrent le voyage à cheval avec une vitesse extraordinaire. Après 22 jours Charles arriva devant les portes de Stralsund.

11. In longer narrations all the facts which form the thread of the relation, are expressed in the Preterite, whereas explanatory remarks serving only to elucidate or complete the relation of the facts, are in the Imperfect (see § 7) or in the Pluperfect. Ex.:—

Les onze magistrats qui veillaient à l'exécution des criminels se rendirent à la prison de Socrate pour lui annoncer le moment de son trépas (death). Plusieurs de ses disciples entrèrent ensuite; ils étaient à peu près au nombre de vingt; ils trouvèrent auprès de lui Xantippe, son épouse, qui tenait le plus jeune de ses enfants entre ses bras. Dès qu'elle les aperçut, elle s'écria: Ah! voilà vos amis. Socrate pria Criton de la faire remener chez elle (to take her home).

Here the Preterites rendirent, entrèrent, trouvèrent, aperçut, s'écria and pria, express the facts, whereas qui veillaient, ils étaient, qui tenait, etc., are incidental additions.

12. When two facts occur together so that one is interrupted by the other, the verb which expresses the interruption is in the Preterite, the other in the Imperfect. Ex.:—

Je dormais quand il entra.

Je déjeûnais quand vous vîntes me demander.

I was breakfasting when you came to ask for me.

THEME 42.

1. I saw the queen of England last year. 2. My aunt died the day before yesterday. 3. Cato killed himself lest he should (de peur de) fall into the hands of Caesar. 4. Marius was ill-treated by (de) fortune; however he did not lose [his] courage. 5. Rome was, for (pendant) more than two hundred years, the mistress¹ of the world. 6. King Pepin died in 768; Charlemagne, his son, succeeded (him). 7. We set off as soon as we had² the order for it (en). 8. My brother's servant brought me a letter this morning before I was up.³ 9. Epaminondas refused the presents of Darius. 10. The Duke of Bouillon was obliged to give the town of Sedan to Henry the Fourth; but this prince, satisfied with his submission,⁴ gave⁵ it him back⁶ soon. 11. Napoleon was born⁶ in Corsica.⁷ 12. When some one represented to Napoleon that a thing was impossible, he declared that this word was not French.

1. La maîtresse. 2. Pret. of recevoir. 3. Levé. 4. Soumission, f. 5. Rendre. 6. Pret. of the verb naître, p. 181. 7. En Corse.

THE COMPOUND OF THE PRESENT.

13. The Compound of the Present (j'ai vu, j'ai reçu, etc.) is used to express a thing as having taken place at a time not specified, or in a period not fully elapsed. Ex.:—

J'ai perdu tous mes enfants.

M. Laurent a beaucoup voyagé.

Nous avons renoncé (given up) à nos droits.

Alexandre le Grand a détruit l'empire des Perses.

L'avez vous vu aujourd'hui? — Oui je l'ai vu ce matin.

Nous avons eu beaucoup de pluie cette année.

NOTE. The French Perfect corresponds to the same form in English in all cases, except that given under the Present tense, § 4, in such phrases as Depuis quand êtes vous ici, how long have you been here? But the French tense is much more frequently used than the English, as will be seen in the following paragraphs.

14. The Compound of the Present translates the English Imperfect, whenever this does not denote continuous or habitual state or action (see §§ 5, 6, 7), or is not strictly a historical past. It is the tense most frequently used in conversation. Ex. :—

Did you see him yesterday ?

L'avez-vous vu hier (not le vîtes-vous) ?

No, sir, I did not see him.

Non, Monsieur, je ne l'ai pas vu.

Did they tell him to come at six ?

Lui a-t-on dit de venir à six heures ?

Yes they told him to come at six o'clock precisely.

Oui, on lui a dit de venir à six heures précises.

Les Français ont gagné la bataille de Marengo.

In this last sentence, gagnèrent would be perfectly correct, but would refer merely to an historical event in the past, with no bearing upon the present. Ont gagné connects the fact stated with something present, either in the speaker or in the hearer.

15. The Compound of the Present is idiomatically used in familiar conversation, instead of the Compound of the Future, as :

Avez-vous bientôt fini votre thème ? Oui, je l'ai fini dans un moment.

Will you soon have done your exercise ? Yes, I shall have finished it in a moment ; instead of the more formal Aurez-vous fini. . . . J'aurai fini.

THEME 43.

1. The horse, when he has run¹ his course ; the bee, when it has made its honey ;² and the good man, when he has done good³ to others, do not make a noisy boast⁴ about it, but go on⁵ repeating the action ; as the vine,⁶ in its season, produces new clusters⁷ again.

2. Fénelon preached with success from the age of nineteen, and wrote many works which are admired for their beauty of style ; but that which has gained⁸ him the greatest reputation is his " Telmachus,"⁹ where he has displayed¹⁰ all the riches of the French language. 3. No work had ever a greater reputation ; it is written in a lively,¹¹ simple, natural, and elegant manner ; its fictions are well imagined, the moral¹² sublime, and the political maxims (which) it contains, all¹³ tend to the happiness of mankind.¹⁴

1. Achevé. 2. Miel, m. 3. Du bien. 4. Ne s'en vantent pas. 5. Continuer. 6. Vigne, f. 7. Grappe, f. 8. Lui a fait. 9. Télémaque. 10. Déployer. 11. Animé. 12. La morale. 13. Tendre à. 14. Des hommes.

THE COMPOUNDS OF THE IMPERFECT AND OF THE PRETERITE.

16. These tenses are formed from the Imperfect and Preterite, and correspond to them fully; only that they represent their action as having taken place previous to some other event referred to, and cannot be used entirely independently, but usually stand connected with a conjunction or an adverb of time. If this conjunctive clause expresses a definite past time, the Compound of the Preterite is employed, especially after the conjunctions aussitôt que, lorsque, quand, dès que, à peine, bientôt, en un moment, un jour que, etc.

Example: —

Aussitôt que j'eus terminé mes affaires, je repartis.

À peine eut-il prononcé ce mot, qu'il s'en repentit.

Dès que le parlement se fut assemblé, l'émeute cessa.

As soon as the parliament was assembled, the riot ceased.

It is here not to be overlooked that in the use of the Compound Preterite a more immediate relation, a closer connection must exist between the two past events.

17. With the Compound of the Imperfect, this close connection fails, and this is the distinguishing feature of this tense, which is also used like the Imperfect for descriptions, for continuous events, and frequently repeated or customary previous actions. Ex.: —

Platon avait reçu de la nature un corps robuste.

J'avais déjà terminé mes affaires, quand je reçus votre lettre.

À la campagne, quand j'avais dîné, je faisais une promenade de deux lieues.

18. The Compound of the Imperfect is also used after the conjunction si, if, the same in French as in English (see § 9). Ex.:

Si vous étiez venu plus tôt, vous m'auriez trouvé à la maison.

S'il avait parlé plus haut (louder), je l'aurais compris.

THEME 44.

1. The Tyrians had, by their pride,¹ offended the great Sesostris, who ruled in Egypt, and who had conquered so many kingdoms.
2. The wealth which they had acquired² by commerce, and the strength of the impregnable³ city of Tyre, lying⁴ in the sea, had lifted up⁵ the heart of these people. 3. They had refused to pay Sesostris the tribute⁶ which he had imposed upon them (leur) on his return from his conquests;⁷ and they had furnished troops to his brother, who had attempted⁸ to kill him in the midst of the festivities⁹ of a great banquet. 4. As soon as Sesostris learned¹⁰ this, he determined¹¹ to humiliate their pride and to destroy their commerce upon all seas. 5. Julius Cæsar, having disembarked¹² in Africa, fell [down] as he was leaving the vessel; this appeared to his soldiers a very inauspicious¹³ omen: ¹³ he, however, turned the feelings of the army to his advantage by exclaiming (en s'écriant), "It is now, O Africa, that I hold thee."

1. Orgueil, m. 2. Acquises. 3. Imprenable (before the noun). 4. Située dans. 5. Enflé. 6. Le tribut. 7. Conquête, f. 8. Voulu. 9. Joies. 10. Apprendre. 11. Il résolut d'humilier. 12. Ayant débarqué. 13. Un présage de mauvaise augure.

III. THE FUTURE TENSES.

19. The Future (je parlerai, je ferai, etc.) denotes in general future events or circumstances, as : —

Charles partira demain.

20. It must sometimes be used in French after adverbs of time (quand, lorsque, etc.) where the English use the Present, when the idea is one of future time. Ex. : —

Vous pouvez venir quand vous voudrez.

You may come when you like.

21. It is used as a softened form of the Imperative, implying the expectation of fulfilment. Ex. : —

Vous m'écrirez demain, (do) write to me to-morrow.

Vous ne tuerez point, thou shalt do no murder.

Quand vous viendrez, vous apporterez mon livre.

When you come you will bring my book.

NOTE 1. When shall and will imply determination, they are rendered by vouloir, as : —

I will do it, je veux le faire.

You shall do it, je veux que vous le fassiez.

22. It sometimes has the sense of the Imperative in sentences like the following : —

Croira qui voudra l'historien Capitolin et quelques autres écrivains qui font danser les éléphants sur la corde.

Believe who will the historian Capitolinus and several other writers, who make elephants dance on a rope.

NOTE. To be on the point of doing something is expressed in French by aller, which corresponds precisely with the English to be going, etc. (See Part I., Lesson XLVI.) Ex. : —

Are you going to write to him ? allez-vous lui écrire ?

I am coming, je vais venir.

Napoléon dit à ses soldats, " Nous allons entreprendre la conquête de l'Egypte. Les peuples avec lesquels nous allons vivre, sont Mahométans," etc.

23. The Compound of the Future indicates an event which is to precede another future event specified. Ex. : —

Quand j'aurai terminé mes affaires, je partirai tout de suite.

Aussitôt que je serai arrivé, j'irai le voir.

24. When the conjunction si signifies whether, expressing uncertainty, the future can be used after it, in French as in English. Si is never followed by the future, unless it means whether. Ex. : —

Je ne sais si mon frère viendra.

I do not know if my brother will come.

25. When si signifies on condition that, the English Future must be rendered by the Present. Ex. : —

Vous deviendrez savant, si vous étudiez bien.

You will become a learned man, if you will study.

26. The Future is sometimes used to imply surmise. Ex. : —

Où est mon argent ? L'aurai-je peut-être perdu ?

Where is my money ? Have I perhaps lost it ?

27. The Conditionals, je parlerais, j'aurais parlé, are used in French as in English, in conditional sentences : —

Je serais heureux si j'avais des amis.

I should be happy if I had some friends.

NOTE. The English I wish, when it does not relate to something past, is often translated by the Conditional of vouloir, je voudrais. Ex. : —

I wish he would come soon, je voudrais qu'il vint bientôt.

28. After si, when it means suppose that, the English Conditional must be rendered by the Imperfect (see § 8). Ex. : —

Si je continuais mon commerce, je deviendrais riche.

If I should continue my trade, I should become rich.

But when si means whether, the Conditional is also used in French : —

Je ne sais si mon oncle viendrait, en cas que vous l'invitassiez.

29. The compound Conditional of devoir, pouvoir, and vouloir, followed by the simple Infinitive, must be used when, in English, the auxiliaries should, ought, could, might, are followed by a compound Infinitive Ex. : —

Vous auriez dû écrire une lettre.

You ought to have written a letter.

J'aurais pu lui donner de l'argent.

I could have given him some money.

READING LESSON.

ALEXANDRE SELKIRK.

Pendant la guerre pour la succession d'Espagne, quelques particuliers¹ équipèrent en Angleterre deux vaisseaux armateurs, destinés à faire des prises² dans la mer du sud. Le capitaine Rogers fut nommé pour les commander. Ils levèrent³ l'ancre de Bristol le 2 Août, 1708. Au mois de Janvier de l'année suivante ils se trouvaient du côté du pôle antaretique.⁴ Rogers doubla le Cap-Horn sans prendre terre en aucun lieu de ces parages⁵ jusqu'à l'île de Juan Fernandès, située dans la mer du sud, à la distance de cent-dix lieues du Chili. Il y envoya une pinasse,⁶ qui revint au vaisseau avec quantité d'écrevisses,⁷ et un homme vêtu de peaux de chèvres⁸ qui paraissait plus sauvage que ces animaux mêmes. C'était un Écossais, nommé Alexandre Selkirk, qui avait été maître à bord du vaisseau "Les Cinq-Ports," et que le capitaine Stradling avait abandonné sur cette île depuis quatre ans et quatre mois. Voici le récit que ce malheureux fit de ses aventures au capitaine Rogers.

"Dès mon enfance j'ai été élevé⁹ dans la marine. Ayant suivi le capitaine Stradling dans son expédition, j'eus un démêlé¹⁰ avec lui, ce qui l'engagea à me débarquer sur cette île. Je résolus d'abord d'y rester, plutôt que¹ de m'exposer à de nouveaux chagrins, d'autant plus que le vaisseau était en mauvais état. Cependant revenu à moi-même, je souhaitai d'y retourner, mais le capitaine n'y voulut pas consentir."

Pourquoi avait-il été débarqué par le capitaine ?

XIX. DIX-NEUVIÈME LEÇON.

THE SUBJUNCTIVE MOOD.

1. The Subjunctive is in most cases dependent, and is therefore used in subordinate clauses. Whenever in French a subordinate clause is dependent upon a leading clause which contains the idea of something not yet having an actual existence for the speaker, consequently of something possible or uncertain, its verb will be in the Subjunctive. This unreality can apply as well to something external, i. e. to actions and events, as to something internal, i. e. to conceptions and emotions. This is the general ground of distinction in the application of the French Subjunctive. The two languages by no means agree in this point. Many verbs in English are put in the Future, the Conditional, or the Present Indicative, which, in French, must be in the subjunctive. Thus for instance : —

Je ne pense pas qu'il soit si âgé.

I do not think he is so old.

Nous craignons qu'il ne s'en allât.

We feared he would go.

2. But before passing to the rules concerning the use of the Subjunctive, it will be indispensably necessary to understand the relation of the tenses of the Subjunctive to those of the Indicative and Conditional, without which the clause, dependent upon them, cannot be properly translated. The following rules are here applicable : —

1. If the verb of the leading clause is in the Present or Future Indicative, that of the dependent clause will be in the Present or Compound of the Present of the Subjunctive. Ex.: —

*Je veux qu'il vienne, I wish him to come.

Connaissez-vous quelqu'un qui sache faire cela ?

Do you know anybody who knows how to do this ?

Je ferai en sorte que tout soit prêt.

I will have everything ready.

J'attendrai que mon père soit parti.

I will wait till my father has departed.

2. If the verb of the leading clause be in a past tense of the Indicative, or in the Conditional, the Imperfect of the Subjunctive must follow in the subordinate clause ; or if the subordinate clause contain an event which has already taken place, the Compound Imperfect of the Subjunctive must be employed, according to the following scheme : —

Je craignais

Je craignis

J'ai craint

J'avais craint

Je craindrais

J'aurais craint

} qu'elle n'arrivât demain — aujourd'hui, — trop tard, — trop tôt, etc.

* Observe that the Present and Future are the same in the Subjunctive Mood in French ; the context alone shows of which of the two we speak. Ex.: —

Je ne crois pas qu'elle vienne.

I do not think she is coming.

Je ne crois pas qu'elle vienne.

I do not think she will come.

Je craignaisJe craignisJ'ai craint J'avais craintJe craindraisJ'aurais craint qu'ils ne fussent arrivés hier — avant-hier, — la semaine dernière, etc.

3. There are a great many verbs which govern the verb of the subordinate clause in the Subjunctive mood ; they may be divided into four classes, viz. : —

1. Verbs of wishing, willing, desiring, commanding or permitting.
2. Verbs of thinking, believing, and saying.
3. Verbs expressing fear, doubt, sorrow, astonishment, denial, duty, necessity, joy, or delight.
4. Impersonal verbs which do not express certainty or probability.

4. Verbs of wishing, willing, commanding, etc. Such are : —

Aimer, to like.aimer mieux, to prefer.défendre, to forbid.demander, to ask.désirer, to wish for, to desire.exiger, to demand.ordonner, to order.permettre, to permit, allow.prier, to beg, to ask.recommander, to recommend.souhaiter, to wish.souffrir, to suffer.supplier, to beg, request.vouloir, to be willing, etc.

Examples : —

J'ordonne qu'il sorte, I order him to go out.

J'aime qu'il soit courageux, I like him to be brave.

Il veut que je dise la vérité (Pres. Subj., § 2, 1).

He wishes me to say the truth.

Il voulait que je lui disse la vérité (Imperf., § 2, 2).

He desired me to tell him the truth.

Le roi exigea que je partisse tout de suite.

The king demanded that I should leave directly

* As the Compound of the Present belongs to Present as well as to Past time, it can be followed also by the Present of the Subjunctive, when the dependent clause refers to Present time. Ex. : —

Dieu nous a donné la raison pour que nous nous en servions.

God has given us reason that we may make use of it.

5. Verbs of thinking, believing, saying, etc.

These verbs, and, in general, all those which express the intellectual faculties of the mind, govern the Indicative when they are affirmatively used, and most commonly the Subjunctive when they are used negatively, interrogatively, or are preceded by the conjunction si. If I say, for instance: Je crois que Charles est malade, I represent Charles's illness to myself as a reality, and consequently the Indicative is required. But in the sentences: Je ne crois pas que Charles soit malade, or, croyez-vous que Charles soit malade? an uncertainty is expressed in regard to Charles's illness, and the Subjunctive must be used. Ex.:—

Je ne crois pas que le concert ait lieu ce soir.

I do not think that the concert will take place to-night.

Pensez-vous qu'il puisse apprendre tout cela.

Do you think he can learn all that?

Je ne dis pas qu'il ait tort.

I do not say that he is wrong.

Partons, si vous pensez qu'il fasse beau temps.

NOTE 1. If however we ask a question, less to be informed of a thing than to inform others of it, the second verb (having the sense: Do you know?) is put in the Indicative, and not in the Subjunctive. Ex.:—

Vous ai-je dit que mon frère est arrivé?

NOTE 2. Observe that the verbs of knowing, being sure, resolving, etc., are not comprised among those which govern the Subjunctive. They generally require the Indicative, even when used interrogatively or negatively:—

Je savais
Je ne savais pas } qu'il était ici.

Je ne sais s'il le fera, I do not know if he will do it.

THEME 47.

1. I wish him to come (that he c.). 2. The law requires that thieves¹ [should] be punished. 3. I demanded that he should pay me. 4. Has he demanded that you should pay the bill?² 5. I forbid that he should go there. 6. God wills that we love our enemies. 7. Caligula wished that the Romans should render him divine honors.³ 8. Your father expects that you should give⁴ an account of what you have done. 9. My aunt wishes that I should set out to-morrow. 10. Tell him to wait. 11. Augustus commanded in his will⁵ that they should not seek to⁶ extend the empire. 12. Allow me to tell you (allow that I tell y.) the truth. 13. I will be obeyed (that one ob. me). 14. Do you think your aunt will come by herself?⁷ 15. If I find that you frequent bad company, you will lose my friendship. 16. Do you hope they (on) will make peace?⁸

1. Les voleurs. 2. Le compte. 3. Des honneurs divins. 4. To give an account, rendre compte. 5. Testament, m. 6. A étendre. 7. Seule. 8. La paix.

6. The Subjunctive is used after verbs of fear, doubt, sorrow, joy, denial or hinderance, astonishment, etc. Such are : —

Avoir peur, } to fear.
craindre, }
douter, to doubt.

s'étonner, to wonder.
empêcher, to hinder, prevent.
nier, to deny.

And likewise after :

Être bien aise, to be glad.
être charmé, } to be very glad.
être enchanté, }
être content, to be satisfied.
se réjouir, to rejoice.
trembler, to tremble.

être affligé, to be afflicted.
être fâché, to be sorry.
être étonné, to be astonished.
être surpris, to be surprised.
regretter, to regret.
se plaindre, to complain.

Examples : —

Je crains que ma mère ne soit malade.

I fear my mother is ill.

Je ne doutais pas qu'il n'arrivât avant vous.

I did not doubt that he would arrive before you.

*J'empêcherai qu'il ne * sorte.*

I will hinder him from going out.

Je regrette qu'il soit venu trop tard.

Mon père est fâché que je ne lui aie pas écrit plus tôt.

Je suis charmé que vous soyez venu me voir.

Je m'étonne qu'il n'ait pas reçu ma lettre.

* Concerning the particle ne, see L. XV. § 15 - 18.

NOTE 1. The verbs avoir peur, appréhender, craindre and trembler require the particle ne before the verb in the Subjunctive mood, but only when these verbs themselves are affirmative or negative-interrogative. Ex.:—

Je crains qu'il ne vienne.

Ne craignez-vous pas qu'il ne vienne?

But if the sentence be simply negative or simply interrogative, ne is not used, as :—

Je ne crains pas qu'il vienne.

Craignez-vous qu'il vienne?

NOTE 2. If after those verbs mentioned in § 6, we wish to express ourselves with definiteness, de ce que is used instead of the simple que, and this is followed by the Indicative :—

Il est fâché de ce que vous ne lui avez pas écrit.

Je me plains de ce qu'elle m'a oublié.

NOTE 3. If the second verb is negative in English, ne—pas must be used in French, as :—

Je tremble qu'il n'arrive pas à temps.

I tremble lest he may not arrive in time.

7. Subjunctive after Impersonal verbs.

A verb preceded by que is always put in the Subjunctive after the following Impersonals :—

Il est surprenant, it is surprising.

il convient, it is proper.

il faut, it must.

il importe, it is important, it matters,
it concerns.

il suffit, it is sufficient.

il vaut mieux, it is better.

il plaît, it pleases, suits.

il est fâcheux, it is sad.

il est juste, it is just, right.

il est difficile, it is difficult.

il est possible, it is possible.

il est naturel, it is a matter of course.

il se peut, il peut se faire, it may be.

And likewise after :—

Il est temps, it is time.

c'est dommage, it is a pity.

c'est un malheur, it is a misfortune, etc., etc.

Examples :—

Il faut que vous partiez tout de suite.

You must leave directly.

Il est possible qu'il revienne.

It is possible that he come back.

C'est dommage que vous ne soyez pas venu plus tôt.

It is a pity that you have not come earlier.

Il suffit qu'il ait avoué sa faute.

It is enough that he has confessed his fault.

Il est juste que vous soyez puni.

It is right that you be punished.

Further, after il y a, and all impersonal verbs with an adjective denoting evidence, certainty, or probability, when they are used in a negative, interrogative, or conditional manner. Ex. :—

Y a-t-il un mortel qui puisse dire qu'il est toujours heureux ?

Is there a mortal who can say that he is always happy ?

Est-il sûr qu'il ait tort ?

Is it certain that he is in the wrong ?

Il n'est pas sûr qu'il ait tort.

It is not certain that he is in the wrong.

THEME 48.

1. I doubt whether that is true. 2. I doubt whether your uncle will arrive to-morrow. 3. The Egyptians did not doubt (see Lesson XV., § 15) that certain plants and animals were divinities.¹ 4. We question whether riches can afford² happiness. 5. I did not know that you were to come. 6. Do you doubt that I am your friend ? 7. I do not doubt that you are my friend. 8. He denies that he had been told that. 9. He does not deny that he has been told that. 10. It is time for us to go (that we go) home, for it begins to (à) rain. 11. It is evident that Greece could no more defend herself, so much was she at that time sunken.³ 12. It is sufficient if you tell him this. 13. It is a pity that you did not go with us ; you would have enjoyed yourself much. 14. It is not probable that they will do it. 15. I must go to (en) town.

1. Des divinités. 2. Accorder. 3. Déchue.

8. The Subjunctive is used in relative dependent clauses beginning with qui, que, lequel or où, which depend upon a leading clause in which a wish, doubt, or condition is implied, especially after an Imperative. Ex. :—

Lisez des ouvrages qui puissent former votre goût.

Read such books as can form your taste.

Choisissez un appartement où vous soyez à votre aise.

Choose an apartment where you may be comfortable.

Ils envoyèrent des députés qui consultassent Apollon.

They sent deputies who were to consult Apollo.

If, however, no such requirement or expectation is contained in the leading clause; if, on the contrary, the matter is rather regarded as something which is actual, or which has already taken place, then, of course, the Indicative is used. Ex. :—

J'ai loué un appartement où je suis bien à mon aise.

Ils envoyèrent des députés qui consultèrent Apollon.

9. A verb preceded by the relative qui or que is put in the Subjunctive after the Superlative, when the relative clause only expresses an opinion, as :—

C'est le plus beau jardin que je connaisse.

This is the most beautiful garden I know.

C'est une des dernières lettres que St. Paul ait écrites.

This is one of the last letters St. Paul has written.

La meilleure garde qu'un roi puisse avoir, c'est le cœur de ses sujets.

The best guard a king can have is the hearts of his subjects.

If, however the thing is represented as certain or as a matter of fact, the Indicative follows. Ex. :—

Souviens-toi que je suis le seul qui t'a déplu (displeased).

Néron est le premier empereur qui a persécuté l'Église.

10. The Subjunctive is used further after the ordinal numbers (as, le premier, le second, le dernier, etc.), and after unique, seul, peu, rien, and personne. Ex. :—

Vous êtes le premier ami que j'ai rencontré à Paris.

You are the first friend I have met with in Paris.

C'est l'unique espoir qui me soit resté.

This is the only hope that remains to me.

Il y a peu d'hommes qui sachent supporter l'adversité.

There are few men who know how to bear adversity.

Je ne connais personne qui soit aussi heureux que lui.

I know nobody who is so happy as he is.

NOTE. Qui and que do not govern the Subjunctive, when they are preceded by de and its object, to which they refer. Ex. :—

Ne dites rien de ce que je vous ai confié (Ind.).

THEME 49.

1. You are the most learned man I know in this town. 2. Robert is the only friend on whom I can depend.¹ 3. Nero was the first emperor that (has) persecuted the Christians. 4. I seek a servant who is faithful. 5. The diamond is the most valuable² stone we know. 6. You are the first German I have met with in China. 7. There is no one who does it more easily³ than she. 8. 1. Compter. 2. Précieux. 3. Aisément. 4. Se tromper. 5. Lucrèce et Pline. 6. Naturalistes.

11. Subjunctive after conjunctions. A verb is put in the Subjunctive after the following conjunctions : —

Avant que , before.	non que ,	} not that.
à moins que (ne) , unless.	non pas que ,
afin que , in order that.	pour que , in order that.
bien que , although.	pour peu que ,	} if ever so little.
de peur que (ne) , lest.	si peu que ,
de crainte que (ne) , for fear that.	pourvu que , provided.
de manière (sorte) que , so that.	que — ne , till, before.
en attendant que , till.	quel — que ,	} however. (See p. 282.)
en (au) cas que , in case.	quelque — que ,
encore que , although.	quoique , although.
jusqu'à ce que , until.	sans que , without.
loin que , far from,	sinon que , but that.
malgré que , for all that, notwithstanding that.	si tant est que , if so be that.
nonobstant que , notwithstanding.	soit que — soit que ,	} whether — or.

Whatever effort men may make, their nothingness appears everywhere.

A moins que vous ne me demandiez pardon.

Unless you ask me for pardon.

Au (en) cas qu'il mourût.

In case he should die.

NOTE. The Indicative can sometimes be used after avant que, jusqu'à ce que, sinon que, de sorte que, si ce n'est que, tellement que, and de manière que, when all doubt and uncertainty are excluded, and the clause expresses a fact. Ex. :—

Je gardai mon sang froid, jusqu'à ce que je l'entendis calomnier mon frère.

Il s'est occupé de cette affaire de manière (de sorte) qu'on n'a pu le blâmer.

12. In the same manner the Subjunctive is employed after the simple que, when used instead of one of the conjunctions mentioned in § 11. Ex. :—

Je ne puis vous pardonner avant que vous me fassiez l'aveu de vos fautes et que vous me promettiez de vous corriger.

I cannot pardon you before you confess your faults and promise me to improve.

Venez que (instead of afin que) je vous en dise la raison.

Come, that I may tell you the reason of it.

Son esprit est toujours actif, quoiqu'il soit malade et qu'il ne puisse travailler.

His mind is always active, although he is sick and cannot work.

13. The conjunction que, used to avoid the repetition of si, governs the Subjunctive. Ex. :—

Si je ne suis pas rentré à quatre heures et qu'on vienne me demander, etc.

If I am not at home at four o'clock, and somebody comes for me, etc.

14. The Subjunctive is also used after attendre; till is translated by que, and not by jusqu'à ce que, as :—

Attendez qu'il revienne, wait till he comes back.

15. Aside from the instances above-mentioned, the Subjunctive also occurs in a few expressions which appear either the expression of a wish or as a kind of third person Imperative. Notice especially : Dussé-je ! should I ! Puissiez-vous ! would that you !

Puissent-ils ! may they . . . ! Further : —

READING LESSON.

ALEXANDRE SELKIRK.

(Suite.)

“Abandonné sur cette île déserte avec mes habits, un lit, un fusil,¹ une livre de poudre, des balles, du tabac, une hache, un couteau, un chaudron,² une bible et quelques autres livres; je m’amusai et pourvus³ à mes besoins⁴ le mieux qu’il me fut possible. Mais durant les premiers huit mois j’eus beaucoup de peine à vaincre la mélancolie et à surmonter l’horreur que me causait une si affreuse solitude.

“Je fis deux cabanes⁵ à quelque distance l’une de l’autre, avec du bois de piment ;⁶ je les couvris d'une espèce de jone⁷ et les doublai⁸ de peaux de chèvres que je tuais à mesure que j'en avais besoin, tant que ma poudre dura. Lorsqu'elle approchait de sa fin, je trouvais le secret de tirer du feu avec deux morceaux de bois que je frottais⁹ l'un contre l'autre. Je faisais la cuisine¹⁰ dans la plus petite de mes huttes, et dans la grande je dormais, chantais des psaumes et priaïis Dieu. Le malheur m'avait fait connaître le prix de la religion.

“ Accablé de tristesse, manquant de pain et de sel, je ne mangeais qu'à l'extrémité, lorsque la faim me pressait, et je n'allais me coucher que lorsque je ne pouvais plus soutenir la veille.¹¹ Le bois de piment me servait à cuire la viande, et à m'éclairer, et son odeur¹² aromatique récréait¹³ mes esprits abattus.

“ Je ne manquais pas de poissons, mais je n'osais en manger sans sel, parce qu'ils m'incommodaient, à la réserve¹⁴ des écrevisses de rivière, qui sont ici d'un goût exquis, et aussi grosses que celles de mer. Tantôt je les mangeais bouillies, et tantôt grillées,¹⁵ de même que la chair des chèvres, qui n'a pas le goût si fort que celle des nôtres, et qui donne un excellent bouillon.¹⁶ J'en avais tué jusqu'à cinq cents. Quand ma poudre fut finie, je les prenais à la course. Par un exercice continuel je m'étais rendu si agile que je courais à travers les bois, sur les rochers et les collines avec une vitesse incroyable. Peu s'en fallut un jour que mon agilité ne me coûtât la vie. Je poursuivais une chèvre avec tant d'ardeur que je la pris sur le bord d'un précipice que des buissons¹⁷ me cachaient, et je culbutai¹⁸ de haut en bas avec elle. Cette chute¹⁹ terrible me fit perdre toute connaissance. Enfin revenu à moi-même, je trouvai la chèvre morte sous moi, et j'eus assez de peine à me traîner²⁰ à ma cabane, qui en était à un mille,²¹ et à en sortir au bout de dix jours.”

 XX. VINGTIÈME LEÇON.

THE INFINITIVE.

1. The Infinitive sometimes takes the place of a noun. It is used as the subject of a sentence, where in English the Part. Pres. is often found. Ex.:—

Secourir les pauvres est une action louable.

To relieve the poor is a praiseworthy action.

Médiser est une infamie.

Calumniating is shameful.

NOTE 1. In some instances it becomes properly a noun and takes the article with it, as : le manger, le boire, les vivres (victuals). If such an Infinitive is amplified by means of other words, it is better to write c'est or c'était instead of est or était, and sometimes also voilà. Ex.:—

N'aimer que soi, c'est aimer peu de chose.

To love no one but one's self is to love very little,

NOTE 2. When this amplification is somewhat long, the Infinitive cannot remain at the beginning of the sentence, but must be placed after the predicate, and takes de before it. In order, however, not to confuse the sense and the construction of the sentence, ce or il is employed as a merely introductory subject; ce, if a substantive follows, il, if an adjective. Examples:—

C'est un honneur d'être utile à sa patrie.

Il est glorieux de mourir pour sa patrie.

NOTE 3. If this antecedent predicate have several or long amplifications the subject-infinitive is commonly introduced by an expletive que. Ex.:—

C'était une grand nouveauté pour le roi que d'entendre parler si naturellement.

2. Where two imperatives are connected in English by and, if the first is a verb of motion the second must be translated in French by the Infinitive, and the conjunction omitted. Ex.:—

Go and see my brother, allez voir mon frère.

Go and do it, Allez le faire.

3. A verb immediately preceded by and depending on another verb (auxiliaries excepted), or following a preposition, other than en, must be put in the Infinitive:—

Je vous le ferai savoir, sans être pressé.

4. Comment, how; que, what; où, where; pourquoi, why, and a few other words similarly used in interrogations, are often followed by the Infinitive instead of the Indicative, when the sense will not thereby be rendered obscure. Thus "Pourquoi aller?" may mean "Why do you go?" "Que faire?" "What is to be done?" "Que dire?" "What shall I say?"

5. The Infinitive without a preposition is used in French after verbs of motion, as : aller, envoyer, etc. ; after verbs that denote a perception of the senses, as : entendre, sentir, voir, etc., and after the following verbs : —

Affirmer, to affirm.

assurer, to assure.

avouer, to confess.

compter, to reckon, intend.

croire, to believe.

daigner, to deign.

déclarer, to declare.

désirer,* to wish.

devoir, to be obliged.

dire, to say.

espérer,* to hope.

faillir, to miss.

faire, to do.

falloir (il faut), it must.

s'imaginer,* to imagine.

jurer, to swear.

laisser, to let, to permit.

nier, to deny.

oser, to dare.

paraître, to appear.

penser, to think.

prétendre, to pretend.

pouvoir, to be able.

reconnaître, to acknowledge.

savoir, to know.

sembler, to appear, to seem.

souhaiter,* to wish.

soutenir, to maintain.

témoigner, to testify.

vouloir, to be willing.

Examples : —

Venez nous voir demain.

Come and see us to-morrow.

Je cours lui apprendre cette nouvelle.

I hasten to tell him this news.

Il faut envoyer chercher le médecin.

We must send for the doctor.

Vous osez, — daignez, — désirez, etc. lui parler !

You dare, — deign, — wish, etc. to speak to him !

Je croyais —, je désirais, etc. lui rendre un service.

I thought —, I wished —, etc. to render him a service.

Je compte —, j'espère, etc. aller à Paris.

I intend —, I hope, etc. to go to Paris.

Je ne sais pas nager.

I cannot swim.

Croyez-vous avoir raison ?

Do you believe you are in the right ?

Je l'entends venir.

I hear him coming.

NOTE 1. After the above four verbs marked,* de is sometimes used, especially when they themselves stand in the Infinitive. Ex.:—

Peut-on espérer de vous voir demain ?

Personne ne doit s'imaginer de tout savoir.

NOTE 2. The verb faire is used for to do, to make and to get, to cause; in all these cases it is immediately followed, in French, by the Infinitive active without a preposition:—

Je ferai bâtir une maison.

I will cause a house to be built.

Voulez-vous faire laver vos gants ?

Will you have your gloves washed ?

Je lui ferai faire un thème.

I will make him write an exercise.

6. The simple Infinitive is governed further by the verbs: aimer,* when used in the Conditional, I should like; préférer, to prefer; aimer autant, to like as much; il vaut mieux, it is better.

Examples:—

J'aimerais le voir, I should like to see him.

Il vaut mieux céder, it is better to yield.

Je préfère rester à la maison, I prefer staying at home.

NOTE. When, however, in the second member of a comparison a second Infinitive follows que, this latter takes de before it. Ex.:—

J'aime mieux mourir que de trahir mon secret.

I will rather die than betray my secret.

7. The Infinitive is used after every preposition except en. Examples:—

Au lieu de jouer, instead of playing.

Sans aller, without going.

Pour voir, for the purpose of seeing.

THE INFINITIVE PRECEDED BY DE.

8. After a substantive which the verb limits, the English preposition of with a Pres. Participle (of going, of seeing, etc.) is generally expressed by de with the Infinitive. Ex.:—

Le désir de vous voir, the desire of seeing you.

Sa manière de penser et d'agir (of thinking and acting).

Il est temps de partir, it is time to set out.

J'ai l'honneur de vous saluer.

9. The preposition de is placed before a verb in the Infinitive, after the adjectives: avide, content, mécontent, las, digne, capable, incapable, etc., and in general after an adjective, whenever, by inverting the sentence, the clause containing the Infinitive might be made the leading term of an assertion expressed as subject to some tense of to be. Ex.:—

Je suis curieux de savoir.

I am anxious to know.

Etes-vous las de travailler?

Are you tired with working?

Cet homme est capable de vous tromper.

That man is capable of deceiving you.

Vous êtes très-adroit d'avoir si bien réussi.

You are very clever to have succeeded so well.

10. De is used before the Infinitive after impersonal verbs, such as : il convient, it is proper ; il importe, it concerns ; il s'agit, it is the question ; il suffit, it is enough ; il me tarde, I long, and after il est, il était or il semble followed by an adjective, as : il est facile, il était nécessaire, etc. Ex.:—

It concerns me much to tell him this.

Il est beau de pardonner à son ennemi.

It is a good thing to pardon one's enemy.

18. The Infinitive preceded by à is idiomatically used after the verb être to translate the English progressive forms, such as : I am singing, I was writing, etc. The French Je suis à chanter, J'étais à écrire, are, however, not so much used as the English participial inflections, which are generally rendered by the simple verb Je chante, j'écrivais, etc.

19. The Infinitive with à also occurs in abbreviated expressions which in reality are simply contracted subordinate sentences. Examples:—

A l'entendre, on dirait qu'il est innocent.

To hear him, one would say he is innocent.

A vous voir, on croirait . . .

To see you, one would think . . .

Il était le premier à se jeter sur l'ennemi.

He was the first to throw, i. e. who threw himself on the enemy.

Je ne suis pas homme à me laisser offenser

I am not the man to allow myself to be offended.

Je me plaçai de manière à pouvoir tout observer.

I placed myself in such a posture as to observe everything.

20. Verbs with à or de. The following verbs require either à or de, according to the sense in which they are employed:—

1. Commencer, to begin, is generally followed by à. Ex.:—

On a commencé à jouer, they have begun to play.

But if it expresses simply a fact without any idea of continuation, de is used after it:—

Puisque j'ai commencé de rompre le silence.

Since I have begun to break the silence.

2. Continuer à denotes an uninterrupted continuation of the action. Example:—

Si vous continuez à travailler si fort, vous ruinerez votre santé.

If you continue to work so much you will ruin your health.

Continuer de denotes an action repeated, but after successive interruptions. Ex.:—

Mon ami continuait de m'écrire.

My friend continued to write to me.

3. Défier requires à when it means to challenge, to provoke (to a competition), and de when it means to set at defiance, or, defy to do something.

4. S'efforcer, synonymous with faire des efforts, to exert one's self, to take pains, takes à. Ex.:—

Il s'efforçait à faire son devoir.

He took pains (exerted himself) to do his duty.

S'efforcer de means to endeavor. Ex.:—

Je m'efforcerai d'obtenir cette place.

I shall endeavor to get that place.

5. Être, to be, when joined to ce, is followed by à if it denotes turn, and by de, if it denotes duty or right, as:—

C'est à vous à parler, it is your turn to speak.

C'est au maître d'ordonner, c'est à moi d'obéir.

It is for the master to command, it is for me to obey.

6. Laisser, to leave, meaning to transmit, is followed by à; meaning to cease or abstain, by de; and when used in the sense of to permit (to let), it governs the next verb without a preposition.

7. Manquer à denotes the omission or neglect of a duty:—

Pourquoi avez-vous manqué à faire votre exercice?

Why have you neglected to do your exercise?

Manquer de signifies to fail, to be on the point of:—

J'ai manqué de perdre la vie, I had nearly lost my life.

8. S'occuper takes à in the sense of to employ one's time, to work at. Examples:—

Il s'occupe à lire, he occupies himself with reading.

L'auteur de "Paul et Virginie" s'occupait à recueillir les matériaux de cet ouvrage.

The author of "Paul and Virginia" occupied himself in collecting the materials of this work.

S'occuper de signifies mettre ses soins, to pay attention to, to think much of. Ex.:—

Il s'occupe de détruire les abus.

He is thinking how to abolish abuses.

9. Venir governs the Infinitive with à, when it signifies to happen. Example:—

S'il venait à apprendre que vous êtes ici.

If he happened to know that you are here.

Venir is followed by de, when it is used to express a thing just happened (see P. I., L. XLVII.). Ex.:—

Mes sœurs viennent de sortir.

My sisters have just gone out.

10. Tarder à signifies to delay. Ex.:—

Ne tardez pas à lui envoyer de l'argent.

Do not delay sending him some money.

Tarder, as an impersonal verb: il me tarde, I long, governs the Infinitive with de. Ex.:—

INFINITIVE WITH THE PREPOSITIONS POUR, PAR, APRES, SANS.

22. Pour. Whenever the English to before an Infinitive expresses a design or purpose, and can be changed into, in order to, pour must be used. Ex.:—

Il attend de l'argent pour payer ses dettes.

He is expecting money to pay his debts.

J'ai fait mon possible pour les réconcilier.

I have done all in my power to reconcile them.

Je l'ai fait moi-même pour ne pas vous déranger.

I did it myself not to disturb you.

23. The proposition pour is also used after the adjective following assez, trop, suffisant, or after the verb suffire. Ex.:—

M. R. est assez riche pour acheter cette campagne.

Mr. R. is rich enough to buy that estate.

Caroline est trop jeune pour faire cet ouvrage.

Caroline is too young to do this work.

24. The French usage differs from the English in employing the Infinitive instead of a separate clause, when the dependent clause has the same subject as the principal clause :—

Je crois être blessé, I think I am wounded.

J'espère mériter votre confiance, I hope I deserve your confidence.

Je voudrais être riche, I wish I were rich.

READING LESSON.

ALEXANDRE SELKIRK.

(Suite.)

"Une longue habitude me fit manger la viande sans sel et sans pain. Dans la saison j'avais quantité de bons navets¹ qui avaient été semés par l'équipage² de quelque vaisseau et qui couvraient plusieurs arpents³ de terre. Je ne manquais pas non plus d'excellents choux⁴ que je cueillais sur une espèce de palmier et que j'assaisonnais avec le fruit du piment, qui est le même que le poivre de la Jamaïque, et dont l'odeur est délicieuse.

"Mes souliers et mes habits furent bientôt usés à force de courir à travers les bois et les broussailles.⁵ Cependant mes pieds s'endurcirent⁶ si bien à la fatigue, que je courais partout sans peine.

"Revenu⁷ enfin de ma mélancolie, je me divertissais quelquefois à graver mon nom sur l'écorce⁸ des arbres avec la date de mon exil, ou bien à chanter et à dresser⁹ à la danse des chats et des chevreaux. Lorsque je n'eus plus d'habits, je me fis un juste-au-corps¹⁰ et un bonnet (cap) de peaux de chèvres que je cousis ensemble avec de petites courroies;¹¹ un clou¹² me servait d'aiguille. Je me fis aussi des chemises d'un morceau de toile que j'avais. Quand mon couteau fut usé jusqu'au dos, j'en forgeai d'autres avec quelques cercles de fer que j'avais trouvés sur le rivage, et je les aiguisai¹³ sur des pierres.

"C'est ainsi que la nécessité m'apprit à pourvoir à tous mes besoins."

“ Pendant mon séjour¹⁴ dans cette île déserte, j’ai vu plusieurs fois des vaisseaux qui passaient, mais il n’y en eut que deux qui vinrent y mouiller.¹⁵ Incertain de quelle nation ils étaient, je m’en approchai pour les examiner. Mais quelques Espagnols qui avaient déjà mis pied à terre, ne m’eurent pas plutôt aperçu qu’ils tirèrent¹⁶ sur moi et me poursuivirent jusque dans les bois, où je grimpai sur un arbre. Je ne fus pas découvert, quoiqu’ils rodassent¹⁷ dans les environs et qu’ils tuassent quantité de chèvres sous mes yeux. Enfin j’aperçus vos navires que je pris aussitôt pour anglais. J’allumai un feu sur un rocher près du rivage pour vous donner le signal de ma détresse.¹⁸ Vous me comprîtes et, grâce à votre humanité, je puis espérer de revoir ma patrie.”

XXI. VINGT ET UNIÈME LEÇON.

THE PRESENT PARTICIPLE.

1. The Present Participle is invariable in French. Ex. : —

Une femme mourant de soif.

A woman dying of thirst.

Une preuve convainquant tout le monde.

A proof convincing everybody.

Une mère consolant sa fille.

A mother consoling her daughter.

Une pluie fécondant la terre.

A rain fructifying the earth.

2. When the Present Participle loses its verbal nature and becomes a participial adjective, it follows the noun, and agrees with it as an adjective. Ex. : —

Une femme mourante.

A dying woman.

Une preuve convainquante.

A convincing proof.

Des paroles consolantes.

Consoling words.

3. The Present Participle is often used in English as a substantive, which is not the case in French. It can sometimes be rendered by a noun, in most cases by the Infinitive (see Lesson XX., § 1).
Examples : —

La lecture est un passe-temps agréable.

Reading is an agreeable pastime.

Sa passion dominante est la chasse.

His ruling passion is hunting.

I like dancing, j'aime à danser.

4. When an English Present Participle has reference to a substantive which is not in the Nominative Case, it is rendered in French by the Present or Imperfect of the Indicative, with the relative pronoun qui before it. Ex. : —

Il portait une bouteille qui contenait du poison.

He carried a bottle containing poison.

5. An English Present Participle preceded by any preposition but by and on (§ 7), such as, of, from, before, after, for, without, is rendered in French by the Infinitive with de, à, pour or sans (as we have seen before). Ex. : —

L'art d'écrire est très-ancien.

The art of writing is very old.

Je connais sa manière de penser et d'agir.

I know his manner of thinking and acting.

Ne l'empêchez pas de faire du bien.

Do not prevent him from doing good.

Je l'ai rencontré avant de partir.

I met him before leaving.

On ne peut pas trahir la vérité sans se rendre coupable.

One cannot speak against the truth without being guilty.

6. Sometimes the English Present Participle is used substantively with a possessive pronoun before it; then it must be rendered in French by the conjunction que and the Indicative or Subjunctive, according as the case requires. Ex. : —

Je doute qu'il soit un honnête homme.

I doubt his being an honest man.

Nous avons appris qu'il s'est fait soldat.

We heard of his becoming a soldier.

THE GERUND,—PRESENT PARTICIPLE WITH EN.

7. The Gerund is the Present Participle with the preposition en prefixed. It generally denotes 1, either a means by which the object of the leading clause is attained, or 2, a simultaneous action, that is, an action during the transaction of which another is acted by the same subject. It is always invariable, and corresponds to the English Present Participle preceded by the prepositions by, in, and on or while; or is sometimes rendered by the simple Participle without preposition. Ex. :—

1. Denoting a means :—

On se forme l'esprit en lisant de bons livres.

Je lis le journal en déjeûnant.

I read the paper while breakfasting.

NOTE. The English by with a Participle is rendered in two cases only by par and the Infinitive, viz., with commencer, to commence, begin, and finir, to terminate with, to do something at last. Ex. :—

Je veux commencer par réciter ma leçon.

I will begin by saying my lesson.

Il finit par me demander pardon.

At last he begged my pardon (he ended by asking).

8. To enforce the simultaneousness of the two actions, tout is often placed before the Gerund. Ex. :—

READING LESSON.

GESLER CONDUIT TELL À KUSNACH.

Tell, dans la barque, était moins ému des cris des soldats, du bruit des vagues écumantes, du sifflement des vents déchaînés, qu'il ne le fut en découvrant la caverne de Grutli. Il attendait le trépas,¹ et ne songeait qu'à l'avantage que son pays pourrait tirer de la mort du gouverneur. Il jouissait en silence de la peur, des gémissements,² du tourment qu'éprouvait Gesler, lorsqu'un des rameurs, tout-à-coup s'adressant à cet homme cruel : " Nous sommes perdus," dit-il, " il n'est plus en notre puissance de maintenir au milieu des flots la barque emportée³ par le vent du nord qui, dans un instant, va la briser en pièces contre les rochers du rivage. Un seul homme, le plus renommé, le plus habile de nos trois cantons dans l'art de braver les tempêtes du lac, peut nous sauver de la mort. Cet homme est ici : le voilà ! le voilà chargé de tes chaînes ! Choisis, Gesler, choisis promptement entre le trépas ou sa liberté."

Gesler frémit⁴ à cette parole. Sa haine violente pour Tell combat dans son âme pusillanime l'amour même qu'il a pour la vie ; il hésite encore, il ne répond point, mais les prières, les murmures des soldats et des rameurs qui lui demandent, qui le pressent de sauver leurs jours et les siens, en délivrant⁵ son prisonnier ; la crainte d'être mal obéi, s'il se refuse aux vœux de tous, et la tempête qui augmente, déterminent enfin Gesler. " Qu'on brise⁶ ses chaînes," dit-il, " je lui pardonne tous ses crimes, je lui rends⁷ la vie et la liberté, si son adresse nous amène au port."

Les soldats, les rameurs, s'empressent⁸ de rendre libre Guillaume. Ses fers sont tombés, il se lève, et, sans prononcer un seul mot, il s'empare du gouvernail.⁹ Faisant mouvoir sous sa main la barque, comme l'enfant fait plier la baguette¹⁰ qu'il tourne à son gré, il oppose la proue¹¹ aux deux vents, dont les forces ainsi divisées la tiennent en équilibre. Profitant ensuite d'un moment de calme, il tourne de la proue à la poupe,¹² maintient la barque dans la direction qui seule peut la sauver, fait prendre les rames à deux seuls rameurs, dont il dirige les efforts, et s'avance, malgré les vents, malgré les flots et la tempête, vers le détroit¹³ qu'il veut repasser. Les ténèbres¹⁴ empêchent Gesler de s'apercevoir qu'il retourne aux mêmes lieux d'où il est parti. Tell continue sa marche ; la nuit presque entière s'écoule ;¹⁵ il est rentré dans le lac d'Uri, il aperçoit la lueur mourante du signal donné sur le mont d'Altdorf. C'est cette lueur¹⁶ qui lui sert d'étoile ; il connaît le lac depuis longtemps, il en évite les écueils,¹⁷ il s'approche pourtant du rivage qui borde le canton de Schwitz ; il pense à Werner Stauffacher ; il calcule que Werner doit être en marche, et que les chemins encombrés de neige, le forceront de côtoyer¹⁸ le lac. Dans ce faible espoir, il navigue, en feignant d'ignorer les lieux où la tempête pousse la barque, en augmentant les terreurs de Gesler et de ses soldats.

(To be continued.)

1. Death. 2. Sighs. 3. Carried away. 4. To shudder, tremble. 5. To liberate. 6. To break (see p. 372, § 15). 7. I give. 8. See p. 388, § 9. 9. The helm, rudder. 10. The rod. 11. The prow. 12. XXII. VINGT-DEUXIÈME LEÇON.

THE PAST PARTICIPLE.

Every possible difficulty in regard to the agreement of Past Participle may be solved by the application of one of the three following rules :—

1. The Past Participle, when used adjectively, is placed after the noun and agrees with it as an adjective. Ex.:—

Une fleur flétrie, a withered flower.

Une lettre bien écrite, a well written letter.

Des maisons bien meublées, well furnished houses.

2. The Past Participle accompanied by the auxiliary être agrees with the subject, except in reflective verbs. Ex.:—

Cette lettre est bien écrite, this letter is well written.

Mes deux tantes sont mortes, both my aunts are dead.

La ville fut prise, the town was taken.

La nuit sera bientôt passée, the night will soon be over.

3. The Past Participle accompanied by the auxiliary avoir (and by être in reflective verbs) agrees with the direct object, but only when that direct object precedes. Ex.:—

La lettre que j'ai reçue.

The letter I have received.

Les lettres que j'ai reçues.

The letters I have received.

Les dames que nous avons rencontrées.

The ladies we have met.

Les affaires que vous avez entreprises.

The affairs you have undertaken.

Où sont les livres? — je les ai perdus.

Where are the books? I have lost them.

Où est ta plume? — je l'ai perdue.

Where is thy pen? I have lost it.

Où sont les fruits que vous m'avez envoyés?

Where are the fruits you sent me?

But there is no agreement in the participle when there is no direct object, or when the direct object comes after the participle.

Example : —

J'ai reçu une lettre — deux lettres.

I have received one letter — two letters.

J'ai rencontré une dame — deux dames.

I met one lady — two ladies.

J'ai perdu les livres.

I have lost the books.

J'ai perdu la plume.

I have lost the pen.

Nous avons mangé.

We have eaten.

Ils ont répondu à notre lettre.

They have answered our letter.

Mes frères avaient dormi.

My brothers had slept.

4. In reflective verbs, as être takes the place of avoir, the participle agrees with the second pronoun, if that is a direct object.

Examples : —

Ils se sont présentés.

They presented themselves.

Elle s'est blessée.

She wounded herself.

But when the second pronoun is an indirect object, the participle remains unchanged, unless the direct object precedes, as in verbs conjugated with avoir. Ex. : —

Ils se sont présenté des fleurs.

They presented flowers to each other.

Ils se sont écrit deux lettres.

They wrote a letter to each other.

But the participle must agree if the direct object (fleurs, lettres) precedes. Ex. : —

Les fleurs qu'ils se sont présentées.

Les lettres qu'ils se sont écrites.

APPLICATION OF THE ABOVE RULES.

As the application of the above rules may present some difficulty, special rules will be given, though all that follows is really embraced in §§ 2 and 3.

5. The Past Participle of a neuter or intransitive verb conjugated with avoir never agrees, when conjugated with être it always agrees with the subject. Ex.: —

Les deux heures que j'ai dormi.

The two hours during which I slept; que is equivalent to pendant lesquelles.

Ils sont tombés, they fell. Elles sont tombées.

Hence also the Past Part. été is always invariable: Elle a été, Elles ont été.

6. The Past Participle of an impersonal verb is always invariable, as:

Les pluies qu'il y a eu cet hiver.

The rains we have had this winter.

7. A Past Participle does not agree with en (of it, of them, some), because en is not considered as a direct object. Ex.: —

Avez-vous des fleurs? — Oui, il nous en a donné.

But the presence of en does not prevent the participle from agreeing with the real direct object if that precedes. Ex.:

La bonne opinion que j'en avais conçue.

The good opinion I had conceived of it.

8. A Past Participle between two que's is invariable. Ex.: Les livres que vous avez cru que je vous donnerais, the books you thought I would give you. The first que is not the object of cru, but of donnerais.

9. The Past Participle followed by an infinitive agrees when the object that precedes is governed by the participle, if the object depends on the infinitive the participle is invariable. Ex.: La dame que j'ai vue peindre, the lady I saw painting. La dame que j'ai vu peindre means, The lady whom I saw painted, that is, whose portrait I saw taken. La dame que j'ai entendue chanter, the lady I heard singing ; but, La chanson que j'ai entendu chanter, the song I heard sung, — because que is governed not by entendu but by chanter. For the same reason Je les ai laissés partir, I allowed them to go ; but, ils se sont laissé surprendre par l'ennemi ; they allowed themselves to be surprised by the enemy. In this last sentence se is the object of surprendre, as it is equivalent to, They allowed the enemy to surprise THEM.

10. The past Participle of the verb faire followed by an infinitive never agrees, because faire thus connected with an infinitive is considered for all purposes of government as forming but one verb with it. Thus in Je le fais passer, le is the object of fais passer ; in Je lui fais passer le pont, le pont is the direct object, and lui and not le must be used, as fais passer cannot have two direct objects. Hence fait is invariable in the phrase : Une femme s'est présentée à la porte, je l'ai fait passer, a woman presented herself at the door, I let her pass.

11. After the Past Participles dû, pu, and voulu an infinitive may be understood, in which case they remain invariable, as : Je lui ai rendu tous les services que j'ai dû . . . que j'ai pu (that is lui rendre), I rendered him all the services I should . . . I could (render him). But, Les sommes qu'il m'a dues, the sums he owed me — dues agrees with its object que which precedes.

12. The Past Participles attendu, excepté, passé, supposé, and vu are sometimes employed as prepositions. They then precede the noun they govern, and are invariable.

Other instances might be adduced, but a strict application of §§ 1, 2, 3, and 4, will be found to cover all cases of doubt.

XXIII. VINGT-TROISIÈME LEÇON.

THE PARTICIPLE ABSOLUTE.

1. The Participle Absolute is used, as in English, instead of accessory and subordinate clauses beginning with a conjunction which have the same subject as the leading clause. Ex. : —

Régulus s'éloigna de Rome, tenant les yeux fixés à la terre, et laissant sa femme et ses enfants.

L'ennemi, voyant (as he saw) notre petit nombre, recommença le combat.

Néoptolème, poursuivant son discours, me dit, etc.

Le charpentier, laissant son ouvrage à moitié fait, alla dîner.

L'empereur Conrade, ne voulant plus tenter la fortune, abandonna subitement la Terre-Sainte, etc.

Ne sachant que faire, il prit ce parti.

2. When the accessory sentence expresses an event which has taken place before another expressed in the principal sentence, the compound form of the Participle Absolute (ayant vu, ayant fait, etc.) is used. Ex. : —

Le comte de Toulouse, ayant sommé (having summoned) la ville de se rendre, la déclara sa possession.

Le roi ayant tout sacrifié pour le bonheur de son peuple, fut enfin la victime de ses bonnes intentions.

Lysandre ayant fait un riche butin (booty) dans la prise d'Athènes, envoya à Lacédémone tout l'or et l'argent qu'il avait pris.

The king being dead his son succeeded.

La ville ayant été prise, les soldats la pillèrent.

The town being taken, the soldiers pillaged it.

READING LESSON.

GESLER CONDUIT TELL À KUSNACH.

(Fin.)

Enfin l'orient¹ se colore, et la tempête semble s'appaiser aux premiers rayons de l'aurore. Le jour naissant découvre à Tell les roches voisines d'Altdorf, avant que le tyran ait eu le temps de les reconnaître ; Guillaume y dirige sa barque et la fait marcher plus rapidement. Gesler, dont la férocité revient à mesure que le danger s'éloigne, observe avec des yeux sombres. Il veut, mais il n'ose pas encore le faire charger de liens.² Ses soldats et ses matelots³ reconnaissent bientôt où ils sont, en instruisent le gouverneur, qui s'avançant vers Tell avec colère, lui demande d'une voix terrible, pourquoi la barque, qu'il a guidée, a repris le chemin d'Altdorf.

Guillaume sans lui répondre, pousse la barque droit⁴ à un rocher peu éloigné de la rive,⁵ saisit d'une main prompte l'arc et la flèche⁶ qu'un archer tenait à la main, et, rapide comme l'éclair, s'élance⁷ de la barque sur le rocher. Là, sans s'arrêter, il saute sur un autre roc, gravit⁸ aussitôt la roche escarpée,⁹ et se montre sur le sommet, semblable à l'aigle des Alpes quand il se repose auprès des nuages, et qu'il promène ses yeux perçants sur les troupeaux des vallons.

Le gouverneur étonné pousse un cri de fureur, de rage. Il commande aussitôt qu'on débarque, et que ses soldats, dispersés, environnent de toutes parts le roc où il voit le héros. On obéit ; les archers descendent et préparent déjà leurs arcs ; Gesler, qui marche au milieu d'eux, veut que leurs flèches réunies s'abreuvent toutes du sang de Guillaume. Guillaume aussi a ses desseins. Il ne s'arrête, il ne se montre que pour attirer l'ennemi. Il laisse approcher cette troupe armée jusqu'à la juste distance où son trait⁶ peut donner la mort. Il regarde, fixe Gesler, pose sa flèche sur sa corde, et, l'adressant au cœur du gouverneur, il la fait voler¹⁰ dans les airs. La flèche vole, siffle,¹¹ frappe au milieu du cœur de Gesler. Le tyran tombe, bégaie sa fureur, et son âme s'exhale au milieu des imprécations. Tell a déjà disparu ; plus léger que le faon,¹² s'est précipité du sommet du roc, il court, il vole sur la glace ; il gagne, traverse des sentiers¹³ déserts, et prend le chemin d'Altdorf.

6. On the verb faire. The verb faire when followed by an Infinitive with a dir. obj., requires the person in the ind. obj., the two verbs being considered as one verbal expression the sense of which is always active. The reason of it is that an active verb cannot have two direct complements (see L. XXII, 10). Ex. : —

Je lui ai fait écrire cinquante mots.

I have made him write fifty words.

Sa mère lui a fait raconter cette histoire.

His mother caused him to relate that story.

But if there be no direct object after the Infinitive that follows faire, the person stands in the direct object. Ex. : —

Je les ai fait partir, I have made them depart.

Nous les avons fait renoncer à leur prétentions.

We have made them abandon their pretentions.

7. The verbs écouter, entendre, laisser and voir, also, are sometimes used in this manner, as : —

Je lui ai vu maltraiter son chien.

I saw him ill-treat his dog.

But this is not generally adopted, and it is better to say : —

Je l'ai vu maltraiter son chien.

J'ai vu le petit garçon (dir. obj.) maltraiter son chien.

8. When the Infinitive is followed by a subordinate sentence with que, the indirect object is preferred, as : — — Je lui ai entendu dire qu'il partirait.

I heard him say that he was going to leave.

J'ai entendu dire à son père qu'il lui pardonnerait.

I heard his father say that he would forgive him.
